Introduction

In 1982 I thought it might be interesting to look into my family history. I started out knowing very little apart from the fact that my father, and his father, came from Southampton in Hampshire. I quickly found that there were far more references to the name Pitfield in the county of Dorset than anywhere else, and I established that my own Southampton Pitfields originated in Dorset.

Soon after starting on my genealogical quest I made contact with Michael Pitfield from Buckinghamshire who had already been doing some work on the Pitfield family. He had established that most of the Pitfield lines are descended from a Robert Pitfold of Allington in Dorset who had ten sons and who died in 1586. Michael and I worked together for some years on the Pitfield lines and found that we were both descendants of Sebastian Pitfold, the youngest of Robert's sons. Together we started to put more flesh on the bones of our pedigrees.

Michael Pitfield still does small pieces of Pitfield research and is heavily involved with the Dorset Online Parish Clerks (OPC) where he has published much material relating to the parish of Fordington (http://www.opcdorset.org/). I would like to acknowledge the help and support that I have received from Michael over many years.

I have continued to follow up Pitfold/Pitfield references wherever I can find them, with the aim of connecting them all together. These tables and notes show the results of my research. They are the sixth set of tables that I have produced on paper and incorporate revised interpretations of previous research, as well as new references uncovered in the last few years. I hope that by leaving copies with Record Offices and Genealogical Societies they will be available for many years to come for anybody who has an interest in the Pitfield family.

These tables do not show every Pitfields who has ever lived, as I have many references to individuals or small family groups found outside of Dorset and Devon, that I have been unable to connect with the main lines. I have shown the vast majority of those named Pitfield who appear in the 1911 census in England, Scotland and Wales, where I have been able to connect them to earlier generations. For those Pitfields who were married or born after 1911 I have relied on information passed onto to me by individual family members over the past few years. I have decided not to show any living Pitfield on these tables (including myself) for the sake of individual's privacy and possible exposure to identity fraud. If you had a grandparent whose name was Pitfield there is a very good chance that he/she will be shown on the tables that follow, allowing you to follow your line back through the generations.

The Dorset Family

The majority of the charts and notes in this volume relate to the Dorset family and show the known Pitfold/Pitfield descendants of Robert Pytfolde of Allington, Dorset (1516-1586). Details of the origins of this family are included in the Dorset Family Preface.

Petfield, Peatfield, Patefield, Pilfield, Pilfold etc

There are a number of family names, in various parts of Britain, that sound similar to Pitfield. Some of these names are well established and in some cases their use predates the name Pitfold, that later evolved into Pitfield. On occasion Pitfield might be written as Petfield or visa versa, which can cause problems when researching. In other instances these other family names have occasionally been written as Pitfield, with that spelling becoming the norm for a certain individual and for the generations that follow on. I have done very little research into the families of Petfield, Peatfield, Patefield etc but wherever the name changes into Pitfield I have researched the lines as much as possible, often working back to when the name change took place. Many of these family lines are connected to families that originated in Lancashire - see below and the Lancashire section of these tables. Other Pitfield families, whose names has evolved from other names, are shown elsewhere in these tables.

Unconnected Families

After the Dorset tables I have included a number of charts that show some family groups that I have been unable to connect with the main lines.

Lancashire Pitfields

The name Pitfield is also present in the county of Lancashire. These Pitfields are not connected with the Dorset family. Details of the origins of this family are included in the preface to this section.

How to navigate the tables

The numbering on the Dorset family tables follows the seniority of Robert's children – thus, for example, all tables that start with 8 show the descendants of Robert's eighth son (Henry). Robert Pitfold himself, as the "founding father" of the Dorset family is shown on Table Dorset 0.

If you find a person of interest and wish to trace their Pitfield ancestors then the tables can be followed back by dropping the last digit in the number that used in a table to navigate to its predecessor. Thus, the person who heads Table Dorset 10.1.1.4.1.3 will also be shown on Table Dorset 10.1.1.4.1 together with the generation or generations who precede him. The graphic below shows how the tables that show the descendants of the 10th child of Robert Pitfold (1516-1586) - namely Sebastian Pitfold (1570-1613) - are interconnected.

There are a number of unconnected tables at the end of the Dorset section. These shown small family groups who I cannot link with the main lines.

Origins of the Pitfields

Much of this document deals with the Pitfield descendants of Robert Pitfolde (c1516-1586) of the parish of Allington in Dorset. It is thought that Robert was the son of a John PYTTEFFOLD who was assessed for tax at Allington in 1525 and probably died around 1546.

I have been unable to find any reference to the name of PITFOLD, or variants, in Dorset before 1525. However an earlier family grouping has been found in the Berkshire parish of Brightwalton, who appeared to have used the surname PITFALL and PITFOLD. The Manor of Brightwalton was held by the Abbey of Battle in Sussex. The Berkshire references are shown on the charts overleaf, alongside early Dorset references.

The earliest Berkshire reference is in 1490 when a William PITFOLD, is listed as a juror in the Manor Court at Brightwalton.

A Richard PITFALL/PITVALE/PITFOLD appears as a juror between 1495 and 1512.

In a later Manorial Court Roll, that covers the years 1512-1529, a Richard PITFALL and a John PITFALL are listed in the same jury and a Richard PITFALL is listed in two further juries.

In 1522 a list was made of all the tenants of the Abbot of Battle, within the Manor of Brightwalton, which incudes a John PITFOLD and a Richard PITFOLDE. A list was also made of those who acted as servants, which includes another John PITFOLD.

In 1525 a John PYTFOLDE is assessed for tax at Brightwalton - the same year as John PYTTEFFOLD was taxed at Allington, Dorset.

There are subsequent references to the name PITFOLD and PITFALL in and around Brightwalton but by the end of the 16th century the PITFOLD spelling appears to disappear and the PITFALL form dominates. However, during the same period, the PITFOLD name, or similar variants, became established in Dorset, evolving into the name PITFIELD by the early 17th century.

To have three people with the same surname in the Manor of Brightwalton over the period of 1490-1529 implies that the family may have been present there for some time - to be members of a jury shows they must have been property owners, or at least be tenants of the Manor. We can only speculate how the three were related.

As can be seen in the charts overleaf there are various other references to the names PITFALL and PITFOLD, in the county of Berkshire, some of which predate the earliest reference in Dorset and some that run concurrently. Of special interest is the fact a John PYTFOLDE is listed at Brightwalton, Berkshire and a John PYTTEFFOLD is listed at Allington, Dorset - both in the year 1525.

I have been unable to prove any connection between the Berkshire family and the Dorset family but I think it is highly likely that John PYTTEFFOLD of Allington may have moved from Berkshire to Dorset. Robert PITFOLD (1516-1586) of Allington named his eldest son Richard, which could be significant as it was a popular name in the Berkshire family.

Still earlier PITFOLD references exist, in the records of Waverley Abbey, in the county of Surrey, which list a Phillip PYTFOLD who was ordained a subdeacon in 1459 and a priest in 1462. Other people named in the same documents from Waverley had “surnames” that matched nearby towns and villages, so it seems likely Philip could have come from the tithing of Pitfold near Haslemere, Surrey, a few miles from Waverley Abbey. Thus he could have been known as Philip of Pitfold. The Manor of Pitfold had existed from at least the tenth century and it is possible the name PITFOLD came from an early inhabitant of the tithing. A property called High Pitfold, near Haslemere, exists today.

An earlier instance of the name can be found in William PITFOLD of London, who was a member of the Guild of Merchant Taylors and a Freeman of the City of London. In 1398 he is listed in the Pardon Rolls as William PITFOLD alias William Self. He died in 1422 and left a will that has not survived.

The earliest recorded instance of the name PITFOLD that has been found is a John PITFOLD, who was listed as a Man-at-Arms, under Captain Sir William de Windsor in the Standing Force in Ireland in 1374. Sir William was Viceroy of Ireland and the husband of Alice Perrers, mistress of Edward III.

A book on the origin of surnames, published during the 19th century, suggested that the PITFIELD name came from one Ralph de Pettiville who came to England from the town of Pettiville, near Rouen in France, in 1198. However there seems to be no evidence to substantiate this.

It seems impossible to say with any certainty where the PITFOLD name originated and how the family came to settle in Dorset and Devon, but I think it is likely that John PYTTEFFOLD of Allington, Dorset had a connection to the Brightwalton, Berkshire family.

Lancashire Pitfields

In the county of Lancashire the name PITFIELD evolved from PAITFIELD and/or PATEFIELD. These changes were generally quite modern, with the earliest instance of PITFIELD appearing in the late 18th century. The original forms of PAITFIELD and PATEFIELD, which have very early origins, have survived, alongside Pitfield, down to the present day. The Lancashire PITFIELDs have no connection to the Dorset family. I have shown the parts of the Lancashire families that “became” PITFIELDs in the Lancashire PITFIELDS section of this booklet.

During much of the 16th century the names PITFOLD and PITFALL appear at and around Brightwalton, Berkshire, and the names seem to have been interchangeable. However, the last reference to the name PITFOLD is the marriage of William PITFOLD in 1572. All references in the parish records of Brightwalton, apart from the marriage of Alice PITFOLDE in 1559, are for the name PITFALL.

The earliest reference found for the name PITFOLD in Dorset is of John PYTTFFOLDE in 1525. It is possible the name was in use in Dorset at an earlier date, but no references have been found. It's possible that John Pytfolde originated in Berkshire and moved to Dorset - no proof.

SUBSEQUENT CENTURIES

By the 17th century the name PITFOLD had disappeared in Berkshire to be replaced by PITFALL.
The family appear to move out from Brightwalton, with entries appearing in the records of nearby parishes. A number of wills are left by members of the PITFALL family in and around Brightwalton - many of them being yeoman farmers. The name continues to appear in parish records and probate records until the early 18th century and then it seems to disappear. In the 1841 census, and in subsequent censuses, not a single PITFALL is listed anywhere in the country.

At the beginning of the 17th century descendants of Robert PITFOLD of Allington (1516-1586) were established in south west Dorset and south east Devon. As the century progressed the name changed from PITFOLD to PITFIELD with some members of the family being referred to as PITFIELD alias PITFOLD in some documents. The name PITFOLD eventually disappeared and the name PITFIELD became established.

The Dorset Family - Preface

As outlined in the Introduction the majority of the charts and notes in this volume relate to the Dorset family. The charts show all of the known Pitfold/Pitfield descendants of Robert Pitfold (1516-1586) who lived in the parish of Allington, Dorset.

Robert Pitfold (1516-1586) of Allington, Dorset, had ten sons. Seven of these sons had children of their own. Most of the early family members remained in the south western corner of Dorset or in the south eastern corner of Devon. Later generations dispersed elsewhere in the country or settled in America, Canada, Australia and elsewhere. The tables follow a numbering system based on the ten children of Robert. Therefore, for example, any table that starts Dorset 8, shows part of the family descended from Robert's eighth son i.e. Henry Pitfold (-1637).

It is fortunate that parish records for Allington and surrounding parishes exist from the late 16th century and contain many Pitfold/Pitfield entries. However, some registers have gaps in them where records were not kept or pages have been destroyed by decay. Although the number of Pitfields were not numerous they tended to use a small number of christian names, so it was not uncommon for several cousins, bearing the same first name, to be living in the same or neighbouring parishes. It was also not unknown for two brothers to have the same Christian name. Records of marriages have been particularly difficult to find, meaning the first name of Pitfield wives are often known but their surname and date of marriage is unknown

There are a number of Pitfold/Pitfield wills that have survived - these, together with legal records, have helped me establish the relationships of various family groups. I have shown in the tables and notes where there is any uncertainty about the relationship of any one Pitfield to others, and in some places I have shown more that one possible parentage for an individual.

Unfortunately all wills, that were proved in various courts in the county of Devon, were destroyed by enemy action during World War II. A number of these were made by members of the Pitfold/Pitfield family.

1 John Pytefolde is listed in the tax returns of the parish of Allington, Dorset for the years 1525 and 1545. He is shown in this pedigree as the father of Robert Pitfolde (c1516-1586) but there is no definite proof of this. It's possible that John died c1546. He appears in the tax records at Allington in 1545 but Robert Pitfold is listed in 1547.

2 In 1545 Robert Pitfold appears in the tax returns for the parish of Stoke Abbott. In 1552 he had a grant from the Borough of Bridport for a piece of land in Allington, whilst in the same year he is listed as one of the church wardens at Allington. He appears in a tax return at Allington in 1559.

3 In a deposition made in 1580 Robert Pitfold stated he was aged 64 years (C 24/144 National Archives)

4 In 1555 William Crabbe of Netherbury made his will in which he named his wife as Johanne and his brother in law as Robert Pitfold.

5 Robert left a will dated 1583 and proved 1586

...Richard eldest son... ...George second son... ...Robert third son... ...Andrew fourth son... ...Thomas fifth son... ...John the Elder sixth son... ...Henry eighth son... ...John the Younger ninth son... ...Bastian tenth son...

...deed 28th November 20 Elizabeth (1578) which was granted to John Pitfold the Older my sixth son and to Alice Adeyne alias Barbette and to the heirs male of their two bodies...

...Joane my wife... ...to grandchildren (no names given)... ...Joan Bilke my sister....

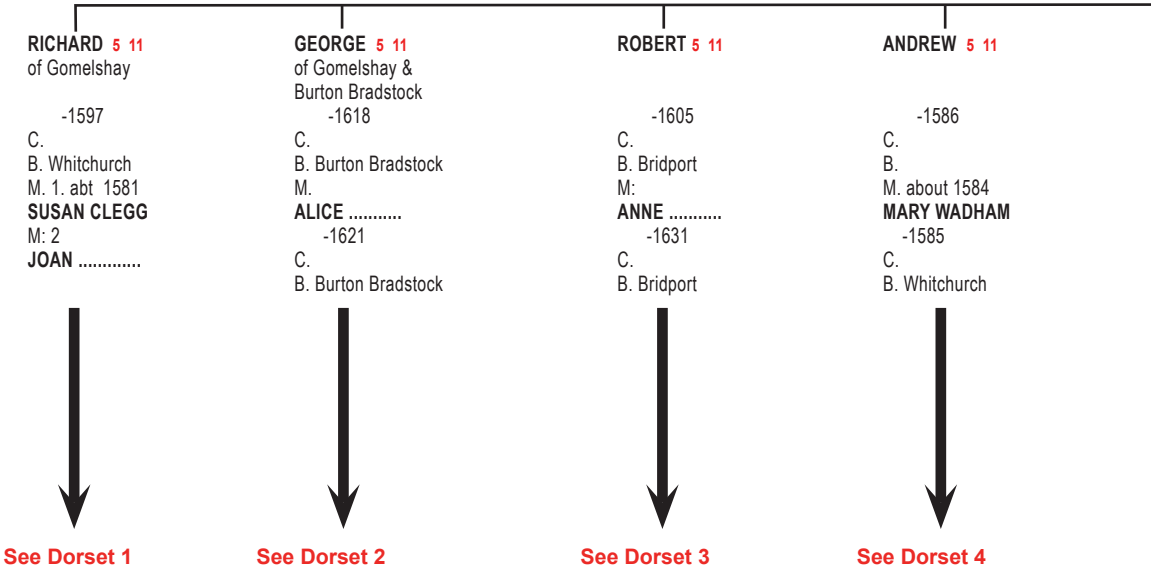
Robert was an extensive land owner and his will names land in the parishes of Allington, Whitchurch Canonicorum, Long Bredy, Marshwood, Symondsbury, Walditch, Shipton Gorge and Powerstock. He also gives details of those he bought the lands from, the names of tenants who occupied them, and how they were to be divided amongst his children. Robert died in 1587.

In 1589 an Inquisition Post Mortem was held to enquire what lands Robert held. This gave similar information as was contained in Robert's will.

6 Case from Court of Requests 1595 states that Henry and Sebastian were executors of the will of Joan Pitfold their like deceased mother, wife and executrix of Robert Pitfold, their like deceased father (will of Joan has not survived).

7 In a case of 1616 it was stated that Joan Pitfold, mother of John Pitfold, Henry Pitfold and Sebastian Pitfold, deceased had been dead about 18 years. Other references put the date of Joan's death as circa 1594.

8 Due to the references at 6 and 7 above I think it is likely that Joan was only the mother of Robert's youngest children and therefore Robert had been married previously.



See Dorset 1 See Dorset 2 See Dorset 3 See Dorset 4

Dorset 0

9 John Bilke of Netherbury, Dorset left a will dated 1572 in which he named his wife Joan Bilke.

10 Magdalen Pitfold married 1563 - nothing else known. I have shown her as a probable sister to Robert of Allington, though it is possible she was Robert's daughter or was related in some other way.

11 Andrew Pitfolde left a will in 1586 in which he named his eight brothers and his sister Eleanor Pitfolde (see Table Dorset 4 for more details).

12 Case from Court of Requests 1595, bought by Sebastian Pitfold and Henry Pitfold, as the sons and executors of the Joanne Pitfold their mother deceased, who was the executrix of Robert Pitfold, deceased, who was the father of Sebastian and Henry. Sebastian and Henry were making complaint against Walter Tucker of Axminster, claiming he had not kept to a pre-marriage agreement drawn up between Robert Pitfold and Walter Tucker of Axminster, Devon for a marriage to be had between Eleanor Pitfold, daughter of Robert Pitfold and Richard Tucker, son of Walter Tucker. The case indicated the marriage took place circa 1586.

13 Will, made 1603, of Walter Harris alias Tucker of Axminster - names son Richard Harris alias Tucker.

14 A Nicholas Pytfold is listed in a tax return of 1559 in the tything of Askerswell. Robert Pytfold was listed at Allington in the same tax return, so it seems highly likely that Nicholas was Robert's brother.

The 1559 tax return is the only reference I have to Nicholas so it is not known if he married and had children.

1 Richard Pitfold named as the eldest son of Robert Pitfold of Allington in Robert's will.

...Item I give and bequeath unto Richard Pitfolde my best son all my lands tenements and hereditaments situate lying and being in Athlington aforesaid in the said county whiche I of late bought and purchased to me mine heirs and assignes of Elnor Lane widowe and Richard Lane her sonne to have and to hold the same Lands tenements and hereditaments unto the said Richard Pitfolde and to the heires male of his bodye lawfully begotten or to be begotten to hold of the theise confirmed(?)

....Item I give and bequeathe unto the said Richard Pitfolde my sonne all my timber and woode whiche lyeth uppon the ground called Gomeshale (?) and Northehaire nowe in the tenure of James(?) Gregorye als Edwardes(?)....

2 In the Inquisition Post Mortem of Robert Pitfold (1516-1586), made in 1589, there is mentioned an indenture dated 1581 in which Robert gave lands to his son Richard and his wife Susan Clegg.

3 Richard Pitfold made a will made and proved 1597
...Richard Pitfolde of Gomelshay, parish of Whitchurch, Dorset. yeoman...
...buried in churchyard of Whitchurch....
Richard left twenty pounds and a number of specific household items to his daughter Ursula to have when she reached the age of seven
He named his brothers George Pitfolde and Robert Pitfolde as overseers of his will
His wife Joan was to have the use of the twenty pounds until it was to be given to Ursula
...the residue of all my goods, chattels and money not before by these presented given or bequeathed in consideration that my wife shall well and orderly bring up my daughter Ursula Pitfold aforesaid I give and bequeath unto Joane my wife and her by these presented I do constitute ordain and make my full and sole Executrix....

Will was witnessed by John Pitfold junior

4 Joan re-married to William Sprake of Whitchurch Canonicourm in 1597.

5 William Sprake "of Gomelshay, Whitchurch Canonicorum, yeoman" names his wife Joan in his will made in 1602. He also names Ursula Pitfold - this is the last reference to Ursula that has been found.

6 The wording of Richard's will seems to imply that Ursula was Richard's daughter but not Joane's, so she could have been the daughter of Richard and Susan.

GOMELSHAY/GUMMERSHAY, WHITCHURCH CANONICORUM

Richard Pitfold (-1597), shown here, described himself as "of Gomelshay" when he made his will in 1597.

William Sprake, who married Richard Pitfold's widow Joan, described himself as "of Gomelshay" in his will of 1602

His brother George Pitfold (-1618), Dorset 2 was described as "of Gomelshay" in a legal dispute circa 1599.

Another brother Henry Pitfold (-1637) Dorset 8 settled on the tenement and land called Gomelshay, where he remained until his death.

Gomelshay was part of the Manor of Wootton Abbas, within the parish of Whitchurch Canonicorum. Unfortunately records of the Manor have not survived.

During this period it was commonplace for leases to be issued for a number of "lives" often worded "for the term of their lives successfully". It seems likely that the three brothers purchased a lease on Gomelshay, from the Manor, on their three lives. A price would have been paid when the lease was taken out and the lessees would pay a yearly rent, until such time as the last of them died, when the premises would revert back to the Manor. This type of lease was known as copyhold tenure and took its name from the fact that the "title deed" received by the tenant was a copy of the relevant entry in the manorial court roll. A tenant – or mesne lord – who held land in this way was legally known as a copyholder.

For details of the continuing Pitfold/Pitfield connection with Gomelshay, following the death of the last lessee, Henry Pitfold (-1637) see Dorset 8.

1 George Pitfold (-1618) was the second son of Robert Pitfold of Allington (-1586) and was left land in the parishes of Whitchurch Canonicorum, Marshwood, Symondsbury and Powerstock in his father's will. He also came into possession of Gomelshay in Whitchurch Canonicorum, that had been the property of his elder brother Richard who died in 1597 (See table 2) - a document dated between 1596 and 1616 refers to "George Pytfolde of Gomelshays in the said county of Dorset, yeoman" (C3/270/1 - National Archives). Another document dated 1597 (C 2/Eliz/P11/28 - National Archives) refers to "George Pytfolde of Whitchurch, yeoman".

2 George Pytfolde is listed in the Tudor Muster Roll of 1569 at Allington - implies a date of birth around 1550-1555.

3 Andrew Pitfold (-1586) refers to his sister-in-law Alice Pitfold and to her daughter (unnamed) in the will he made in 1586. (See Dorset 4) He could have been referring to Alice, the wife of George and their daughter (possibly Edith). Alternatively he could have been referring to Alice, the wife of his brother John Pitfold the Elder (see Dorset 6).

4 John Pitfold of Burton Bradstock (1599-) died soon after 1626, as he had no further children baptised after this date, although no burial entry has been found for him. "Pentichost Pitfold widow" was listed at Burton Bradstock in a taxation record of 1628. Pentichost Pitfold, widow, married Thomas Gudge in 1631. Thomas Gudge of Stoke Abbott mentions his wife Penticost in his will of 1665.

5 Penticost Gudge of Broadway left a will proved at Taunton in 1670 (this will has not survived).

6 There is a burial entry at Burton Brastock in 1625 for "John son of George Pitfold" This most likely refers to a George son of George

GOMELSHAY/GUMMERSHAY, WHITCHURCH CANONICORUM

Richard Pitfold (-1597), Dorset 1, described himself as "of Gomelshay" when he made his will in 1597

His brother George Pitfold (-1618), shown here, was described as "of Gomelshay" in a legal dispute circa 1599.

Another brother Henry Pitfold (-1637) Dorset 8 settled on the tenement and land called Gomelshay, where he remained until his death.

Gomelshay was part of the Manor of Wootton Abbas, within the parish of Whitchurch Canonicorum. Unfortunately records of the Manor have not survived.

During this period it was commonplace for leases to be issued for a number of "lives" often worded "for the term of their lives successfully". It seems likely that the three brothers purchased a lease on Gomelshay, from the Manor, on their three lives. A price would have been paid when the lease was taken out and the lessees would pay a yearly rent, until such time as the last of them died, when the premises would revert back to the Manor. This type of lease was known as copyhold tenure and took its name from the fact that the "title deed" received by the tenant was a copy of the relevant entry in the manorial court roll. A tenant – or mesne lord – who held land in this way was legally known as a copyholder.

1 Survey of the manor of Marshwood,1627, lists Robert Pitfold as a customary tennant.

2 In 1665 a marriage contract was drawn up between Robert Pitfold of Dungtree in the parish of Marshwood, yeoman in the first part and Joseph Chaning of Symondsbury, Gent and Ralph Ewens of Beaminster, Gent in the second part. This was for the marriage to be had between Robert Pitfold, the son of the said Robert Pitfold of Dungtree, and Joan Ewens the daughter of Ralph Ewens of Broadwindsor (not the same person as Ralph Ewens of Beaminster). The marriage contract conferred various land and property at Dungtree in the parish of Marshwood upon Robert Pitfield the son.

3 Robert Pitfold made a will in 1673 proved 1675 ...Robert Pitfold the younger of Dunstree in the parish of Marshwood... ...my son John Pitfold... ...Robert Pitfold my father...

Burial entry at Whitchurch Canonicorum describes him as "Robert Pitfold of Marshwood junior"

4 Robert Pitfold the Elder of Marshwood was still alive in 1675 when he proved the will of his son Robert Pitfold the Younger and was the main beneficiary of John Pitfold the Younger. It is not known when he died

5 The 1672 burial entry at Broadwindsor reads "Joanne wife of Robert Pitfold of.....". It seems likely that this was the wife of Robert the Younger of Marshwood as Joan Ewen was from the parish of Broadwindsor. This seems to be bourne out by the fact that Robert did not name a wife in his will made 1673.

6 John Turner of Whitchurch Canonicorum, made a will in 1673 in which he made "my trusty and well beloved friend Robert Pitfould Jn of Marshwood in the said county of Dorset, yeoman" one of the overseers of his will.

7 The records show the christening in 1674 of "Elizabeth daughter of Robert and Joan Pitfold" and in 1675 of "Robert son of Robert Pitfold junior of Marshwood". Both these christenings come after Robert made his will in 1673 but before his death in 1675, so it would seem that Robert married for a third time, after making his will, to another Joan.

8 In 1704 an indenture was drawn up "between Robert Pitfold alias Pitfeild late of Dungtree alias Dungston in the parish of Marshwood now of Allington alias Athlington in the county of Dorset and Thomas Burt of Bridport in the County of Dorset maltser on the one part and Daniel Taylor of Bridport...Maltster of the other part..." The indenture describes all of the lands that were conveyed to Robert Pitfold the younger in 1665. It would appear that the lands had passed to Robert Pitfold the Younger's son - Robert Pitfield - and that in 1704 Thomas Burt also had an interest in the lands. Robert Pitfield and Thomas Burt conveyed the lands to Daniel Taylor.

9 The indenture of 1704 also shows that Robert Pitfield of Marshwood moved from the parish of Marshwood and settled in the parish of Allington. What became of him after this date is unknown.

10 The burial of a Joan Pitfield of Allington at Bridport in 1715 could have been the mother of Robert Pitfield (1675-)

11 John Pitfield, the eldest son of Robert Pitfold the Younger of Marshwood, settled in the parish of Wootton Fitzpaine, where he was a miller.

1 John Pitfold/Pitfield was born in 1666 and christened at Broadwindsor. He married Mary ..... and three children of the couple were christened at Burstock. The family then settled in the parish of Wootton Fitzpaine. In 1697 John purchased a 99 year lease, from Henry Henley, the owner of Champernhayes Manor which was within the parish of Wootton Fitzpaine, The lease was for two mills, a mill house plus various pieces of land totalling 14 acres. At the time of taking out the lease John's occupation was given as clothier. The lease was for three lives - namely John himself, his wife Mary and his son John. After settling at Wootton Fitzpaine the couple had a further three children christened in the parish.

Details of John Pitfield's lease appear at various times in the records of Champernhayes Manor and an entry in 1708 implies that John intended that his son Roger (1702-1775) would take over the lease, rather than his son John.

There are no records of Champernhayes Manor between 1709 and 1719, but in 1719 the lease was held by John Bampfield, implying that John was deceased by then and his widow had sold the remainder of the lease to Bampfield. No burial entry has been found for John Pitfold.

2 Mary Pitfield was christened at Wootton Fitzpaine in 1708 "ye daughter of John and Joan Pitfield" I think it is likely that this is an incorrect entry as I have no evidence that John married twice.

3 Robert Pitfield, the second son of John and Mary, married Grace Eyres at Sturminster Newton in 1744. He would have been aged about 48 at the time so it is possible that he was married previously, although I have found no evidence for this. It is not known where he lived before his marriage.

5 Grace Eyres had been born Grace Bird and was christened at Sturminster Newton in 1708. She was part of a long established family within the parish. She married John Eyres in 1736 at Blandford St. Mary. John Eyres died in 1743 and Grace remarried to Robert Pitfield in the following year.

6 No christenings of any children of Robert and Grace Pitfield have been traced.

7 Robert Pitfield left a will made 1756 and proved 1763
...I Robert Pitfield of Sturminster Newton...(no occupation given)
...my brother Roger Pitfield...
...my brother Henry...
...my wife Grace...
...my godson Robert Pitfield, son of John Pitfield, deceased...
...my godson John Bird...
No children of his own are mentioned

8 Grace Pitfield left a will, made in 1785 and proved in 1788.
She did not name any children
Amongst those named was Martha Pitfield - no relationship was given but it seems likely the Martha named was the one born 1776, daughter of Robert Pitfield (c1743-1820) of Wooton Fitzpaine - see Table Dorset 2.1.1.3

9 The land tax records for Sturminster Newton lists from 1780 (earliest record that survives) until 1786 Grace Pitfield as a tenant of "The Malt House", owned by Thomas Bird Junior.

ELIZABETH PITFIELD

An Elizabeth Pitfield is listed in the Land Tax Records of Sturminster Newton in 1793 as being the occupier, along with a John Sweet, of the Mill at Sturminster Newton. The owner of the mill is given as Mrs Hannah Bird. Hannah Bird would have been the widow of the Rev. John Bird, a nephew of Grace Bird/Eyers/Pitfield

A Mrs Elizabeth Pitfield is also listed as the proprietor of some land in Child Okeford in 1780 - see Table 2.1.1.1 for details of John Pitfield of Child Okeford

I do not know who this Elizabeth Pitfield is and I have not found a burial record for her at Sturminster Newton or elsewhere. It is possible she was the daughter or daughter-in-law of John Pitfield of Child Okeford (see Table 2.1.1.1).

10 A Daniel Pitfield was buried in the Somerset parish of Hardington Mandeville in 1786. Nothing further is known concerning Daniel despite extensive research in records of parishes close to Hardington Mandeville. I think it is likely that he is another child of John and Mary of Wootton Fitzpaine, as Henry of Whitchurch Canonicorum (1697-1779) named a son Daniel and John of Wootton Fitzpaine and Colyton (1695-1746) had a grandson christened Daniel.

GEORGE PITFIELD Esq of Fulham

In 1770 a newspaper entitled:
The TOWN and COUNTRY Magazine or UNIVERSAL Repository of KNOWLEDGE, INSTRUCTION and ENTERTAINMENT includes an entry that reads:

BIRTHS April 11 The lady of George Pitfield esq; of Fulham, of three children, two sons and a daughter

I have been unable to find any other references to this George Pitfield, in or around the parish of Fulham. He appears to have been somebody of some standing and wealth to be described as “esquire”. The survival chances of triplets, and of their mother, would have been small at this period, so it is possible that the George Pitfield who was at Fulham in 1770 could be the same one who appears in New York in 1780.

Notes for Table 2.1.1.1

1 John Pitfield (1695-1746) was the eldest son of John Pitfield (1666-) and Mary (c1673-1739) of Wootton Fitzpaine. In 1720 he married at Charmouth, Dorset. The marriage entry describes him as "of Wootton Fitzpaine" and his bride as "Elizabeth Seaward of Axmouth" Axmouth is in the county of Devon. The couple settled in the Devon parish of Colyton, where the Seward family were established - several wills were made in the mid 18th century by members of the Seaward family "of Colyton" - unfortunately none have survived. It seems likely that John gained some property and land as a result of the marriage.

2 Elizabeth Pitfield died a year after the marriage and was buried at Colyton.

3 John remarried in 1724 at Honiton to Hannah Hallett and the couple had nine children christened.

4 References to John Pitfield at Colyton, apart from the parish record entries, are scarce. Some parish record entries refer to him as "Mr" indicating he was a property owner and of some standing in the parish.

5 The family had fallen on hard times by 1746 when the Pitfield household failed to pay the church rates. In 1747 "Mrs Hannah Pitfield" received several payments from the parish's overseers of the poor. The use of the title "Mrs" indicates she was a person of some standing, despite receiving poor relief.

6 Hannah was a widow by 1746, but no burial of John Pitfield is recorded at Colyton. However a John Pitfield was buried in the Dorset parish of Sturminster Newton in 1746 - presumably he had died whilst visiting his brother Robert Pitfield of Sturminster Newton (1696-1763) - see Table 2.1.1.

7 In November 1747 Hannah had her payments drastically cut when she refused to have her children bound out as apprentices (It was common for poor children to be apprenticed to reduce the financial burden on the parish).

8 In 1747 John and Hannah's eldest son John had settled in Dorset and married Mrs Mary Crago at Shillingstone, Dorset. The marriage entry refers to him as "Mr". This, together the use of "Mrs" for his bride indicate he was well off, which seems be in contrast to his mother accepting parish relief. The name Crago was rare in Dorset, although the marriage entry states Mrs Mary Crago was "of Sturminster Newton". The name was more common in Devon (including Colyton) and Cornwall. I have been unable to trace the origins of Mrs Mary Crago.

9 In 1748 payments were made for the illegitimate child of Elizabeth Pitfield and for the child's funeral – no christening or burial for the child is recorded in the parish records.

10 In March 1750 Hannah Pitfield was paid poor relief for 3 months in arrears "being gone to Bristol with part of her family". It could be that Hannah was visiting Bristol to arrange a marriage for her daughter Elizabeth.

11 In September 1750 Elizabeth Pitfield married George Richardson. Although the marriage took place at Colyton it seems likely that George Richardson was from Bristol, where there were several established families of the name. Richardson as a surname was not prevalent in east Devon at this time. No trace of Elizabeth and George Richardson have been found in the records of Devon. Several references appear in the Bristol records that could possibly refer to George and Elizabeth Richardson.

13 In January 1753 a newspaper report refers to "Mrs Hannah Pitfield, who travels with lace" being attacked between Wells and Bath and having her lace and money stolen. She is described as a "Widow with nine Children". Hannah did have nine children christened but by 1753 one was married, another deceased and several were young adults.

14 It would seem that Hannah Pitfield was something of a problem to the parish because in April 1753 a payment was made to the Overseer's of the Poor for expenses to travel to the home of Sir John Prideaux for a meeting "abt ye widow Pitfield". Sir John Prideaux was the sixth Baronet of Netherton, Devon. (1695-1766)

15 Also in April 1753 Hannah was made a payment "in extremity" to buy a pair of shoes to travel to Bristol. It could be that she travelled with some of her children - her son Robert married at Bedminster, Bristol in 1755 and Hannah's daughter Susanna was buried at Bedminster in 1759.

16 Hannah continued to receive payments from the parish up until at least 1769. Poor relief records for Colyton do not survive after 1769.

17 Despite Hannah relying on parish relief it is known that her sons were literate and well educated. It is likely that they received financial support from other members of the Pitfield family. It seems that Hannah Pitfield could have been an 18th century "benefit fraudster".

18 Little is known about John Pitfield (1727-1771) of Child Okeford except for the entries in the parish records. As seen in note 8 he appears to have been a "Gentleman" at the time of his first marriage. No children from this marriage have been traced, although it is possible the Mrs Elizabeth Pitfield at Note 19 could have been a daughter or daughter-in-law of the couple. I also believe that George Pitfield (1749-1827) was the son of John Pitfield of Child Okeford. See Notes 21-23 below.

19 An Elizabeth Pitfield is listed in the Land Tax Records of Sturminster Newton in 1793 as being the occupier, along with a John Sweet, of the Mill at Sturminster Newton. The owner of the mill is given as Mrs Hannah Bird. Hannah Bird would have been the widow of the Rev. John Bird, a nephew of Grace Bird/Eyers/Pitfield - see Table 2.1.1. A Mrs Elizabeth Pitfield is also listed as the proprietor of some land in Child Okeford in 1780. I do not know who this Elizabeth Pitfield is and have not found a burial record for her at Sturminster Newton or elsewhere. It is possible she was a daughter or daughter-in-law of John of Child Okeford (1727-1771).

George Pitfield of New York, America and New Brunswick (c1749-1827)

20 Family tradition in North America has it that George Pitfield (c1749-1827) was the brother of Benjamin Pitfield (1741-1793) of New Jersey.

21 George Pitfield's age at the time of his death in 1827 was given as 78, giving a date of birth of circa 1749. Hannah Pitfield had been a widow since 1746 so it seems unlikely that she was the mother of George, although she could have been if George's date at death was incorrect and he was born a few years earlier.

22 In 1885 George William Brown, of Philadelphia, America, wrote a book entitled "Historical Genealogy relating to a Branch of the Brown Family". In the volume Brown states that his wife's grandfather, Benjamin Pitfield (1741-1793) came to America from England but nothing was known of Benjamin's origins in England. My research has now established Benjamin's origins. Brown says in his book that Benjamin came to America at the invitation of an uncle who was in possession of a tract of land lying upon Timber Creek, in the state of New Jersey. I think this part of Brown's narrative has been distorted and that in fact it was George Pitfield who was invited to America by his uncle Benjamin Pitfield - who was indeed settled at Timber Creek, New Jersey. If George Pitfield (c1749-1827) was the nephew of Benjamin then he must have been the son of John Pitfield of Child Okeford (1727-1771). A birth of George Pitfield around 1749 would fit with the marriage of John Pitfield to Mary Crago in 1747. There would have been only eight years difference in the ages of the uncle and nephew.

23 Unfortunately, as stated in Note 18 above, very few references to John Pitfield (1727-1771) and Mary Crago exist and no christening of any children have been found. But note 19 above points to an Elizabeth Pitfield possibly being a daughter or daughter-in-law to the couple. It is possible that the couple had their children christened in a nonconformist church or chapel and that the records have not survived.

Other researchers have put forward another theory concerning George Pitfield of New York and New Brunswick. They think that he was originally name Pettfield and was the son of George Pettfield and Isabel Jefferson of Hessle in Yorkshire.

Because this theory has some merits and casts doubt on George Pitfield's connection to the Dorset Pitfield family I have chosen to show George Pitfield (c1749-1827), and his descendants, on a sperate set of tables, later in this volume - starting with George 1.

The two theories concerning the origins of George are discussed in more detail on table George 1.

24 Following the death of his first wife in 1763 John Pitfield (1727-1771) remarried in 1764 to Susannah Kaines.

26 John Pitfield (1727-1771) and Susannah Kaines had two children, before John died and was buried at Child Okeford.

27 The tax returns list Mrs Pitfield or Susannah Pitfield as the proprietor of property in Child Okeford from 1780. From 1813 until 1831 the proprietor is namedF as "Late Susannah Pitfield". Also in the parish is property owned by a Mr Kaines.

28 Elizabeth Kaines left a will made in 1776
...Elizabeth otherwisw Betty Kaines of Child Okeford, Dorset, spinster....
...two niecrs Elizabeth and Lucy Kaines and to my nephew William Yeatman...
...to my sister Susannah Pitfield...
Elizabeth left the bulk of her estate to Susannah Pitfield and made her executor.

29 John Pitfield (1768-1821) was the only surviving son of John Pitfield (1727-1771) and Susannah Kaines and settled in London where he was a warehouseman. He had a short lived marriage - his wife and daughter dying at the time of the daughter's birth.

30 Henry Kaines, farmer of Child Okeford, and brother of Susannah Kaines/Pitfield, kept a journal throughout his life. In the journal he describes travelling to London on business and staying with his "cousin" John Pitfield at Watling Street. He also says John Pitfield and his wife Mary visited him in Dorset in 1814 and notes the death of Mary Pitfield in 1815.

31 John Pitfield (1768-1821) wrote a letter from Bridport in 1789 and another from London in 1790 to his "Uncle Benjamin Pitfield" in New Jersey. These letters are thought to still be in the possession of the Pitfield family in North America. They constitute the best evidence we have that the Benjamin Pitfield who appeared in America was the same Benjamin Pitfield, christened at Colyton in 1741. As well as being the nephew of Benjamin Pitfield of America, John would have been the half-brother of George Pifield of Canada.

Notes for Dorset 2.1.1.1.1 - the family of Benjamin Pitfield of America (1741-1793)

The earliest reference I have to Benjamin Pitfield, in North America, is his marriage in 1770 to Grace Lucas in Burlington, New Jersey. The Lucas family were Quakers and the marriage took place in the Quaker Meeting House. Benjamin Pitfield was described as "not of the faith" showing that he was not a Quaker.

'A pretty story is told of Benjamin Pitfield and Grace Lucas. Benjamin was an officer in His Majesty George the Third's army during the Revolutionary War, and while stationed in the suburbs of Philadelphia, he used to see Grace ride in from the country on a pillion behind her father. The gay young officer lost his heart to the demure little Quaker maiden, but his suit was frowned upon by the stern old father, who did not wish so worldly a son-in-law. Whereupon an elopement was planned and carried out, with the aid of a rope ladder from Grace's window and a fleet steed, the runaway couple securing the aid of a dominie before they were caught by father Lucas, who then had nothing to do but to give them his blessing, which he did, adding the household silver, which is still in the family. It is said that, of the sons, all followed in their mother's footsteps, and became strict Friends, while the daughters preferred the Church of England, to which their father belonged."

In "Historical Genealogy Relating to a branch of the Brown family" by George Williams Brown (1885) Brown says "[Benjamin] married Grace Lucas after an opposed and somewhat romantic courtship", but gives no further details.

I have been unable to find any information to prove or disprove the elopement story, although it is certainly true that Benjamin Pitfield was not of the Quaker faith and according to Brown "never became a member of the Society of Friends". The assertion that their sons followed the Quaker faith and the daughters didn't is not true - the couple only had one son and one daughter, who both followed the Quaker faith. It is possible that Benjamin was a British soldier, although I have not found any evidence to support this. If he was a soldier it would not have been at the time of the Revolutionary War, as this did not begin until 1776.

George William Brown was married to Ann Eliza Pitfield, grand-daughter of Benjamin Pitfield. In his book Brown says that Benjamin Pitfield emigrated from England after being invited by an uncle who was living at Timber Creek, in the state of New Jersey (this reference is discussed further in the notes relating to George Pitfield 1749-1827 on table Dorset 2.1.1.1.2). Brown says that the present family (at time of writing in 1885) have no knowledge of Benjamin's origins before arriving in America. However Brown refers to two letters, then in the possession of the family, written by a John Pitfield to his "Uncle Benjamin". The first letter was written in 1789 from Bridport and the second letter was written in 1790 from London. These letters were in the possession of Dr Robert Pitfield of Germanstown, Pennsylvania in 1935. It is thought they are still with a descendant of Dr Robert Pitfield, although I have been unable to trace them.

These letters provide us with the link back to the Pitfield family in England as they were almost certainly written by John Pitfield of London (1768-1821) shown on Dorset 2.1.1.1, who was the nephew of the Benjamin Pitfield, christened at Colyton, Devon in 1741.

Benjamin Pitfield was a store-keeper and grocer and moved between Gloucester County and Trenton, both in New Jersey and Philadelphia City in Pennsylvania. The town of Trenton is on the opposite bank of the Delaware river from Philadelphia. Benjamin was living and working in an area that saw a lot of military action during the War of Independence, although I have not been able to find out how it affected Benjamin.

1770 Marriage to Grace Lucas

1771 Said to inhabit the Gabriel Davies Tavern on the road leading from Gloucester Township to Great Egg Harbor.

1772 Subscriber to a volume of poems by Nathaniel Evans

1773 & 1774 Paid tax in Gloucester County, NJ

1774 A Committee of Observation, consisting of 77 members, was appointed for Gloucester County – members chosen by those qualified to vote for the legislature. Amongst the 77 was Benjamin Pitfield, who represented Gloucester Township

In the American Revolution, Committees of Safety, also called Committees of Observation and Committees of Inspection, were local committees of Patriots that became a shadow government; they took control of the Thirteen Colonies away from royal officials, who became increasingly helpless. (Wikipedia)

1776 Benjamin's son Robert Lucas Pitfield is born

1776 July - Patriots rebel against British control and declare the United States of America an independent nation.

1777 Philadelphia occupied by British forces.

1778 British forces evacuate Philadelphia and withdraw to New York City.

Lists Benjamin Pittfield

1787 April – moved from Trenton back to Philadelphia (see Petition to Benjamin Franklin, below).

1787 3rd December Benjamin Pitfield wrote from Philadelphia to Benjamin Franklin, Governor of Pennsylvania, stating that he had moved from Philadelphia to Trenton in 1784, and moved back to Philadelphia in April 1787. He is petitioning against having had to pay duty on goods that had been sent from Trenton to Philadelphia, having already paid duty on them when they arrived in Trenton.

1788 Benjamin Pitfield listed in the 6th Company of the 2nd Battalion of the Philadelphia Militia.

1789 Petition of Benjamin Pitfield, of the City of Philadelphia, to George Washington, President of the United States, saying he has been in trade for many years but has fallen on hard times. He asks to be appointed to some government office that will allow him to support his family.

1790 Census – Benjamin is listed twice in Philadelphia City.

1 Shopkeeper in North Front Street – the household consisted of 4 free white males over 16 (including Head of household), 1 free white male under 16, 4 free white females and no slaves.

2 Grocer in Market Street.

1793 September 13th buried in St. Paul's Old Episcopal Church, Philadelphia.

1 Henry Pitfield, who was christened at Wootton Fitzpaine, settled in Whitchurch Canonicoum around 1730 and was the founding father of a second group of Pitfields in the parish, soon after the first group died out naturally with the death of another Henry Pitfield in 1716 (see Table 8.1)

2 A stone set into the wall of the church at Whitchurch Canonicorum reads "these arches were rebuilt by Henry Pitfield, mason, 1738."

3 No marriage of Henry to Susannah has been found and the christening of only three children has been traced - Henry's will gives fuller details of his family.

4 Henry Pitfield left a will made 1774 proved 1782

...my grandaughter Mary Beales...

5 Dorset Quarter Sessions Plea Books names John Pitfield of Whitchurch Canonicorum, Victualler and Henry Pitfield of Whitchurch Canonicorum, Mason - no date given but Plea Book covers the years 1727 until 1752.

Another entry from the same volume, dated 1750, describes John Pitfield of Whitchurch Canonicorum as a Victualler.

1751 Quarter Sessions, Dorchester states that John Pitfield of Whitchurch Canonicorum
"..keeps a notoriously disorderly alehouse within ye said parish and the Justices of the Peace desire that you would not at the next General Lycencing of Alehouses for that Division grant any Lycense for selling Ale, Beer or other Liquors to this person...."

6 It would appear that the JP's advice was not followed as John Pitfield is listed in the Alehouse Licencing Records in 1754 (the earliest record that survives) being granted a Licence for one year for the Five Bells in Whitchurch Canonicorum with Henry Pitfield of Whitchurch standing £10 surety for the licensee to ensure good order. He does not appear in the Alehouse Licencing Records in subsequent years - others were listed as the licensees of the Five Bells.

7 A Sarah Pitfield married Joseph Ford in 1789 - she could have been the daughter of Robert or the son of Daniel (see Dorset 2.1.1.2.1)

Article in 'Somerset & Dorset Notes & Queries' Vol. XVII (1921) pp29-30 entitled 'King George III's Visit to Dorchester Goal' signed by 'R.G.B' that includes the following:
Extract from Prison Records, H.M. Prison, Dorchester.-
"Memorandum Monday, Sept, 10, 1792.
"THEIR MAJESTIES The Prince of Wales, The Duke and Duchess of York, The Princesses Royal, Augusta, Elizabeth, Mary, Sophia and Amelia visited the Prison.
"Their Majesties were most graciously pleased to order John Pitfield committed the 14th Sep., 1785, to be discharged and he was discharged. See folio I, No. 50 the Honble Lionel Darner Sheriff Folio I, No. 25."
The Reference gave the following details.
"John Pitfield, of Whitchurch Canonicorum aged 59 by trade a mason, Batchelor, Committed by writ of King's Bench; brought to prison Sep. 14, 1785.
Plaintiffs Ralph Bartlett John Hansford and Robert Barrett. N.B. nominal plaintiffs for Lord Arundel, Plaintiffs Attorney Wade for Brickie.
Date of Warrant Aug. 30, 1785
Writ of Execution delivered Sep. 14, 1785.
Writ returnable on Monday next after the morrow of All Souls for the sum of £220. Prisoner employed whitewashing the prison, mop making and peg making.
How maintained? By the county until the 9th January, 1792, and from that time by the gaoler. Conduct exemplary. Discharged Sep. 10, 1792, By the Order of his Majesty King George the Third."

9 No christening of John Pitfield has been found and the reference at 8 does not make it clear if John was aged 59 at committal in 1785 or on release in 1792. Newspaper articles relating the Royal Visit in 1792 refer to "an old man named Pitfield".

Bath Chronicle and Weekly Gazette 4th October 1792
There was something peculiarly hard in the case of Pitfield, who was released from Dorchester goal by his Majesty's bounty, in paying a debt of 220l. for law charges. It is thus related in the Oracle:-
Several years ago, Lord Milton, as Lord of the manor of Whitchurch Canonicorum in Dorsetshire, laid claim to part of a hill not far from Axminster, called Haddon Hill, of which Lord Arundell, of Wardour, was then in possession, as Lord of the manor of Chideock. And, in order to try the question of right, Lord Milton erected a cottage on the Chideock side of the hill, and placed Pitfield and his family in it. This cottage was immediately afterwards pulled down by order of Lord Arundell; and Pitfield, therefore, at the instance of Lord Milton, and solely on his Lordship's account, commenced an action against the aggressors, who justified as the agents of Lord Arundell.
In his action, Mr. Lambert of Dorchester, Lord Milton's solicitor was employed; and the cause was tried at Dorchester assizes before the late Mr. Justice Nares, and a special jury, in 1780, and a verdict given in favour of the defendants. The defendants' taxed costs amounted to 220l. and on application to Lord Milton for payment, he absolutely refuted it; but the defendants' thinking his Lordship would not suffer the poor man to lay in goal for the costs, and arrested him for the amount; and, to the surprise of every one, he was allowed to languish in prison from that time, (upwards of ten years) till he was lately discharged!!

Bath Chronicle and Weekly Gazette 27th December 1792
Pitfield, the object of our amiable Monarch's benevolence, (though almost overcome with joy at so unexpected a deliverance) is actually voluntarily returned to the place of his confinement, (Dorchester Goal) declaring, he was so habituated to captivity, that he should be unhappy in any other situation ; and Mr. Andrews , the keeper, has appointed him to some little office in the prison.

12 There are entries in the burial register at Whitchurch Canonicorum for a John Pitfield in 1809 and 1811.

[1] BRIDPORT NEWS 1st April 1960

To U.S. on wedding day 50 years ago

BUT THEY JUST HAD TO RETURN TO DORSET

On Tuesday Mr. And Mrs. Bob Pitfield of Osselhay Farm, Whitchurch Canonicorum, remembered a momentous Spring day in 1910 for it was on March 29 of that year they became man and wife in the parish church at Whitchurch. And it was on that same day that they set out for a new life together in Canada.

Bob Pitfield, then 25, of Hinkhams Farm, and his 21-year old finance, Rose Knight, drove in a trap into the village from the Knight's family home at Crabbs, Bluntsea, at eight o'clock in the morning. Back home again from the wedding breakfast and then off again in Mr. Arthur Pitman's trap to Bridport station to set out on the journey to Canada.

As the "Bridport News" of the day said in its report of the wedding, "About two hours afterwards the happy couple left by train at Bridport for America, via Liverpool, with the very best wishes of numerous friends."

That day marked the beginning of 11 years spent in Canada but perhaps even more important the beginning of 50 years of happy marriage.

BUILT HOUSE, DUG WELL

Mr. and Mrs. Pitfield spent much of their 11 years in Canada in a lonely farm in Saskatchewan. Like the other "homesteaders" around them their land cost them 10 dollars from the Canadian government. But they built their own house and dug their own well.

Living on a 160 acre farm with only six cows provides frugal income so for part of the year Mr. Pitfield left his wife and family to travel the 200 miles into the town of Indian Head to look for work as a mason.

While he was away Mrs. Pitfield looked after the farm and drove the horses the 12 miles into the nearest town once a month to pick up the mail and the newspapers.

In spite of the hardships Mr. and Mrs. Pitfield won their "10 dollar bet with the Canadian government" and legally took over their farm after five years. But in 1922 they felt the call of the homeland, sold their farm, returned with their five children to England and settled down in Dorset.

Mr. Pitfield worked as a mason but 30 years ago they had the chance to buy Osselhay Farm and they took it. Mr Pitfield carried on his work as a mason until he was 60. Since then he has devoted all his time to his 28 acres.

LONE FARMER

Today at 75 Mr. Pitfield is still running his farm largely on his own. He milks seven cows, tends a large garden and has his chickens and his orchards.

Osselhay is tucked away in a slumbering corner of the Marshwood Vale. It is approached by a long track across the field from the lane. The television aerial, and the tractor in the shed offer the only hints that the life of the 20th century has dared to intrude.

The farm is straight from the glossy calendars with its low oak beams, open hearths and honeysuckle around the door.

And Mr. and Mrs. Pitfield still welcome their visitors with a pot of cool, home-made cider drawn straight from the barrel in the cellar. It was not so long ago that Mrs. Pitfield was making her own butter and cheese.

And how did Mr. and Mrs. Pitfield celebrate their anniversary? "No celebrations at all," said Mr. Pitfield. "It was just a normal day."

But there were more visitors than usual driving up the lane to Oselhay on Tuesday. Most of Mr. and Mrs. Pitfield's nine children and ten grandchildren looked in to bring their presents and offer their congratulations.

6 In 1928 Vivian and Violet sailed again from Southampton to Quebec, aboard "Empress of Scotland" with their daughter Blanche, aged 6, and their son Kenneth, aged 2

7 Arthur Crager Pitfield enlisted in the Labour Corps October 1916. Served until December 1919. Was in France May 1918 until February 1919.

8 Leslie Pitfield is listed in the 1901 census as the son of Reginald Pitfield, aged 10. This would give a date of birth before Reginald's marriage. No birth registration of a Leslie Pitfield has been found - it's possible Leslie was the son of Eliza Fox born before her marriage - no Lesie Fox has been found in Civil Registration.

1 Roger Pitfield (1702-1775) was the youngest son of John Pitfield and like his father he was a miller. As seen on Dorset 2.1 his father held a 99 lease on some mills and land in the parish of Wootton Fitzpaine, but the remains of the lease appear to have been sold following the death of John (between 1709 & 1719). There is evidence in the records of the manor of Champernhayes, in the parish of Wootton Fitzpaine, that Roger paid rent for these mills direct to the freeholder (Lord of the Manor) over a number of years. At other times, during Roger's lifetime, the mills were held by leaseholders and it seems likely that Roger continued to occupy them and paid rent to the holders of the lease.

In 1743 "Roger Pitfield, a miller" took a 99 year lease on a cottage and three acres of land - part of the Manor of Champernhayes. The lease was on his life and on the lives of his son John and daughter Martha.

No christening of any children of Roger Pitfield and Joan Clutworthy have been traced - it is possible that Roger and Joan were nonconformists - but the dates of birth of Martha and John can be estimated from details in the lease of 1743 (although it is possible that they were born a few years earlier than shown here). They also had another son Robert - born after the lease was taken out - circa 1743 (estimated from his age at the time of his burial)

The rent on the lease of the cottage and land continued to be paid after the death of Roger in 1775 but "fell into hand" in the late 1790's. It would seem that the rent was paid by John Pitfield (1742-1798) as the third "life" on the lease until a few years before his death in 1798.

2 John Pifield 1742-1798 was, like his father, a miller. He settled in Plymouth, Devon. He married twice. He is listed in the Plymouth Rate Books as renting a property called "The Old Town Gate House" from 1791 until 1799.

3 Robert and Mary Pitfield were noted as paupers in the parish records and as such were exempt from birth register tax, when their children were christened.

4 It is likely that Martha Pitfield (1776-1817) is the one referred to in the will of Grace Pitfield in 1785. (see table 2.1.1)

7 Louise Pitfield was tried at The Old Bailey, 16th May 1833 for theft - found guilty and sentenced to Transported for Life.
Petitions put forward for clemency from George Allington (from whom she had stolen) and 14 others including Elizabeth Fry and Margaret Pitfield, her mother
Petitions state that Loiuse had been a cripple since aged 3 and was of weak intellect and couldn't read or write.
Grounds for clemency (Petition Details): Prisoner is a cripple and of weak intellect; is a companion to her mother who is honest and industrious; prisoner has committed no previous offence; her master would reemploy her; Mrs Fry recommended that she should apply to the Home Secretary; not likely to do well in New South Wales.
Louise was not transported and appears in the 1841 census in St. Marylebone workhouse, where she was described as a pauper and female servant

1 In the 1871 census Thomas and Martha Critchell list a son, Henry Critchell aged 5. I believe this son was the Charles Pitfield born illegitimately to Martha in 1866.

2 Joseph Mickles Pitfield enlisted in the No 2 Labour Company in March 1917, aged 35. He gave his occupation as porter and warehouseman. He was posted immediately to France and was discharged in January 1919.

3 Thomas William Pitfield enlisted as a gunner in the 118th Field Regiment Royal Artillery, on the 18th July 1940.

He was taken prisoner at Singapore 15th February 1942, the day British forces surrendered to the Japanese.

He was imprisoned and spent time in ten different camps or hospitals.

Thomas survived the war and returned to England,

1 ROBERT PITFOLD (-1605) was the third son of Robert and was left land in his father's will ...I give and bequeath unto Robert Pitfolde my third son all my lands, tenements and hereditaments* situate and lying and being in West Baglake in the parish of Long Bready in the said county of Dorset which I of late purchased and bought to me, mine heirs and assignees of John Cattle....

*hereditament - any item of property, either a corporeal hereditament (land or a building) or an incorporeal hereditament (such as a rent), that can be inherited.

2 The christening of only one child of Robert's has been found - Tobias in 1597 (nothing further is known of Tobias) - but a great deal of genealogical information concerning the children of Robert and Anne can be gleamed from a number of legal disputes, that took place after Robert's death. A court case in 1593 referred to "Robert Pitfold of Allington, tanner"

3 1629 Quarter Sessions records: Nicholas Pittfold, constable of Allington, has negligently allowed to escape from custody Hugh Dryer, accused of battery on Thomas Hodges. Unless Dryer is recaptured by Christmas, Pittfold must answer for it at the next sessions.

John Bilke has also escaped, and is the reputed father of the bastard child of Margaret Hoble of Allington. Pittfold is to pay 6d per week towards the care of the child until Bilke is recaptured, at which time Bilke shall repay this money to him.

4 A court case of 1620 - C3/321/41 – National Archives, - plaintiffs Anne Pitfold, widow of Allington and her son Henry Pitfold on behalf Nicholas Pitfold, another son of Anne against (amongst others) "Henry Pitfold a kinsman." - The reply by Henry Pitfold, the kinsman, shows him to be Henry Pitfold the Elder of Whitchurch Canonicorum (uncle to Henry and Nicholas) - see Table Dorset 0 and Table Dorset 8.

5 The same case of 1620 shows that at some earlier Nicholas Pitfold had been imprisoned at Dorchester for the non payment of a loan.

6 A court case in 1622 - C2/JasI/P2/37 – National Archives states that Robert Pitfold made a will in 1605 (this will has not survived). The deposition in the case states that Robert Pitfold left some land in the will, called Crocker's Tenement in Allington, to Henry Pitfield referred to "as his second son". It further states that Henry the son transferred the land to his Uncle Henry Pitfold in 1618 - see Table Dorset 0 and Table Dorset 8.

7 There are several other court cases in the years that follow concerning Crocker's Tenement. These cases show that Henry Pitfold was aged only 7 years at the time of the death of his father Robert Pitfold in 1605 and that his uncle, Henry Pitfold of Whitchurch Canonicorum, was his godfather and became his guardian. In 1622 Henry Pitfold the nephew took action against his uncle, Henry Pitfold of Whitchurch Canonicorum, accusing him of persuading him (Henry the nephew) to sell Crocker's Tenement to him (Henry the uncle), in 1618, when Henry reached the age of 21, and not paying him a fair price. In one of the answers to the complaint, given by Henry Pitfold the uncle he states that at one point Henry Pitfold the nephew had been imprisoned, at Dorchester goal, as the alleged father of an illegitimate child by a Grace Webber.

The legal disputes also show that Henry Pitfold the nephew had an elder brother named Nicholas Pitfold, a tanner, born c1589 and an other brother Maximillian Pitfold, a tanner. They also refer to a meeting held at the house of Sir Robert Mellor of Up Cerne in 1619. Sir Robert Mellor was the lord of the manor of Up Cerne. The meeting was to discuss the forthcoming marriage of Henry Pitfold to the daughter of William Polden - a dispute over the marriage had become part of the original dispute concerning Crocker's Tenement. The name of William Polden's daughter is not given but the marriage appears to have gone ahead, circa 1619, probably at Up Cerne (parish records don't start until 1650). It would seem Polden's daughter was called Judith.

8 1632/1633/1635 Nicholas Pitfold is a juror on three occassions

10 Maximillian Pitfold left a will made and proved in 1668.

"I Maximillian Pitfold of Allington, tanner" "my brother Henry Pitfold" "Mary Bayly my daughter" "Mary Gardener my grandaughter" "Thomas Gardener my son-in-law, deceased" "Richard Bayly my grandson" "Hugh Gardner my grandson" "Maximillian Gardner and Robert Gardner my grandsons" "Thomas Gardner my grandson" "Anne Pitfold my now wife" "Nicholas Pitfold my brother" "Richard Bayley my son in law"

Nicholas Pitfold makes his mark as a witness.

11 I have been unable to establish the parentage of Nicholas Pitfield of Loders and Shipton Gorge with any certainty. He is listed in the Protestation Oath records of 1641/42 at Loders. The Protestation Oath was taken by all males over the age of 18. This would mean that he would have been born before 1623. I think the most likely candidate to be the father of Nicholas Pitfold is Henry Pitfold of Allington and it is possible Nicholas was born at Up Cerne - see Note 5 above.

13 Administration, dated 1681, of the goods of Nicholas Pitfield of Shipton, was granted to Anne Pitfield, widow, relict.

ROBERT PITFOLD of Allington

The name Robert was very popular with the Pitfold/Pitfield family - especially in the parish of Allington. At the time of the Hearth Tax of 1662/64 there were four Robert Pitfields who were assessed to pay tax - one of these was noted as deceased. In the parish records of Allington there are a number of children christened between 1641 and 1720, all sons and daughters of a Robert Pitfold/Pitfield. In the majority of cases the mother's name is not given in the record so it is very difficult to see which family each child belongs to. In addition there is a gap in the Allington register from 1704 until 1716 where I would expect to see further Pitfold/ Pitfield christenings.

I have identified four Robert Pitfold/Pitfield, who were contemporaries and were connected with Allington.

A Robert Pitfold, 1615-1686. He is shown on Dorset 8 and there is conclusive evidence establishing his parentage and offspring

B Robert Pitfold - married to Mary Wesley and Ann ..... Shown below.

C Robert Pitfield, who married Bridget White in 1667 and died in 1694 - shown below. I have virtually no information about his couple. I have given them the children shown but there is some doubt about them because of the difficulties with the Allington register.

D Robert Pitfield, died in 1682, who married Mary Pomory - shown opposite. The notes attached show why I have attributed him with the children shown, although there is some doubt about some of them.

I cannot be certain of the parentage of Robert B, C and D - each could be the son of Nicholas (1589-1674) Dorset 3 or the son of Henry (-1678) Dorset 3 or the son of Sebastian Dorset 6.1. Alternatively they may have other parentage.

There is also another Robert Pitfield, at a later generation, who married Ann Knap in 1725 - I have been unable to establish his parentage.

A deed of 1659 shows that Mary Wesley the eldest daughter of Bartholomew Wesley, clergyman of Lyme Regis, was married to Robert Pitfold. The deed does not give a profession for Robert or his place of residence, or a date that the marriage took place.

Bartholomew Wesley was the great grandfather of John Wesley (1703-1791), the founder of the Methodist movement.

References to this Robert Pitfold are scarce but it is known that this Robert Pitfold and Bartholomew Wesley were witnesses to the will of Charles Pitfold (1622-1660) of Allington - shown on Dorset 8 - which was made in 1659.

The will of Charles Pitfiled was examined in a court case of 1686 which involved the families shown on Dorset 8 (see Dorset 8 for more details of the case). Depositions in the case were taken and from these we see that Robert was deceased by 1686 and had been "of Allington" and had been a barber surgeon. An Ann Wade, wife of Matthew Wade, yeoman of Symondsbury confirmed that she recognised the signature of Robert Pitfold and that he had been her husband.

It is not known if this Robert Pitfold had any children.

2 Will of Robert Pitfold made 1682

...I Robert Pitfold the Elder of Allington in the county of Dorset, yeoman...

...unto my daughter Mary my dwelling house, barkside and garden next adjoining her Ourkell (Uncle?) William Pomreys in Allington aforesaid... ...unto my son Richard Pitfold... ...unto my son Robert Pitfold... ...unto my now wife Mary who I make sole executrix....

3 In 1699 an inventory was made of the goods of William Pomory the Elder late of Allington. This was signed by Robert Pitfeild as appraiser.

4 The will of Jeanne Pomory indicates that Robert Pitfold had five children alive in July 1667 and one was called Elizabeth. No christening of Elizabeth has been found. At the time Robert made his will in 1682 he named only three children - Mary, Robert and Richard. In September 1677 at Allington Elizabeth and John Pitfold, son and daughter of Robert Pitfold were buried on the same day. Burials of this type are often of very young infants who didn't live (especially as in this case when there are no corresponding christenings). However I think this John and Elizabeth could have been older children of Robert Pitfold that may have died together as the result of illness, 10 years after Elizabeth was named in Jeanne Pomery's will.

5 Will made and proved in 1712 of Christopher Down junior of Bridport, mariner. Names his wife as Mary Down.

The parentage of Robert Pitfield of Allington (-1740) is unknown - possibly the son of the Robert Pitfold B - opposite - but no evidence for this.

Administration dated 31st October 1741 names Ann Pitfield of Allington, widow as administratrix of her late husband Robert Pitfield of Allington Administration dated 1765 states that Elizabeth Edwards is the first cousin and only next of kin to Ann Pitfield of Allington.

Dorset 3.1.1

1 As noted on the previous table it has been difficult to attribute children to the various Robert Pitfolds/Pitfield who lived in the parish of Allington. Christenings of some, but not all, of the children of Robert Pitfield (1663-1740) have been traced and the relationships of the siblings have been established by various wills and other sources. No marriage for Robert has been found and his wife's name is not shown for the christening of his children, but I think the Hannah Pitfield buried 1739 was his wife. A kinswoman Elizabeth Kayne is named by both Thomas and Samuel in their wills - it seems likely this Elizabeth Kayne was connected to their mother so Hannah's name may also have be Kayne.

2 Robert Pitfield made a will dated 1723

...I Robert Pitfild (sic) of his Majesty's Ship Adventure...
...my body to the Earth or the Sea..
...to my honoured father Robert Pitfield of the Parish of Allington in the County of Dorset...
...to my friend Lawrence Farnham of his majesty's said ship Adventure...

3 A document dated 1752 describes Samuel Pitfield as of Bridport, yeoman and names his brother as Thomas Pitfield of Allington, butcher.

4 The death of Hannah Pitfield was noted in the Quaker records at Membury, Devon. ... departed this life Hannah Pitfield wife of Samuel Pitfield of Bridport...

5 After the death of his first wife, Hannah Hann, Samuel married Elizabeth Mason in 1758 and came into possession of land in the hamlet of Camesworth, within the parish of Netherbury, that had been owned by Elizabeth's father.

6 It's likely that Penelope Mason, who married Thomas Pitfield in 1756, was the sister to Elizabeth Mason.

7 A document dated 1758 describes Samuel Pitfield as late of Bridport but now of Netherbury, yeoman and names his brother as Thomas Pitfield of Allington, butcher

8 In 1756 and 1762 the Churchwarden's Accounts for Netherbury list all landowners and their Church Rates – Samuel Pitfield is NOT listed in either year.

9 Samuel Pitfield signs the Churchwarden's Accounts of Netherbury in 1763 and in virtually every year up to and including 1793.

10 Samuel Pitfield made a will in 1795, proved the same year

...Samuel Pitfield of Camesworth, Netherbury, Dorset, Gentleman... ...my kinswoman Elizabeth Kayne... ...my friends Thomas Tucker of Bridport and Robert Conway of Netherbury as trustees of this will... ...my great nephew John Braddick the younger... ...my great nephew Samuel Pitfield Braddick... ...my nephew John Pitfield... ...my cousins Samuel Marsh and Samuel Tucker... ...the minority of my great niece Anna Braddick...

12 Document dated 1758 refers to Thomas Pitfield of Allington, butcher and his wife Penelope.

13 Administration of William Balston granted in 1760 to Elizabeth Balston, widow of Wootton, Symondsbury. Named in the document were "Thomas Pitfield of Allington, Gent" and "Samuel Pitfield of Camesworth, Gent"

14 Thomas Pitfield left a will dated 1780, codical 1782 and proved 1782

...Thomas Pitfield of Allington, Dorset... ...my nephew Robert Pitfield... ...John Pitfield my other nephew... ...Mary, my now wife... ...my sister Elizabeth Balston, widow... ...my brother Samuel Pitfield... ...Thomas Pitfield, son of Jacob Pitfield of Symondsbury... ...my grand-nephews John Braddick, Robert Pitfield Braddick and Samuel Braddick, sons of Hannah Braddick, my niece..... Elizabeth Kayne, spinster my kinswoman...

15 1740 William Pitfield of Allington, butcher elected as constable for the hundred of Godderthorne. (Dorset Quarter Session Records) (Only reference to William Pitfield being a butcher, and possibly a mistake)

16 William Pitfield left a will made 1792, proved 1793

... William Pitfield of Allington, Dorset, yeoman

William Pitfield left property he owned in Abram, East Abram, Netherbury, Hogbury and Symondsbury to his son-in-law John Braddick and upon John Braddick's death to William's daughter Hannah Braddick, wife of the said John Braddick, and upon the deaths of both John and Hannah to his grandchildren, William Pitfield Braddick, John Braddick the Younger, Samuel Braddick, Hannah Braddick the Younger and Jane Braddick. He also left land and buildings in Allington directly to Hannah Braddick the Younger and Jane Braddick.

William left all his lands and property in the parish of Allington to his son John Pitfield and his heirs (still to be begotten) and upon the death of John, if he should have no heirs, the lands were to default to William's son Robert Pitfield.

17 The tax records for Allington list Widow Pitfield paying tax for her house for the years 1783 until 1786

18 The tax records for Allington list William Pitfield paying tax for the years 1780 to 1790 for property called Pitwell, Tuckers and another unnamed property. (No tax records survive for 1791 and 1792).

19 William Pitfield also had some small land-holdings in the parish of Symondsbury (see THE PITFIELD FAMILY OF MANGERTON, SYMONDSBURY AND EYPE. in section 3)

20 From 1783 Robert Pitfield owned and occupied property called Watkins Barn, Late Harnford, Late Greenings, Late Alfords as well as his house and gunplot. He also occupied property called Late Pitfields that was owned by David Robert Mitchell esq. All this property was in the parish of Allington.

21 John Pitfield is listed in the land tax returns in 1793 and 1795 when he owned Pitwell and Symes's Close.

22 It is likely that Robert (1742-1801) came into the property that had been left to John (1751-1797) under the terms of William's will when John died without heirs.

Dorset 3.1.1.1

1 From at least 1783 (earliest land tax records) Robert Pitfield owned and occupied property called Watkins Barn, Late Harnford, Late Greenings, Late Alfords as well as his house and gunplot. He also occupied property called Late Pitfields that was owned by David Robert Mitchell esq. All this property was in the parish of Allington.

2 The property that Robert's father William Pitfield (-1792) owned in Allington was left to John Pitfield (1751-1797). Under the terms of William's will the land passed to Robert Pitfield when John Pitfield died childless - See Table 3.1.1 for details of the will of William Pitfield (1792).

3 Between 1784 and 1799 Robert Pitfield occupied some land in the parish of Symondsbury. (see THE PITFIELD FAMILY OF MANGERTON, SYMONDSBURY AND EYPE. in section 8)

4 In 1800 Robert Pitfield owned and occupied several properties and owned property that was occupied by others and he occupied property that he rented from other owners, all within the parish of Allington.

5 Land tax records for Allington after 1800 are scarce but from 1812 until 1828 the "executors of Robert Pitfield" are listed as the proprietors of several properties and pieces of land, occupied by various tenants.

LIVING DESCENDANTS

1 James Victor Pitfield joined the 3rd (City of London) Battalion The London Regiment (Royal Fusiliers), September 1914. He spent 4 months in Malta in early 1915 followed by five months in Egypt and served at Gallipoli from 13th September 1915 until 27th November 1915 before returning to England. He was discharged in November 1917 on medical grounds.

2 William John Pitfield enlisted on the 2 May 1917 - he gave his age as 18 years and 2 weeks
On the 10 Sept 1917 he was discharged - probably when it was found he was born 30th December 1901, making his 16 at enlistment.

ANDREW PITFOLD (-1586) was the fourth son of Robert and was named in his will

...I give and bequeath unto Andrew Pitfolde my fourth son all my lands tenements and hereditaments situate being lying and being in the parish of Athlington aforesaid in the county aforesaid in the said county called or known by the name of Curtops which I of late bought and purchased to me heirs and assigns of one Thomas Gudge to have and to hold the same lands tenements and hereditaments unto the said Andrew Pitfolde and the heirs male of his body begotten or to be begotten...

...Item I give unto Andrew Pitfolde my right title interest and term of years that I have yet to come in ???? ????? of the moitye (?) or half????ale of all those lands and tenements, cottages and hereditaments now or of late in the tenure several tenures of .....

In keeping with Robert's other bequests the property was to pass to Andrew's male heirs and if Andrew was to die without male heirs the property was to pass to Thomas Pitfolde, Robert's fifth son, and his male heirs and failing that to subsequent brothers and their male heirs.

...I give and bequeath unto Andrew my said son five pounds of lawful money of England that his late master Mr(?) William Ffrench of Saltashe in the County of Cornwall oweth me.....

It is doubtful that Andrew inherited because he died in the same year as his father.

Andrew left a will in 1586 in which he described himself as a yeoman of the parish of Allington. His will stated that he was owed five hundred marks by his brother-in-law Mr George Wadham of Catherston Leweston. This sum was bequeathed by his late father-in-law Mr John Wadham of Catherston to his daughter Mary Wadham, who was the late wife of Andrew Pitfold. Andrew left eighty pounds from the debt to his brothers, whom he named as Richard Pitfolde, George Pitfolde, Robert Pitfolde, Thomas Pitfolde, John Pitfolde the elder, Henry Pitfolde, John Pitfolde the younger and Bastian Pitfolde with each to receive ten pounds.

also from the will
...my loving sister Helen Pitfolde, twenty pounds in money and all my late wife's apparel...

...I give and bequeath unto my sister in law Alice Pitfolde for her daughter... (see Dorset 6)

...I give and bequeath to Anne Pitfolde my sister in law...

...unto my brothers in law Mr John Wadham and Mr Nicholas Wadham...

...the residue...unto my natural and loving father Robert Pitfolde whom I do make my sole executor....

The will was proved by Thomas Pitfolde brother, Robert Pitfolde father not proving.

See Table 0 for details of brothers and sister named by Andrew. His "sister in law Alice" was probably the wife of John Pitfolde the younger, whilst his "sister in law" Anne could have been the wife of either Robert or Thomas.

Mr John Wadham of Catherston, gentleman left a will made in January 1584

He left two hundred pounds to his daughter Mary Wadham and three hundred pounds to his daughter Margaret Wadham. The money was to be kept by his son George Wadham until the marriage of the said daughters.

He also named his sons John Wadham and Nicholas Wadham, his niece Anne Wadham, his brother Laurence Wadham and his sister Margaret Case. He also named several cousins.

Catherston Leweston was a manor within the parish of Whitchurch Canonicorum, owned by the Wadham family. John Wadham was buried in the church of Whitchurch Canonicorum which has a brass plaque engraved to his memory.

Here lieth John Wadham of Catherston, esquire, who deceased the XIVth day of March 1584 who was during his life time captain of the Queen's majesty's castle of Sandsfoot besides Weymouth in this county of Dorset and also recorder of Lyme Regis, whose soul God rest to his good will and pleasure Amen.

THOMAS PITFOLD (-1602) was the fifth son of Robert, and was left land in Powerstock and elsewhere by his father.

...I give and bequeath unto Thomas Pitfolde my fifth son all of my right title interest and term of years yet to come in ??? farm(?) in ???? or ????? of three tenements with their apperteirmures (??) situate being and lying in Powerstock in the said county of Dorset which I of late bought of William Warburton now in the several tenures of .....
...Item I give unto the said Thomas Pitfolde my son all my timber and wood lying upon the ??? at Hawkmore(?) and upon Robert Sampson's ground at Northehaire(?)....

Although references to Thomas Pitfold (-1602) during his lifetime are scarce, information has been gained concerning him from the Inquisitions Post Mortem held after his death and that of his brother Sebastian. At the time of his death Thomas held several properties of land in Allington, amongst which was a piece of land called Gurtops. Gurtops had been left by Robert Pitfold the father to his son Andrew but as Andrew did not inherit, the land passed to Thomas. Thomas left his lands to his brother Sebastian, although Sebastian bestowed a lifetimes interest on Gurtops to Anne Pitfold, the widow of Thomas Pitfold. Thomas and Anne had no children and Anne was living in Colyton, Devon in 1615 (at the time of Sebastian Pitfold's Inquisition Post Mortem).

There is more detail concerning the lands of Thomas Pitfold in the narrative concerning Sebastian Pitfold (1570-1613) Dorset 10 including the information that Anne Pitfold, the widow died in 1622 (no burial has been found).

1 John Pitfod the Elder of Allington was named as the 6th son of Robert Pitfold of Allington in his will.

2 In Robert's will made in 1583 he says he has already made provision, through a deed indenture of 1582, for "John Pitfolde the Elder, my sixth son and to Alice Adyne alias Barbette and their heirs male to be begotten..." John and Alice were given lands in Walditch, Shipton and Allington. The will also states that Robert Adyne had been John Pitfolde the Elder's late master (apprenticeship?) There was a prominent family of Adyn alias Barbette living in Dorchester around this time.

2 In 1596 "John Pitfold the elder of Allington, husbandman" was the defendant in three separate cases, bought by three separate complainants, in Court of Common Pleas, which sat at Westminster. John was accused of trespassing on a neighbours property, for not paying a debt and for physical assault on one Luke Jurden of Allington. I have been unable to find out outcome of theses cases.

3 In a court case of 1616 (C2/JasI/L7/47 National Archives) the ownership of some of the lands that had been given to John Pitfold by Robert Pitfold (1516-1586) were in dispute and the indenture of 1582 is referred to. In the case John Pitfold states that his father Robert Pitfold had bestowed the lands upon John, in 1582, "for and in consideration of a marriage then had by....John Pitfold and towards the better advancement of.....John Pitfold his son" A George Sydenham was a defendant, alongside John Pitfold, in the case and described himself as the brother-in-law of John Pitfold. John had married Priscilla Sydenham by this date (see below)

4 In 1608 Henry Pitfold of Whitchurch Canonicorum (-1637) Dorset 8 purchased a 99 year lease on a moitie (part share) of a property called Allington Hill, held from the Manor of Allington. Henry subsequently sold the lease to his brother Sebastain Pitfold (1570-1613) Dorset 10 who then sold it to John Pitfold the Elder c1612.

In 1614 John Pitfold the Elder "having urgent occasion for the use of money" approached an Elizabeth Holt, widow of Slope, Dorset requesting a loan of £90. Initially Elizabeth Holt refused to lend the money "having (in truth) heard many ill reports of the underhand dealing of the defendant [John Pitfold the Elder]" However, Elizabeth was persuaded to make the loan and John offered the lease of Allington Hill as security. By 1616 John Pitfold had not repaid the loan but he had recently purchased a lease on the other moitie of Allington Hill. Pitfold asked Holt to forego the loan of £90 and to lend him a further £100. Holt agreed to this and a mortgage was drawn up for the whole of Allington Hill against a sum of £196 to be repaid the Holt, twelve months hence. Pitfold did not repay the loan and Holy agreed to extend the term of the loan until 1621, as long as Pitfold paid the quarterly interest upon it. In 1621 Pitfold repaid £50 and had been paying the interest. Holt demanded that the balance of the loan should be paid. In October 1623 Pitfold still owed Elizabeth Holt £170 and Holt entered the property and sold the lease to a Christopher Honeyborne. In 1626 John Pitfold took action against Holt maintaining that Holt had said that he, Pitfold, could have the use of the loaned money for the rest of her life. Holt denied this and said she had demanded full repayment in 1621.

5 John's wife Alice died in 1601 and John remarried to Priscilla Sydenham in 1604. Priscilla was the daughter of Thomas Sydenham esq and was baptised at Wynford Eagle, Dorset in 1565. Thomas Sydenham, the head of a wealthy family, had taken up residence at the Manor House at Wynford Eagle, a chapelry to the parish of Toller Fratrum, in 1550. At a later date the Sydenham family of Wynford Eagle were prominent soldiers, fighting for the parliamentary cause in the English Civil War.

6 It is likely Priscilla, who was aged 40 when she married, would have had a substantial dowry. John and Priscilla had one son born, John Pitfold who was christened in his mother's parish of Wynford Eagle in 1605. I have found no further references to this son but see note 9 below.

7 Andrew Pitfolde (-1586) in his will of 1586 makes a bequest ...I give and bequeath unto my sister in law Alice Pitfolde for her daughter... (See Table Dorset 4).

Andrew could have been referring to Alice, the wife of John the Elder (shown here) or to Alice the wife of George Pitfold (See Table Dorset 2)

8 John Pitfold the Elder and John Pitfold the Younger, both sons of Robert Pitfold (1516-1586), were both of the parish of Allington. They both appear in tax records and parish records, where the suffix Elder and Younger were often used. However, in many cases, they are referred to just as John Pitfold, making it difficult to differentiate between the two. The only christening entry that names the father specifically as John Pitfold the Elder is that of Alice at Allington in 1597, but I have used other sources to establish the children of both of the John Pitfolds.

9 After about 1602 the suffix Younger and Elder is no longer used, whilst a John Pitfold remains in the parish - this seems to imply one of the John's had died or moved away. My researches have found that John Pitfold the Elder (-1629) remained in the parish of Allington until his death whilst John Pitfold the Younger (c1569-) appears to have settled elsewhere (see Table Dorset 9)

10 There is some doubt concerning the parentage of a John Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh (-1661). I think it is likely he was the son of John Pitfold the Younger of Allington (c1569-) but there is no conclusive proof (see Table Dorset 9) . Another possibility is that John Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh (-1661) was the John Pitfold (1605-) born to John Pitfold the Elder (-1629) and Priscilla Sydenham. (c1565-1623) shown here. There is no evidence to support this apart from a birth date of 1605 fitting well with a marriage in 1629.

1 Sebastian Pitfold/Pitfield was the son of John Pitfold the Elder (-1629) and Alice Aden alias Barbette. Sebastian married in the parish of South Perrot, Dorset in 1620, to Rebecca Beaton, and the couple settled in the parish of Mudford, Somerset, where their first three children were christened. There were a number of Beaton families in the parish of Mudford at this time and it is possible that Rebecca was the daughter of Edward Beaton of Mudford. It is also possible that Sebastian Pitfold gained some landholding in the parish, at the time of his marriage, although I have no proof of this.

2 A Thomasine Beaton, widow of Mudford, made a will in 1639 in which she named one her godsons as John Pitfold.

3 Sebastian and Rebecca returned to Allington around 1630, following the death of Sebastian's father. A further two children were christened at Allington. In 1631 an indenture was drawn up between the Borough of Bridport and Sebastian Pitfolde of Athlington (Allington) yeoman in which "...John Pitfold, Edward Pitfold and Sebastain Pitfold, sons of the said Sebastain Pitfold..." are named.

4 Sebastian Pitfold was one of the jurors in legal cases in 1630 and 1632. He appears again in the Dorset Quarter Sessions records in 1638 when "Sebastian Pittfold, Allington, yeoman" is to "answer, keep peace at instance of Thomas Fulbrooke".

5 In 1641 Sebastian Pittfold and Richard Symes (more below) are both listed in the tax records at Allington as holding land in copyhold .

6 In 1642 all males over 18 were asked to make an oath of allegiance "to live and die for the true Protestant religion, the liberties and rights of subjects and the privilege of Parliaments." In the parish of Allington several Pitfold men made the oath, as did Richard Symes. Sebastian Pitfold had been appointed as one of the collectors or overseers of the oath and he signs his name clearly and with a flourish at the end of the returns.

7 In 1653, during the Commonwealth, a survey was made by Act of Parliament of "Certaine Messuage and Lands with the appurtes commonly called Magdalens Chantry Situate lying and being in Ashlington nigh Bridport in the County of Dorset Late ???? of the possessions of Charles Stuart late King of England" In establishing the geographical limits of the chantry the survey listed lands that bordered the chantry. Amongst these were lands owned by Sebastian Pittfold and Richard Symes.

8 In 1657 Richard Symes, yeoman of Allington, made a will "...I give and bequeath unto my sonne in lawe John Pitfeild (sic) one hundred and twenty pounds..." "...said sume of one hundred and twenty pounds is for and in lieu of his ???? with my daughter Joanne...." "...also I give unto my said sonne in lawe John Pitfold (sic) the sum of fifteen pound to be paid him within four years after my decease which sum is to be employed for the use and benefit of his three children..." Unfortunately Richard does not name the three children of John Pitfold/Pitfeild. The will also names two other daughters of Richard Symes, along with the names of their husbands, and a son Thomas Symes.

9 No burial of Sebastian or Rebecca Pitfold has been found. There is a gap in the burial records at Bridport between 1651 and 1660 - it was quite common for registers to be poorly kept during the Commonwealth period (although Bridport christenings during the same period are well kept). It seems likely Sebastian Pitfold (1588-) died during the 1650s as his lands appear to be owned by his son, John in 1664 (see next note).

10 In 1664 John Pitfold, at Allington, was taxed for 7 hearths in the Hearth Tax imposed that year. This indicated he was the owner of substantial property. The £120 he had been left by his father in law in 1657 was a very large sum at that time.

11 In 1665 Thomazine Symes, widow of Allington (widow of Richard Symes) left a will "...Item I give unto Thomazine Pitfold daughter of John Pitfold one chest that was her grandfathers...."

12 Richard Symes married Tomazine Porter at Allington in 1636 but research seems to show that Tomazine was not the mother of Richard's children and that he had been previously married.

13 References to John Pitfold (1623-) and his wife Joan are scarce - it is known they had three children (names unknown) alive in 1657 and at least one child - Thomazine - alive in 1665 (who may have been one of the three). The only references in the parish records are of a son christened in 1656 (name unknown because of poor condition of register), the burial of a daughter Rebecca in 1666 and the christening of a daughter, Ann Pitfold, in 1669.

14 John of Allington died in 1677. It has been impossible to determine if he was succeeded by any of his children and it is not known what became of his land holdings.

15 Edward Pitfold, the eldest son of Sebastian and Rebecca is listed in 1642 as a soldier, enlisted for the Parliamentary cause. Nothing further is known about Edward, so it is possible he did not survive the Civil War.

16 Sebastian (1625-1685), son of Sebastian (1588-) and Rebecca also declared for Parliament and had an interesting career as a clergyman under the Commonwealth - see the article alongside for more details.

17 Will of Sebastian Pitfield made 1686
...Sebastian Pitfield of East Ashing, Sussex, clerk...
...my wife Mary Pitfield...
...my only child Grace...
...Mr Gabriel Hastings guardian of my daughter....

18 Will of Mary Pitfield made 1699, proved 1703
...Mary Bennet and Elizabeth Bennet, both daughters of John Bennet and Grace Bennet...
...my brother's daughter Catherine Fontie(?)...
...my daughter Grace Bennet...
...to be buried by my husband in the chancel...
...my grandson John Bennet...

19 The christening of Joseph Pitfield (-1696), who settled at Winfrith Newburgh, has not been found but various sources point to him being the son of Sebastian (1588-) and Rebecca.

20 In 1820 the Attorney General looked into the restoration of the Huntingdon Peerage and published "A Genealogical And Biographical History Of The Illustrious House Of Hastings" This showed that William Hastings, one of the grandsons of Henry Hastings of Woodlands, Dorset and a great-grandson of George Hastings, the Earl of Huntingdon, had married Rebecca Pitfield and the couple had one son Gabriel Hastings. The report also states that after the death of William Hastings, Rebecca married a ..... Williard.

21 William Hastings made a will in 1666
...I William Hastings, Gent of Knighton, Winfrith, Dorset...
...my dear wife Rebecca Hastings... ...my son Gabriel Hastings... ...my wife's brother Joseph Pitfeild for his own life his wife's life and his son's life... ...my brother Henry Hastings...
...my wife's brother Sebastian Pitfeild...

22 I have no references to Robert Pitfold (1632-) the son of Sebastian and Rebecca, apart from his christening. He could have died young or there is a possibility that he could be one of the Robert Pitfold/Pitfield entries that I have shown on Dorset 3.1.

SEBASTIAN PITFIELD (SOLDIER, GRADUATE, CLERYMAN AND GHOST)

Because of the lack of records in the Civil War and Commonwealth periods, it is often a difficult era in which to gain details of one's ancestors. It is gratifying, therefore, when one can discover a lot about an interesting forebear, who lived through this time. Sebastian Pitfield was christened at Mudford in Somerset, the son of Rebecca (nee Beaton) and Sebastian Pitfield, alias Pitfold, a yeoman of Allington in Dorset. At the outbreak of the Civil War, Sebastian declared for Parliament. The minute book of the Dorset Standing Committee tells us that he served as a Quartermaster to a troop of horse under the command of Colonel Butler, the Governor of Wareham, from September 1644 until February 1645. From February 1645 until October 1645 he rode in the Sheriff's troop. The minute book gives interesting details of the rates of pay that Sebastian and his servant received, Sebastian only getting a corporal's pay while serving with the Sheriff. The next mention of Sebastian is in the records of Magdalen College, Oxford, from where he matriculated in March 1648/9. On 26th May 1649 Sebastian Pitfield was created a B.A. from Wadham College, Oxford – "by special favour of Sir Thomas Fairfax and Oliver Cromwell". This was obviously an honorary degree, bestowed upon him and seems to imply a reward for services to the Parliamentary cause. It was only a week before this that Cromwell and Fairfax had been in Oxford, where they were installed as Doctors of Civil Law, from All Saint's College. Mention of Sebastian is again made in the minute book of the Dorset Standing Committee in January 1649, when they receive a certificate from the Eighth Classical Presbytery of London, that Sebastian Pitfield is found qualified for the ministry and therefore ordained. Sebastian is appointed by the Committee to officiate in the Dorset parish of Bishops Caudle. The Commonwealth period was a time of upheaval in the Church, with many changes in clergy to reflect the Puritanical attitudes of Parliament. It would seem that Sebastian, after serving in the army and being favoured by Cromwell, saw the opportunity for a career in the Church. During this period the records of many parishes were neglected and none survive at Bishops Caundle during the time that Sebastian officiated there. In April 1654, according to a Certificate of Approbation, preserved in Lambeth Palace Library, Sebastian Pitfield was presented to the Dorset parish of Winfrith Newburgh, with the Chapelry of West Lulworth, under the patronage of "His Highness Oliver Lord Protector of the Commonwealth of England". Interestingly his brother Joseph was residing in the parish at this time. Once again parish records for this period were not kept but the State Papers Domestic show that he was minister there in 1657 and 1659. Sebastian managed to keep his position after the restoration of the monarchy in 1660 and is listed in the nearby tithing of West Chaldon for the Hearth Tax records of 1662/4. In 1671 Sebastian was appointed as the Rector of Warblington, near Chichester in Sussex. On 2nd September he married Mrs. Mary Foulks, a widow, at Southampton. This marriage came late in Sebastian's life, he by now being aged about fifty. He and Mary had one daughter named Grace and Sebastian remained as rector until his death in 1686. Some ten years after Sebastian's death there were reports of a ghost haunting the parsonage of Warblington. The ghost was seen by the curate, Rev. Thomas Wilkins. Reports of this reached a Mr. Caswell, a learned mathematician. He decided to investigate and interviewed witnesses and took detailed depositions. These were shown to two residents of Havant who both said the description of the ghost agreed very well with "Mr. P., a former rector of the place who has been dead above twenty years". It was soon taken that the ghost was Sebastian Pitfield and other stories circulated that he had fathered children by his maid, and then murdered them. All research into Sebastian's time at Warblington, however, seems to show that he was a respectable character, who discharged his duties as rector faithfully. It could well be that the ghost story was put about by smugglers, who used the rectory at various times. Pook Lane, Warblington was dubbed Spook Lane during smuggling days to discourage the inquisitive, as it was part of a vital smuggling route. Why stories of Sebastian's ill repute as a father to, and murderer of illegitimate children should gain currency is a mystery, although his colourful life during the Commonwealth period may explain it. Indeed it is also a mystery why Sebastian should have been thought to be the ghost, when the apparition seen in 1695 was said to resemble "Mr P., a former rector" who had been dead "above twenty years" when Sebastian Pitfield had died only nine years before in 1686.

An article I wrote for the Somerset & Dorset Family History Society which appeared in The Greenwood Tree, Jan. 1989, with amendments and updating made February 2016.

3 Ellen Pitfield, Suffragette

Ellen Sarah Olivia Pitfield qualified as a midwife in April 1906, whilst living in Shepherd's Bush, London.

On 18 November 1910 approximately 300 suffragettes campaigned outside the House of Commons when the Liberal government of Herbert Asquith failed to pass a Conciliation Bill which would allow some women the vote in General Elections for the first time.

Although the Bill got to its second reading, Herbert Asquith indicated that there would be no more Parliamentary time for the Bill. In response, the Women's Social and Political Union (WSPU) sent a delegation of around 300 women who were assaulted when they attempted to run past the police. Many suffragettes reported being assaulted and manhandled by the police and well over 100 were arrested.

Ellen Pitfield was amongst those injured on this day - referred to as Black Friday. Reports at the time state that the injuries led to her developing cancer, resulting in two operations and her case being declared incurable.

At the time of the 1911 census an Ellen Pitfield was a patient at a hospital in the Euston Road, St. Pancras - the only information given was her age of 49 - across the other columns the enumerator had written "Suffragette Refuses Information".

On March 3rd 1912 Ellen entered the General Post Office in London and set fire to a basket of shavings saturated with paraffin - then gave herself up to the police. She appeared at the Cental Criminal Court (some reports say she was carried from the prison hospital) and sentenced to six months imprisonment. This was the first incident of arson by a suffragette.

Ellen Pitfield was referred to in various reports as Nurse Pitfield. In April 1912 the British Journal of Nursing, whilst pointing out she was not a nurse but a qualified midwife and referring to her as Miss Pitfield, campaigned for her release from prison on the grounds that she only had a short time to live and the sentence was unduly harsh. The pressure led to her being released on April 16th after 45 days in the Infirmary at Holloway Prison.

A letter from the Matron of the Nursing Home that Ellen was transferred to appeared in The British Journal of Nursing on April 27th, describing the conditions and medical care she had received in prison.

Ellen died in August 1912 - her death was registered in the name of Helen S. O. Pitfield.

15 Jane Sparks Pitfield married George Sills in 1830 - the couple had one son and Jane Sparks Sills died in 1832. George Sills, widower re-married to Mary Ann Pitfield in 1836 and the couple had several children

1 1750 Henry Pitfield apprenticed to Geo Donnell of Chard, Somerset, cordwainer

2 1794 Thomas Pitfield apprenticed for 5 years to Charles Edwards, attorney, at Chard, Somerset

3 1826 ILCHESTER GAOL REGISTER - Thomas Pitfield, 17 January 1846, aged 46, born Chard, Last Abode - Combe St. Nicholas

4 March 1826 Somerset. The Jurors for our Lord the King upon their Oath present that Thomas Pitfield late of the Parish of Coombe Saint Nicholas in the County of Somerset Labourer on the ninth day of October in the sixth year of the Reign of our Sovereign Lord George the Fourth by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland King Defender of the Faith with force and arms at the Parish afore in the County aforesaid one mare of the price of ten pounds of the Goods and Chattels of John Stone then and there being found then and there feloniously did steal take and lead away against the peace of our said Lord the King his Crown and Dignity.

5 March 1826 found guilty of horse stealing, sentenced to death.

6 1826 A petition by Thomas Pitfield, in Illchester Goal, to Robert Peel, Secretary of State for the Home Department in which Thomas states he had been employed as a shoemaker for several years on his own account and had bought up a large family, but because of unavoidable losses in trade and ill health was tempted to commit the offence for which he was justly convicted.

There are a number of testimonials from various people with London addresses, most who state that they had employed Thomas Pitfield as a shoemaker - one saying Thomas Pitfield had worked for him for 11 years.

7 1826 Sentence commuted to Transportation for Life.

8 At the time of his conviction Thomas stated he had a wife and four children "presently in Buckle Street, Whitechapel"

9 Christenings of three children of Thomas and Grace Pitfield have been traced. Also two children, christened on the same day - Jane Sparks Pitfield and Amy Spiers Pitfield daughters of Thomas and Jane Pitfield - these are in the same register as the children of Thomas and Grace and were possibly registered with the incorrect mother's name. It seems that Jane Sparks Pitfield and Mary Ann Pitfield were sisters as a George Sills married them both - see 15.

Another Mary-Ann Pitfield christened, a year after the marriage of Thomas and Grace, at Bath Abbey as the daughter of Thomas and Mary, could again be an incorrect entry.

10 26 May 1826 received aboard the prison hulk "Justina" moored at Woolwich.

11 29 Sept 1826 transferred to ship "Andromeda"

12 14 October 1826 "Andromeda" set sail.

13 23 February 1827 "Andromeda" arrived at Hobart, Australia

-before 1583
C:
B:
M:

The will of Robert Pitfold of Allington, made in 1583 named his sons and their seniority. However he named John Pitfold the Elder as his sixth son, and Henry Pitfold as his eighth son, implying a seventh son had already died by this date. It has been impossible to find the name of the seventh son.

1 Henry Pitfold (1637) was named as the eighth son of Robert Pytfolde of Allington (c1516-1586) in the will that Robert made in 1583.

"…… I give and bequeathe unto Henry Pitfolde my sonne tenne pounds of Lawfull money of England whiche his Master hathe with him as a a????? During his apprenticehood……"

"……..I give and bequeath unto Henry Pitfolde my sonne all my timber lying and growing uppon my bargayne at Combe(?) and all my timber lying uppon Grentas(?) grounds…."

In 1594 Henry married Joan Herne at Netherbury, Dorset. The Hernes were a prominent family in the parish of Netherbury and it is likely that Joan would have had a large dowry.

GOMELSHAY/GUMMERSHAY, WHITCHURCH CANONICORUM

2 Henry settled on a tenement and land called Gomelshay. Henry's older brother Richard Pitfold (-1597) Dorset 1 described himself as "of Gomelshay" when he made his will in 1597 and another brother George Pitfold (-1618) Dorset 2 was described as "of Gomelshay" in a legal dispute circa 1599.

Gomelshay was part of the Manor of Wootton Abbas, within the parish of Whitchurch Canonicorum. Unfortunately records of the Manor have not survived. During this period it was commonplace for leases to be issued for a number of "lives" often worded "for the term of their lives successfully". It seems likely that the three brothers purchased a lease on Gomelshay, from the Manor, on their three lives. A price would have been paid when the lease was taken out and the lessees would pay a yearly rent, until such time as the last of them died, when the premises would revert back to the Manor. Richard died in 1597 and George died in 1618, leaving Henry as the sole lessee. This type of lease was known as copyhold tenure and took its name from the fact that the "title deed" received by the tenant was a copy of the relevant entry in the manorial court roll. A tenant – or mesne lord – who held land in this way was legally known as a copyholder.

3 Henry and Joan had five children who survived to adulthood as shown on the table. In 1659 Charles Pitfield (-1660), the youngest son of Henry and Joan, took legal action against his older brother Henry Pitfield (-1683), and Mary, Henry's wife. (C7/445/62 – National Archives). This case, along with other sources, gives some information about the continuing connection that the Pitfold/Pitfield family had with Gomelshay.

4 According to the statements made in this case Henry Pitfield, the father (i.e. Henry Pitfold -1637), was in his lifetime seized of two tenements from the Manor of Wootton Abbas, one of which was Gomelshay (the other tenement is not named). Henry negotiated with the Manor and paid to have his eldest son Henry added to the lease as an addition "life" and in so doing put himself in a great deal of debt. When Henry the father died in 1637 most of the debt was outstanding and he had not left suitable provision for his son Henry. As was the custom Joan Pitfold/Pitfield, as the widow of the last lessee, was allowed to continue to live at Gomelshay. Joan Pitfold, widow and copyholder, is listed as paying taxes at Whitchurch in 1641. Joan, and Henry her son, worked the land, and Joan used some of her own personal wealth, to pay off the debts of Henry the father. Charles makes the case that by clearing the debt and making the property profitable Joan, and Henry the son, were able to improve Henry's prospects of making a "good" marriage. He further said that Henry the son had promised to pay back the money that his mother, Joan, had paid out and to pay Charles £100, when a suitable marriage took place. From other sources it is known that Henry Pitfield, the son, married around 1639 to Mary Long the daughter of Thomas Long of Kingston, Somerset. See Note 12. Charles alleges that Henry received £300 as a result of the marriage and he should have paid the £100 promised to Charles and made a payment to their mother Joan. Henry replied that he did not receive any money at the time of the marriage but that it was true that Mary had received a sum of £300 some years after the marriage took place (inherited from her father?). Charles also complained that Henry the son, and his wife Mary, had the good fortune of living at Gomelshay and having Henry's mother Joan there to help them to raise their children.

5 Joan Pitfield made a will in 1652, where she described herself as "of Gomelshay" and died in 1654 - see note 13.

6 The answer of Henry (-1683) & Mary (-1686) Pitfield to the bill of complaint of Charles Pitfield (-1660) was drawn up in the parish of Colaton Raleigh, Devon and was signed and dated January 1659, by John Pitfield senior and William Pitfield. John Pitfield senior of Colaton Raleigh (-1661) was the first cousin of Henry Pitfield (-1683) and is shown on Dorset 9.3 along with John's son William Pitfield (-1712)

7 It seems that the case of 1659 did not proceed as the plaintiff, Charles Pitfield, died in 1660, after having made a will in 1659 - see note 17.

8 It would seem Henry and Mary Pitfield remained as tenants of Gomelshay until their deaths and that their son, another Henry Pitfield (1644-1710), came into the tenure in turn. A case of 1704 (C8/466/110 - National Archives) states that John Henley is the Lord of the Manor of Wootton Abbas and that Henry Pitfield of Gomelshay yeoman, is one of the copyhold tenants of the said manor and has committed and suffered great waste and dilapidation upon his copyhold messuages and tenement. I do not know what the outcome of this case was but it is possible that Henry could have lost the copyhold of the property by not keeping it in good order.

9 This third Henry of Gomelshay died in 1710 and was succeeded by another Henry (-1716). It is not known if this Henry had the copyhold of Gomelshay. He died only six years after his father and this family line died out with him.

There is still a GUMMERSHAY FARM in Whitchurch Canonicorum today.

10 In 1605 Robert Pitfold of Allington, the third son of Robert Pitfold (1516-1586) died. Henry Pitfold of Gomelshay (-1637) was the uncle and godfather of Robert's son, also called Henry (c1579-1678). Henry the uncle became the guardian of Henry the nephew. In 1618 Henry the nephew sold a tenement, that had been left to him by his father, to Henry the uncle. From 1622 there were a number of legal disputes between the uncle and nephew concerning the sale of the tenement - for more details see Dorset 3

11 Henry Pitfold of Gomelshay (-1637) was also in dispute in 1620 with Anne Pitfold, the widow of Robert Pitfold and another of his nephews - Nicholas Pitfold - for more details see Dorset 3

15 In 1608 Henry Pitfold of Gomelshay obtained a lease for 99 years on a piece of ground called Allington Hill - held from the Manor of Allington. The lease was for three lives - Henry himself, Joan Pitfold the daughter of Henry and Joan Pitfold and Charles Pitfold, son of John Pitfold the Younger - see Dorset 9. This is the only reference to Henry having a daughter called Joan.

Henry subsequently sold the lease to his brother Sebastian (1570-1613) Dorset 10, who in turn sold it to John Pitfold the Elder (-1629) Dorset 6.

Charles Pitfold, the nephew of Henry Pitfold, would have been aged 9 years in 1608. It is thought that John Pitfold the Younger left Allington around 1606 to live in Sussex. Little is known about the early life of Charles Pitfold/Pitfield (1599-1680) but it is possible he spent a lot of his time still living or visiting Dorset and that Henry Pitfold (-1637) acted as a guardian when Charles was in the county. When Charles Pitfield made his will in 1680 he named his Kinsman "Mr Henry Pitfeild of WhiteChurch in the County of Dorset" (-1683) his heir, if his own son, Alexander Pitfield, should fail to have a male child. And if Henry Pitfield did not have a male heir then Charles nominated Henry's brother Robert Pitfield (1615-1686) to be Charles' heir. See Dorset 9.2

16 A court case of 1654 - C7/215/56 – National Archives - shows that Henry Pitfield of Gomelshay married Mary Long, daughter of Thomas Long of Kingston, Somerset - possibly around 1639. "against the good will and consent" of Thomas Long.

18 In 1687 a case was bought by Richard Pitfield (complainant) against Henry Pitfield (defendant) - in dispute the will of Charles Pitfield made 1659. Depositions from the case (C22/153/3 - National Archives) show that Richard Pitfield was the son of Robert Pitfield whilst Henry Pitfield was the son of Henry Pitfield. The depositions further show that Henry the Elder and Robert (who was deceased pre 1687) were brothers of the late Charles, who had died c1660, and that the three brothers were the sons of Henry Pitfield and Joan Pitfield. Also named was John Tucker, brother-in-law of the complainant.
Depositions also show that Mary the sister of Henry Pitfield, the defendant was married to John Smith.

2 18th century survey of the Manor of Shipton Gorge:
"A messuage or tenement called Innsacre...containing 57 acres more or less, formerly Henry Pitfield's, Simon Jenkins and Eliz: his wife, and Eliz: his daughter, per lease 23 June 1695. The revision of the last mentioned tenement was granted by Thos: Strangeways Esq, by lease dated the 4th day of February 13 Charl: 2nd* to Henry Pitfield for 99 years If Charles Pitfield his Son so long live"
*13th year of the reign of Charles II = 1673
The Jenkins family farmed Innsacre until the 1750s.

The Manor of Shipton had been owned by the Strangeways family, who later became the Earls of Illchester, since the time of the Civil War and remained the property of the family until it was broken up and sold in 1910. Shipton Gorge was a chapelry within the parish of Burton Bradstock. Innsacre Farm House, which still exists, is close to the church at Shipton.

3 Christening at Powerstock in 1712 of Richard, son of Joseph and Joan Pitfield is possibly an incorrect entry and the father's name should be John. Alternatively Richard could have been the son of Joseph Pitfield and a wife, Joan, before Joseph's marriage to Lucretia Hunt in 1718 - see table Dorset 8.1.1.1

4 A document dated 1769 refers to Greenway Cottage, Shipton Gorge said to have been built by Henry Pitfield, deceased, the father of Rebecca Greening, widow, deceased of Shipton Gorge, who left it to her son John Greening of Marylebone, London.

5 Simon Jenkins of Innsacre left a will made 1721 in which he named his wife Elizabeth and 3 children. The will was witnessed by John Pitfield and Joseph Pitfield who both signed.

6 John Pitfield left a will made 1733 with a codical 1738
...I John Pitfield of Mangerton, Netherbury, yeoman...
...my cousin Edmund Jenkins (one of the sons of my sister Elizabeth Jenkins, widow)...
...my cousin John Jenkins her other son and Elizabeth Roach her daughter...
...my cousin Elizabeth Chambers (daughter of my brother in law William Greening)...
...my cousins Susannah and Mary (daughters of my late brother in law William Nicholls deceased)...
...my cousin John Pitfield, son of my brother Joseph Pitfield...
...my cousin Mary Pitfield, daughter of my said brother Joseph Pitfield...
...Robert Tucker and Thomas Tucker (two of the sons of my brother in law Richard Tucker)...
...Richard Tucker, his other son...
...Mary, Ann and Elizabeth (three of the daughters of my brother in law Mr Thomas Brown)...
...my cousin John Greening who now liveth in the house with me...
...Jacob Pitfield and Joseph Pitfield (son of my said brother Joseph Pitfield) - both not yet 21 years of age...
...my daughter Anne's pewter dish...

Within the will John refers to his "nephews" and "nieces" that he had earlier referred to as "cousins."

7 In his will, made 1733, John mentions four brothers-in-law - William Nicholls (deceased), William Greening, Thomas Brown and Richard Tucker, but he does not give the names of their spouses (presumably his sisters).

It is known that John's sister Hannah was married to William Nicholls. Research has led me to believe that:

William Greening was of the chapelry of Shipton Gorge in Burton Bradstock and was married to Rebecca.

Richard Tucker was of the parish of Loders and was married to Edith.

Thomas Brown was of the parish of Bradpole and was married to Mary.

I have not been able to trace the baptisms for a Rebecca Pitfield, Edith Pitfield or Mary Pitfield, as daughters of Henry and Elizabeth Pitfield, but if they were baptised at Burton Bradstock then the registers are in poor condition, with many gaps. I have also been unable to trace the marriages of William Greening, Thomas Brown or Richard Tucker.

It is possible either Greening, Brown or Tucker was the maiden name of Joan, wife of John (1673-1739) so one of the brothers-in-laws named could have been Joan's brother.

8 Monumental Inscriptions at Netherbury

Elizabeth daughter of John and Joan Pitfield died 12th April 1736
also Ann .... daughter of John and Joan 1738.

Joseph son of John and Joan Pitfield died 27th Nov. 1734 aged 24 years, also Joan wife of John Pitfield 1736.

John Pitfield died 28th Nov.1739 aged 67 years.

9 I have no definite proof that Richard Pitfield of Powerstock (-1732) was another son of Henry and Elizabeth, but think it is most likely. The only references I have to him are shown here.

...my cousin Mary Pitfield, daughter of my said brother Joseph Pitfield...
...Jacob Pitfield and Joseph Pitfield (sons of my said brother Josph Pitfield) - both not yet 21 years of age...

2 Richard Pitfield was christened as the son of Joseph & Joan Pitfield at Powerstock. There is no proof that the Joseph referred to is the same one as married Lucretia Hunt in 1718, but if it is then it implies that Joseph was married previously to Joan. I have no other evidence of an earlier marriage.

Alternatively the 1712 entry could have been a mistake and Richard was the son of John and Joan - see note 3 on table Dorset 8.1.1.

3 John Pitfield, 1721-1787, was admitted into the Freedom of the City of London, in February 1743/44, by redemption, in the Company of Wax Chandler's by paying a fee of forty six shillings and eight pence.

The next mention of John (1721-1787) is in 1748 in a document relating to a cottage in Burton Bradstock which is said to have belonged jointly to Lucretia Pitfield of Frampton a widow, and her son John, then living in London, and employed as a coal meter.

A coal meter was a position that only occurred in London - its holder was responsible for checking the weights and quantity of coal released from coal merchants. John appears to have held the position until his death.

John Pitfield made a will in 1787
...I John Pitfield of Mile End Old Town in the County of Middx. Coal Meter....
...my Brother Jacob Pitfield of Simbury in Dorsetshire ffarmer...
...be buried at Lambeth Church...
No wife or children are mentioned and the bulk of John's estate was left to his brother Jacob.
No burial entry for John has been traced at Lambeth or elsewhere.

4 Joseph Pitfield (1727-1783) left a will made 1780
.....Joseph Pitfield of Banbury, in the county of Oxford, Gentleman.....
...my wife Anne....
Executors and Trustees:
...John Bridge of Wynford Eagle in the county of Dorset, gentleman....

....Robert Rogers of Sydling Saint Nicholas or his children.....
....Catherine Hollett (sic) of Sydling Saint Nicholas or her children.....
....Mary Jones of Dorchester, within the county of Dorset or her children.....

No relationships mentioned concerning the above but they are also listed in the will of Anne Pitfield - see note 5.

Joseph does not name any children, despite his daughter Anne being born two years previously, but refers to ....any child or children that I might leave at my decease or any child or children born after my decease with which my said wife may be .....at the time of my decease.....

5 Anne Pitfield left a will made in 1784

THE PITFIELD FAMILY OF MANGERTON, SYMONDSBURY AND EYPE.

This narrative gives some further information concerning the Pitfield family who owned land at Mangerton in Netherbury and who went on to become major landowners in the parish of Symondsbury and Symondsbury's chapelry Eype. It helps explain how the various properties were passed down through members of the family and it needs to be read in conjunction with most of the tables that start with 8.

Some of these notes are repeated within the charts, whilst other notes on the charts add to this narrative with further information such as precis of wills etc. Persons named in this narrative have the symbol Ø against their names in the charts.

John Pitfield of Mangerton (1673-1739)
In his will John Pitfield, (1673-1739), described himself as a yeoman of Mangerton, a hamlet within the parish of Netherbury. I have been unable to establish when John Pitfield purchased land at Mangerton but it was probably sometime after 1713, as John and his wife Joan had been living at Powerstock before that date. Various members of the Pitfield family continued to own land at Mangerton until 1838.

John Pitfield (1673-1739) also owned lands within the parish of Burton Bradstock and its chapelry Shipton Gorge, some of which he probably inherited from his father Henry Pitfield of Innsacre, Shipton Gorge (c1643-1720).

John Pitfield (1673-1739) died childless. In his will he left his lands in Burton Bradstock and Shipton Gorge to his nephew John Greening, the son of his sister Rebecca Greening neé Pitfield. He left Mangerton in trust to his two nephews Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795) and Joseph Pitfield (1727-1783), sons of his brother Joseph Pitfield of Stratton (-1743), until they each reached the age of 21.

Jacob Pitfield of Symondsbury (1723-1795) and Joseph Pitfield of Banbury (1727-1783)
Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795) became the new owner of Mangerton Farm, whilst his brother Joseph (1727-1783) settled at Banbury, Oxfordshire where he was a shag merchant (dealer in tobacco). At the time of making his will Joseph Pitfield (1727-1783) described himself as a Gentleman, and he owned land and property in Isleworth, Middlesex and in the Dorset parishes of Burton Bradstock, Whitchurch Canonicorum and Sydling Saint Nicholas. He instructed his executors to sell his property to pay off his debts and to provide an income for his wife Ann and any child or children that succeeded him. Joseph and Ann had one daughter Ann Pitfield (1778-1822). Following the death of her mother in 1786 Ann Pitfield (1778-1822) became an orphan, aged 8, and it is likely she was bought up by her uncle Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795).

The churchwarden's accounts of Netherbury for the years 1756 and 1762 refer to "Mangerton Farm divided." Jacob Pitfield owned one parcel of land of 7 1/2 acres and another of 6 acres. 5 1/2 acres were owned by George Waldron, 14 acres by George Stevens, 7 acres by George Symes esq, 4 acres by John Hine and 3/4 of an acre by James Munden.

The land tax records for the year 1795 list Jacob Pitfield as the proprietor of land in the parish of Netherbury. The name and the extent of the land is not given, but it seems to have been considerably more than the 13 1/2 acres he owned in 1762, as he paid £4 10s 11d in land tax. The tenant of the land in 1795 was Benjamin Stoodley.

Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795) was married twice and had 16 children, 11 who survived infancy, as shown on tables 3.1.1.1.1a and 3.1.1.1.1b. As well as being the owner of land at Mangerton, Jacob occupied extensive lands within the parish of Symondsbury. Tithe records for Symondsbury show that from 1750 Jacob Pitfield was present at Symondsbury Farm, an extensive property. The land tax records, which start in 1782, show that Jacob was the tenant of Symondsbury Farm, with the property being owned by Francis J Brown esq. In addition Jacob occupied six other pieces of land in Symondsbury, although he was not the owner of any of them. By 1790 Jacob's son John Pitfield (1770-1838) had taken over the tenancy of some land from his father, as well as renting further land in the parish. Jacob had become the owner and occupier of a piece of land in Lower Eype (a chapelry of Symondsbury). In 1795, the year in which Jacob died, he is listed as the owner and occupier of North End and Cussen's North End as well as the piece of land in Eype. In the same year his sons Jacob Pitfield junior (1769-1799) and John Pitfield (1770-1838) are both listed as occupying land in the parish.

Jacob Pitfield of Symondsbury (1723-1795) left a will in which he left "Mangerton Farm" to his wife Joan and upon her death to his son Thomas Pitfield (1778-1858). All his lands and tenements that he still owned in Symondsbury he left to his son John Pitfield (1770-1838). He also referred to using £1,300, left in trust to his niece Ann Pitfield (1778-1822) by his late brother Joseph Pitfield (1727-1783), which he used to buy a farm within Symondsbury called North End (listed in the land records of 1795 above) which was to be transferred to Ann upon his death.

Thomas Pitfield (1778-1822) and Ann Pitfield (1778-1822)
Thomas Pitfield (1778-1858), one of the sons of Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795), married his first cousin Ann Pitfield (1788-1822), the daughter of Joseph Pitfield of Banbury (1727-1783), in 1799 at Netherbury.

Ann sold her lands at North End to Thomas's brother John Pitfield (1770-1838) and Thomas and Ann lived at Mangerton Farm, which Thomas had inherited from his father Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795). Thomas and Ann had one son John Pitfield (1800-1854) and seven daughters. Ann died in 1822 and in 1829 "Thomas Pitfield of Mangerton Farm" advertised in the Dorset County Chronicle an auction for the sale of all his animals, farm implements, machines and wagons etc as he was "about to decline business". Thomas sold the Mangerton Farm to his brother John Pitfield (1770-1838). The 1831 Dorset Poll Book lists John Pitfield as the freeholder of Mangerton Farm and John Nicholls as the occupier. For details of what happened to Mangerton Farm see the section below about John Pitfield (1770-1838) .

At the time of the 1841 census Thomas Pitfield (1778-1858) was living along with his daughter Susan Pitfield (1816-1855) in the household of Thomas's daughter Elizabeth Nicholls neé Pitfield and her husband John Nicholls, who were farming at Hincknowle in the parish of Netherbury.

At the time of the 1851 Susan Pitfield was a governess in the parish of Compton Valence. I have been unable to find Thomas in the 1851 census but at the time of his burial in 1858 he was described as of the parish of Stratton, Dorset. It is possible that Thomas Pitfield was living at Stratton Farm House, the farm of William Chick - brother to Thomas Chick who had married Sarah Pitfield. In 1851 Sarah Chick, widow, was living in William Chick's household with two children and Mary Pitfield (1806-1860) was a visitor there.

Jacob Pitfield, junior (1769-1799)
Jacob Pitfield junior died in 1799, only four years after his father, and his wife Elizabeth died the same year leaving three young children. It is unclear who cared for the children but they all survived into adulthood, with the daughters Elizabeth Horner Pitfield (1792-) and Lucretia Pitfield (1794-) making good marriages and the son Jacob Pitfield (1796-1860) making a successful career in the Royal Navy (see below and the separate narrative).

John Pitfield of Symondsbury (1770-1838)
As already seen John Pitfield (1770-1838) took over the tenancy of some of the Symondsbury properties occupied by his father Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795) whilst in his early 20s, and was left the land that his father owned in Eype. Additionally, as already seen, John purchased Mangerton Farm from his cousin Ann Pitfield (1778-1822) soon after she became its owner in 1795. John also took over the tenancy of the lands that his brother Jacob had been renting at the time of his death in 1799.

In 1802 John Pitfield owned and occupied pieces of land called North End, Cussen's North End, Dommets, Part of Davies and Honeylands, all in the parish of Symondsbury. He also occupied and rented Symondsbury Farm from Francis J Brown and ten other pieces of land, from various owners.

In 1805 John is listed as owning and occupying Symondsbury Farm (55 years after his father first became its tenant) as well as two other pieces of land, previously rented from Francis J Brown. He also owned and occupied a further piece of land that he had not occupied in 1803, as well as occupying the other lands as listed in 1803.

In 1814 John Pitfield was the owner and occupier of the majority of the property that he either occupied or occupied and owned in 1805. In addition he rented six further properties from the Honourable S. D. Strangeways (Earl of Ilchester).

In the years that follow John's land holdings in Symondsbury remained largely unchanged. In 1832 a new acquisition is listed in the land tax records - land called Rayerhill – that is owned by "John Pitfield senior" (1770-1838) but occupied by his nephew, listed as "John Pitfield junior" (1800-1854), the son of Thomas Pitfield (1788-1858) and Ann Pitfield (1778-1822).

The Land Tax records finish in 1832 but the tithe records show that from 1831-1834 John Pitfield paid tithes on the properties that are listed in the land tax records.

In 1834 John Pitfield transferred much of his land to John Pope by an indenture for 21 years. John Pope was married to the niece of John Pitfield - Jane Warr the daughter of John's sister Jenny Pitfield/Warr and John Warr. The Church Rate and Vestry minute book for 1835 shows that the lands that had been owned and occupied by John Pitfield were divided between John Pope and John Pitfield Junior, whilst John Pitfield senior didn't pay any church rate.

In 1835 John Pope paid church rates for Symondsbury Farm, North Ends, Henwood, Leazeacre, Dommetts, Bilkshay, Newport, Raines Hill and Leggs all in Symonsbury North Tithing. He also paid church rates for Mile's Cross, Honeylands, Symes's, Hare's, Gale's in Symondsbury South Tithing.

In 1835 John Pitfield paid tithes for: Watton Farm at Eype, Flood and Lotts part Lower Eype, Lord Role's part Lower Eype, Late John Davis's, Shoots, Land in Great Meadow, Late Demziloes (?), Farthing Field and Youngs, all in Symondsbury South Tithing.

John Pitfield, senior made a will in 1835 in which he made some specific legacies to various members of his family – see précis of his will on Table 3.1.1.1.1b – with the majority of his estate being put in trust for his great nephew John Pitfield, son of his nephew John Pitfield (1800-1854) (son of Thomas Pitfield and Ann Pitfield) until he reached the aged of 21. The will made provision that if John Pitfield, the great nephew did not reach 21 then the trust would revert to any other son of John Pitfield the nephew, who lived to 21. At the time John made his will in 1835 his great nephew John was aged one year and he died the following year. In the same year, 1836, another son also named John, was born to John Pitfield the nephew, who in time became the main beneficiary of his great uncle's estate. The will also refers to the Indenture of 1834 transferring some of his lands to John Pope for a period of 21 years.

John Pitfield (1770-1838) never married and was buried at Symondsbury, where there is an elaborate marble plaque within the church testifying to his virtues, erected by his executors Jacob Pitfield, John Pitfield and John Pope.

Jacob Pitfield (1796-1860), named as an executor, was one of John Pitfield's nephews, being the son of John's brother Jacob Pitfield (1769-1799). For details of the life and Royal Navy career of Jacob Pitfield see the seperate narrative.

Soon after the death of John Pitfield (1770-1838) John Pitfield and John Pope auctioned Mangerton Farm in Netherbury which was described thus:

> The Fee-Simple and Inheritance of all that compact and desirable FARM, called Mangerton, consisting of an excellent Dwelling-House, beautifully situated, within a Curtilage, productive Garden, Barn, Stables, and other convenient Outbuildings, and seventy-two acres of rich, Arable, Meadow, and Pasture Land and Orchard, thereto belonging, now in the occupation of Mr. John S Nichols, as tenant from year to year, situate in the parish of Netherbury, and county of Dorset, about two miles and a half from Bridport and four from Beaminster, close to an excellent turnpike road, and in the neighbourhood of good markets.
> (Dorset County Chronicle 26 April 1838)

Pitfold Farm, in the parish of Burton Bradstock, was also offered for sale at the same auction in 1838 – for details of Pitfold Farm see separate narrative.

John Pope and John Pitfield also sold off other pieces of land in Symondsbury.

As already seen the land and property holdings of John Pitfield were split, three years before his death. The story of what happened to the two parts of his estate follow different but sometimes overlapping narratives.

Eype

John Pitfield junior, (1800-1854) known as John Pitfield of Eype continued to farm at Eype from when he first occupied land there in 1835. He had married in 1832 to Jane Roper. In the 1851 census John was living at Higher Eype and was described as a farmer of 400 acres employing 25 labourers. Listed with him were his wife and six sons. John died in 1854 and the records show that his widow Jane took over the farm and continued to pay church rates in the years that followed. In 1861 Jane Pitfield is listed as the head of the household at Higher Eype and is described as a farmer of 592 acres employing 23 men, 9 boys and 7 women. In the house with her were her sons John aged 24, Alfred aged 21, George aged 15 and Joseph aged 13.

Her son John Pitfield (1836-1913) married in 1861 - more details of John are shown in the next section.

From 1864 to 1870 Jane Pitfield and Alfred Pitfield both paid church rates with Jane paying the most, indicating she was still running the farm at Eype. However at the time of the 1871 census Alfred J Pitfield, unmarried, is listed as the head of the household at Higher Eype, farming 596 acres employing 27 men, 7 boys and 8 women. His mother Jane and his brother Joseph are also living at the farm. Alfred Pitfield pays the church rate until 1878. Alfred had married in 1875 and he appears to have moved away around 1878, soon after his mother Jane died in 1877, and is listed as farming in Wimbledon, Surrey at the time of the 1881 census. Alfred's place at Higher Eype is taken over by his brother George Roper Pitfield who is listed at the time of the 1881 census as George Pitfield, unmarried, aged 35, farmer of 504 acres employing 15 men 5 boys and 3 women. George Roper Pitfield continued to farm at Higher Eype and married in 1890. In the 1891 census he is listed, with his wife Lillian, as a farmer (the 1891 census gives no detail of landholdings etc). and the couple are still there for the 1901 census.

In September 1901 George Roper Pitfield puts all his livestock, farming machinery and agricultural implements up for sale at Eype as he is quitting farming – Western Gazette 20th September 1901.

George and Lillian retired to Wroath Grange in the parish of Netherbury, thus ending the Pitfield connection with the parish of Symondsbury).

Symondsbury Farm

As outlined previously much of the estate of John Pitfield senior (1770-1838) was left to his great nephew John Pitfield (1836-1913) in trust until he reached the aged of 21, whilst at the same time making provision for John Pope to occupy it from 1834 for a period of 21 years.

John Pope farmed and paid church rates for Symondsbury Farm from 1835 until 1855. At the time of the 1851 census he is listed in Symondsbury Village with his wife, son and daughter and described as a farmer of 750 acres employing 30 labourers.

By 1856 John Pope had vacated Symonsbury Farm (presumably at the end of his 21 year tenure) and from 1856 to 1857 it is occupied by John Symonds and from 1858 to 1861 by George Symonds. John Symonds was the uncle of John Pitfield of Eype's wife (now widow) Jane Roper. George Symonds was the son of John Symonds and therefore the cousin of Jane Roper/Pitfield (see chart on next page). John Pope continued farming other land in Symondsbury.

John Pitfield (1834-1913) the great nephew had been living at Eype with his parents and later with his mother, as outlined in the previous section about Eype. In 1861 he married Mary-Ann Udal, the daughter of William Udal. William Udal was a cousin of Jane Roper/Pitfield of Eype (see chart on next table) and had his roots in Dorset, but had made a sizeable fortune in business in Birmingham.

Soon after his marriage John and Mary-Ann took over Symondsbury Farm and John paid church rates from 1861 to 1877. At the time of the 1871 census John and Marianne (sic) are listed at Symondsbury Village with 7 children. John is described as a landowner of 580 acres employing 20 men and 7 boys.

John Pitfield (1836-1913) appears to have given up the farm around 1877 as from 1877 to 1880 the church rate is paid by brother-in-law William Udal Junior.

In 1881 John Pitfield and his family are living in Taunton, Somerset where he is described as a retired farmer. He later moved to Elmset Hall, Wedmore, Axminster, Somerset and then to Wrafton House, Heanton Punchardon, Devon, where he died 1913.

PITFOLD FARM, BURTON BRADSTOCK

In 1783 the land tax records list Joseph Pitfield as the owner of land in the parish of Burton Bradstock, occupied by Robert Greening on which 1 pound, 11 shillings and 8 pence tax was paid. No name is given for the piece of land. In 1784 and 1785 Mrs Pitfield is named as the owner and in 1786 the owner is the "executors of Mr Joseph Pitfield" with the tenant being Stephen Ackerman. This Joseph Pitfield was Joseph of Banbury (1727-1783) shown on Table 3.1.1.1. In his will Joseph stated that he owned land in Burton Bradstock (and elsewhere) and that his lands should be sold to provide an income for his wife and any child or children that might succeed him. The land at Burton Bradstock appears to have transferred to Joseph's brother Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795) as the land tax records list either Mr Pitfield or Mr Jacob Pitfield as the owner from 1787-1795. After the death of Jacob the Burton Bradstock land is owned by his son Thomas Pitfield (1778-1858) with the occupier still Stephen Ackerman, until 1813. From 1815 until 1818 Thomas Pitfield is listed as the owner and occupier of the land. Although Thomas was living and farming at Mangerton in the parish of Netherbury it is quite possible that he could have farmed the land in Burton Bradstock as well, as it is not far from Mangerton. From 1820 to 1829 Thomas Pitfield is still listed as the proprietor, although the occupier is not listed. The piece of land is now listed as "Pitfields" and the tax paid is still 1 pound, 11 shillings and 8 pence. The records for 1830 until 1832 (the last year for land tax records) list the land as "Pitfolds" and give the proprietor and occupier as Thomas Pitfield.

It was quite common for land to be named after a one-time owner. The naming of the farm as "Pitfolds" seems to imply that the land had been owned by the Pitfield family from far earlier times, when the surname was still Pitfold. It is known that the "Pitfold" family lived in the parish of Burton Bradstock from early on, with George Pitfold (-1618) being buried in the parish. It is likely that Pitfold Farm (which still exists today in Burton Bradstock) took its name from an early member of the Pitfield/Pitfold family. There are deeds from the Pitt-Rivers family estate archive relating to Pitfold Tenement 1742 and Pitfold Farm 1789, which I have not yet seen. The Pitt-Rivers family became Lords of the Manor of Burton Bradstock when George Pitt acquired it in 1684.

After 1832 Thomas Pitfield appears to give up Pitfold Farm. It's possible that he sold it to his brother John Pitfiled (1770-1838) at the same time as he gave up Mangerton Farm (circa 1832). The farm is then taken over by John Pitfield (1800-1854) the son of Thomas. This possibly occurred around 1835 when John Pitfield (1770-1838) passed on much of his Symondsbury land to John Pitfield (1800-1854) and to John Pope (1803-1873) – see THE PITFIELD FAMILY OF MANGERTON, SYMONDSBURY AND EYPE.

In April 1838, two months after the death of John Pitfield (1770-1854), "Mangerton & Pitfold's Farms and other lands" were advertised for sale by John Pitfield and John Pope (Dorset County Chronicle, 26th April 1838). Pitfold's Farm was described as:

> LOT 2 – All that TENEMENT or FARM, called Pitfolds, with the House, Stables, Barn, Outbuildings, and other convenient Offices thereon, and the following closes of rich Arable, Meadow and Pasture land, hereinafter set forth, situate in the parish of Burton Bradstock, and county of Dorset, containing altogether about 104 Acres, in the occupation of Mr. T. Clark, as tenant, at a yearly Rent of £130, whose term will expire at Michaelmas, 1839.

(there then follow as breakdown of the various closes, meadows and pieces of arable land and their names and acerage).

The same lot also included other lands within Burton Bradstock amounting to 46 acres. The sale seemed to be for the remaining leaseholds on the lands, rather than for the freehold.

The tithe records for 1839 show the same pieces of land from the advertisement as being owned by John Pitfield and Lord Rivers and occupied by John Pitfield. The tithe records seem to imply that Pitt-Rivers owned the Freehold and John Pitfield owned the leasehold of Pitfold farm and the other property within Burton Bradstock. The tithe map shows Pitfold Farm as being in the far north of the Burton Bradstock bordering the parish of Bothenhampton.

Captain George Henry Lane Fox-Pitt-Rivers sold the whole of the Burton Bradstock estate, including all the houses and cottages in the village, in 1958. Most properties were sold to existing tenants. Pitfold Farm, consisting of 84 acres and including most of the field names that appeared in the 1838 advertisement, was one of the auction lots in the 1958 sale.

5 Joseph Pitfield was the only surviving son of Jacob Pitfield by his first marriage to Anne Chilcott.

From at least 1782 until 1785 Joseph Pitfield was the tenant at Frampton Farm, owner Francis John Browne esq

From 1786 until 1789 he rented Buckland Farm in the parish of Broadway, proprietor Lionel Damer Esq, plus further land from Mr Coker, the rector of Buckland.

In 1802 he is listed as proprietor and occupier of a modest farm in the parish of Toller Porcorum. From 1804 he is listed as the proprietor of land in Toller Porcorum occupied by Joseph Weller. It is likely he moved to Toller Porcorum in 1790 as his son John was christened there in 1791.

From 1813 he is listed as the proprietor of land called Hulls, in Toller Porcorum, which is occupied by Ezekiel Pope. In 1832 (the last year for land tax returns) he still owns Hulls, which is occupied by John Keech.

The 1844 Tithe records list Joseph Pitfield as the owner of land in excess of 65 acres in Toller Porcorum, occupied by John Saunders. This was three years after the death of Joseph Pitfield but was fairly common for the tithe records to list a deceased person as the owner of land, or the record could refer to Joseph Pitfield junior (1788-1858).

JACOB PITFIELD 1796-

Jacob Pitfield joined the Royal Navy as a Volunteer 2nd class aboard H.M.S. Centaur in September 1809. He served in the Mediterranean until August 1811 aboard the ships Centaur, Hibernia & Tigre. From September 1811-June 1815 Jacob served aboard H.H.S. Pheasant as a Volunteer 2nd class, Midshipman and Master's Mate in the Western Isles, Home Station and in Newfoundland. He was a Midshipman from June-August 1815 aboard H.M.S. Podargus on the Home Station and as Master's Mate on the same ship at St. Helena from August-December 1816. From December 1816-March 1817 he was a Midshipman aboard H.M.S. Orantes on passage home to prepare at Naval College, Chatham for his Lieutenant's examinations. He passed as a Lieutenant in June 1817 but was not commissioned immediately. Jacob served as Master's Mate from April 1818-January 1821 aboard H.M.S. Bulwark in the Mediterranean and from January 1821 to February 1824 on H.M.S. Seringapatam in the Mediterranean and West Indies where the ship was employed in the search for pirates around Cuba. As H.M.S. Seringapatam was being paid off in February 1824 Jacob was recommended for promotion by Sir Samuel Warren, under whom he had served for six years. He served as Midshipman and Mate aboard H.M.S. Maidstone from March-September 1827 off the coast of Africa, during which time the ship captured two brigs with slaves on board bound for Brazil. In September 1824 Jacob was finally granted a commission and served as Lieutenant aboard H.M.S. Bann, a 20 gun sloop, but was paid off at Chatham in June 1825. His next posting was in December 1826 when he joined H.M.S. Ramillies, 74 guns, under Captain Hugh Pigot, as supernumary Lieutenant, on the Downs Station. He served three years on Ramillies, employed on the coastal blockade of Kent. During this time he married Arabella Prickett, a St. Margaret-at-Cliffe (nr. Dover) in 1827. The marriage entry states that Jacob Pitfield was of the parish of Ringwould, close to Dover. Jacob was paid off from Ramillies in January 1830. In December 1830 he joined the Coast Guard as a Lieutenant and served for eight years, until July 1838, at Saltburn and on the east coast of Yorkshire.

In 1841 Jacob and Arabella Pitfield were living in a cottage in Symondsbury - Jacob's occupation was given as Lieutenant Royal Navy, half pay.

JOSEPH EDWARD CHILCOTT PITFIELD 1788-1858

Joseph Edward Chilcott Pitfield was christened in 1788 at Buckland Ripers, Dorset, son of Joseph and Mary Pitfield of Frampton, Buckland Ripers and Symondsbury. Joseph joined the Royal Navy in 1807, two years after the Battle of Trafalgar but at a time when England was still at war against Napoleon. Joseph's first posting was as Master's Mate aboard HMS Prosperine, a 45 gun frigate under the command of Captain Charles Otter. At the beginning of 1809 Prosperine was stationed off the port of Toulon in the Mediterranean, to watch the movements of the French fleet. On the 27th February the two 40 gun frigates Penelope and Pauline sailed out to chase Prosperine away. In the early hours of 28th February 1809 there was a brief engagement in which the Prosperine had two men killed and ten wounded before she surrendered to the French frigates and her crew taken prisoner.

Joseph was held prisoner at the French fort at Verdun, where all naval offers were held, as well as English citizens from all parts of France who had been detained at the outbreak of war, known as détenus. The gentlemen prisoners were not kept closely confined, and were able to take lodgings in the town and come and go about the town and take walks in the country of up to three miles away, if they had obtained a permit to do so. Officers were held under parole and gave their word not to escape and were paid a "wage" by their captors.

There were a number of escapes from Verdun. Recaptured escapees could be sent to prisons elsewhere, where conditions were far harsher.

Joseph E. C. Pitfield remained a prisoner until he made his escape on the 21st December 1810, along with another Masters Mate by the name of David Littlejohn, of HMS Shannon. Unfortunately I have been unable to find out any details of Joseph's escape. Joseph must have made a fairly speeding return to England because on 9th March 1811 he joined HMS Boyne, under Captain Hanchett. His naval record shows he was discharged from HMS Proserpine the previous day – after serving for 3 years 4 months 1 week and 3 days. There is no mention of him being a prisoner of the French for about half of this period.

After returning to England Joseph served as Master's Mate aboard the ships Boyne, Ville de Paris and Impregnable in the English Channel until 1815. In November 1815 he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant and was appointed to HMS Superb. During 1816 a squadron of ships, including Superb, set out to put an end to the trade in European slaves that was being conducted from Algiers. On 27th August 1816 a battle was fought in which the enemy fleet and much of the town of Algiers was destroyed. The Superb had eight men killed and 84 wounded. Joseph continued serving aboard HMS Superb in the Mediterranean until paid off in October 1818. His last appointment was in December 1820 aboard HMS Grasshopper at Portsmouth and Newfoundland, where he served for about twelve months. Joseph did not receive any further naval commissions and returned to Symondsbury where he continued to receive a Lieutenant's half pay from the Admiralty. In 1827 he married Amelia Stone neé Perham of Bothenhampton. In 1838 they were left a cottage called "Gales" in Symondsbury by Joseph's uncle John Pitfield (1770-1838) in his will. Joseph and Amelia continued living in Symondsbury. Amelia died in 1849 and Joseph died in 1858.

1 As outlined in THE PITFIELD FAMILY OF MANGERTON, SYMONDSBURY AND EYPE which appears between Table 8.1.1.1 and 8.1.1.1.1 Thomas Pitfield (1778-1858) married his first cousin Ann Pitfield (1788-1822).

Ann sold her lands at North End to Thomas's brother John Pitfield (1770-1838) and the couple settled on the farm at Mangerton that Thomas had inherited from his father Jacob Pitfield (1723-1795).

In 1829 Thomas Pitfield of Mangerton Farm advertised in the Dorset County Chronicle an auction for the sale of all his animals, farm implements, machines and wagons etc as he was "about to decline business". Thomas sold the farm to his brother John Pitfield (1770-1838). The 1831 Dorset Poll Book lists John Pitfield as the freeholder of Mangerton Farm and John Nicholls as the occupier. John Nicholls (c1804-) was the husband of Thomas's daughter Elizabeth. Upon the death of John Pitfield in 1838 Mangerton Farm, along with much other property in Symondsbury and Burton Bradstcock, was auctioned by John Pitfield of Eype (1800-1854) and John Pope, two of the beneficiaries under the will of John Pitfield (1770-1838). The farm was described as consisting of 72 acres and occupied by John S Nicholls. Mangerton farm was purchased by William Way esq.

At the time of the 1841 census Thomas Pitfield (1778-1858) and his daughter Susan Pitfield were living in the household of Elizabeth Nicholls neé Pitfield (another of Thomas's daughters) and her husband John Nicholls who were farming at Hincknowle in the parish of Netherbury.

At the time of the 1851 census Susan Pitfield was a governess in the parish of Compton Valence. I have been unable to find Thomas in the 1851 census but at the time of his burial in 1858 he was described as of the parish of Stratton, Dorset. It is possible that Thomas Pitfield was living at Stratton Farm House, the farm of William Chick brother to Thomas Chick who had married Sarah Pitfield. In 1851 Sarah Chick, widow, was living in William Chick's household with two children and Mary Pitfield (1806-1860) was a visitor there.

9 J.H. Pitfield, aged 26, book keeper and Angelina Pitfield, aged 21 are listed in the 1870 census in Wallingford, New haven, Conneticuit, USA - both gave their places of birth as New York.

4 Alfred John Pitfield vacated Eype Farm soon after the death of his mother Jane in 1877. In 1881 he was living in Wimbledon, Surrey where he was described as retired.

5 Thomas John Pitfield passed his lawyers exams in 1864 and later became a partner in Lovell Son and Pitfield of Gray's Inn Road. London. The practice still exists today at the same address.

6 Jacob Henry Pitfield cannot be located in the 1861 or 1871 census, but he married in 1871 and at the time of the 1881 census was a dairy farmer of 96 acres in Wimbledon, Surrey. Present in the household was his brother Joseph. Jacob Henry later farmed at Jessops, Penshurst, Kent.

7 George Roper Pitfield was the last Pitfield occupier of Higher Eype Farm which he vacated in 1901.

8 Victor Henry Pitfield

1911, single aged 24, living Jessops Farm, Kent with parents In May 1911 he sailed from London to Sydney, aboard ship "Mamari"
1915 married at Burwood, New South Wales, Australia 4th August 1915 joined the Australian Army
PITFIELD, VICTOR HENRY. Gunner, 3425. 8th Australian Light Trench Mortar Battery.
Died 3 October 1918. Aged 31. Buried in the Bois-Guillaume Communal Cemetery, Rouen, Seine-Maritime, France. Grave Ref: F. 16A.
Commemorated on the Australian National war memorial. Panel 20, and on the Penshurst, Tonbridge, Kent, civic war memorial.

The 8th Light Trench Mortar Battery, 8th Infantry Brigade, 5th Division, in which Victor was serving, was formed in France in July 1916, and was armed with eight 3 inch Stokes Mortars. Victor embarked on 13 October 1915 from Sydney, Australia on board a Commonwealth & Dominion Line Ltd (London) requisitioned vessel, the 7,243 ton H.M.A.T. Port Lincoln (A17). On 8 November 1916, having been evacuated from the Western Front, Victor was admitted to a Voluntary Aid Detachment Hospital at Shorncliffe, Kent, with severe shrapnel wounds to his back and abdominal wall. Almost two years later Victor was again evacuated from the battlefield having suffered more wounds, including a gunshot wound resulting in a compound fracture of the femur and was admitted to Rouen Hospital, France on the 30 September 1918, but succumbed to his wounds on 3 October 1918.

JOHN PITFOLD THE YOUNGER (c1569-) was the ninth son of Robert Pitfold (1516-1586) of Allington.

From the will of Robert Pitfold made 1583 ....to John Pitfolde the younger my nineth sonne..... ..... Item I give and bequeathe unto John Pitfolde the younger my sonne all Righte title Interest and terme of years that I have yet to come in all those burgages with their appurtemures nowe or of late in the severall tenures of William Cole, John Coper, John Gremeslye(?) and Richard Collens whiche I bought of Christopher Symes To have and to holde the saide burgages with rehire appurtnures unto the saide John Pitfolde the younger and his assignes during all of the saide years yet to come as aforesaid…..

John Pitfold the Elder (-1631) and John Pitfold the Younger (c1569-), both the sons of Robert Pitfold (1516-1586), were both of the parish of Allington. They both appear in tax records and parish records, where the suffix Elder and Younger were often used. In some cases, they are referred to just as John Pitfold, making it difficult to differentiate between the two.

In 1592 John Pitfold, described as "of Lyme Regis", who I have identified as John Pytfolde the Younger of Allington (c1569-) married, in the Devon parish of Colyton, to "Anne Southe of Colyton, gentlewoman"

Anne Zouche was the daughter of Charles Zouche (-1613) and Ursula Braye. Charles Zouche was a younger son of Richard La Zouche of Stavordale, Somerset, 9th Baron of Harringworth, whilst Ursula was the daughter of Henry Bray of Tresudyan, Cornwall, Gent (c1500-1545) and Margery Borlase (-1556). The Brayes and Borlases were prominent Catholic families from the Camborne area of Cornwall. Details of the Zouche and Braye families, and their connection to Anne Zouche, are shown on the table overleaf.

Charles Zouche (-1613) and his brother Richard Zouche (-1586) had been left extensive lands in and around the parish of Wincanton in Somerset. However, both brothers got into financial difficulties during their lifetimes. Members of the Braye and Borlase families took an interest in the Somerset land holdings of Charles Zouche to ensure that Ursula Zouche (nee Braye), and any children she may have had, were provided for. Richard Braye of Camborne, brother of Ursula Zouche, also helped Charles and Ursula Zouche obtain property and to settle in the Dorset parish of Bloxworth. In some of the documents relating to Bloxworth Richard Braye is referred to "as of Colaton Raleigh in the County of Devon".

In 1596 some lands in Wincanton, Somerset were jointly sold by "Charles Zouche of Brappole (sic) …Dorset…Armiger and Ursula his wife and John Pytfolde of Allyington in the county of aforesaid yeoman and Anne his wife" The deeds for the sale state that Anne Pytfolde held an interest in the property by virtue of an inheritance. Earlier deeds show that Richard Braye "of Colaton Raleigh" held an interest in the lands, along with Charles Zouche and others, so it seems likely that Richard passed his interest in the property to his niece - possibly when she married in 1592. As stated above the marriage took place at Colyton, Devon. Anne was described as "of Colyton". Colyton and Colaton Raleigh are two separate parishes - each spelt a number of ways in records - but I think it is possible the entry was saying Anne was of Colaton Raleigh - perhaps staying with her uncle Richard Braye.

After their marriage in 1592 John and Anne Pytfolde settled in Allington and had three children christened in the area - 1593, 1597 and 1599. Christenings of other children of the couple have not been found, but other sources have been used to attribute the children shown here. After the burial of their daughter Margaret in 1603 there are no further references to John and Anne, in or near Allington, amongst parish records or in tax records.

At the same time the suffix Younger or Elder is no longer used in records when referring to a John Pitfold/Pitfield in Allington. This seems to imply that one of the Johns had died, or moved away, after 1603. My research shows that John Pitfold the Elder remained in Allington until his death in 1629 - see Dorset 6.

In 1608 Henry Pitfold of Gomelshay (-1637) Dorset 8 obtained a 99 year lease for land in Allington. The lease was for three lives including "Charles Pitfold the son of John Pitfold the Younger". This is the last reference to John Pitfold the Younger that relates to the county of Dorset. The possible significance of this lease is discussed in the notes concerning Charles Pitfield (1599-1680) Dorset 9.2

Richard Braye "of Camborne, Cornwall", the uncle of Anne Zouche, made his will in 1606. It contains no details of his property holdings in Cornwall or elsewhere, and he instructs his brother William Braye to dispose of his property as he sees fit. I think it is likely that Richard Braye held property in the Devon parish of Colaton Raleigh, that could have been left to his niece Anne Zouche/Pitfold, and was later occupied by John Pitfield (-1661), shown here as a son of John The Younger and Anne - see Dorset 9.2 for more details.

References to the children of John and Anne next appear in the Sussex parish of Mountfield where Mary Pitfield marries in 1614, Edith Pitfield marries in 1619 and again in 1631, each time to prominent citizens of Mountfield. Charles Pitfield (1599-1680) acts as a witness to the will of a Mountfield resident in 1621 , and Robert Pitfield is described as "of Mountfield, husbandman" when he marries at Lewis, Sussex in 1624.

I have been unable to find any references to either John or Anne in any records relating to Sussex, so it is not known exactly when the family moved or why. It is known that John Pitfold the Younger was still alive in 1627 so it is possible that Anne Zouche/Pitfold died c1603 and John

RICHARD PITFIELD of St. Botoloph Without Aldgate, Middlesex

A Richard Pitfield, made a deposition in a court case of 1647 when he described himself as "servant unto the plaintiff Anthony Freere in the parish of St. Botoloph without Aldgate, London, merchant, aged 22 years or thereabouts". Further reading of the deposition shows that Richard Pitfield was Anthony Freere's book-keeper.

The deposition made in 1647 gives Richard Pitfield a date of birth c1625, so it is likely he was born in Southampton, where John Pitfold the Elder was living.

In 1648 Richard Pitfield took an interest in some lands in the Manor of Hawkesbury in Essex and in the London parish of Minories. Richard's brother Charles (1599-1680) already owned the majority of the Hawkesbury manor. Richard and Charles sold the Hawkesbury lands in 1649, but Richard retained the land in the Minories parish (for further details of the Hawkesbury lands see the notes on Charles in Dorset 9.2).

In August 1654, a John Pitts "of Culliton in the County of Devon, mercer" appointed "Richard Pittfield, of Eastsmithfield, Co. Middx, ships chandler" as his attorney to act on his behalf in dealings with the government.

It is possible that John Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh (-1661) knew John Pitts, of the same parish, and suggested Richard Pitfield (who was his brother or cousin), as somebody who could act on Pitts's behalf in London. Richard Pitfield died soon after being made an attorney and John Pitts appointed another London citizen to act on his behalf.

Richard Pitfield made a nuncupative will in 1654 in the presence of Charles Pittfeild of Leonard Bromley in the county of Middx Esq and Mary Eastmond, wife of George Eastmond of London Woollen Draper, in which Richard was described as a ship's chandler of St. Botoloph without Aldgate. All his estate, including his property in Minories, was left to Charles Pitfield (1599-1680), who was described as his brother. The will was proved by Alice Pitfield, Richard's relict, although Alice was not mentioned in the will.

Mary Eastmond nee Pitfield was the daughter of Robert Pitfield of Westham (-1657) see Dorset 9.3 and the niece of Richard Pitfield (-1654) and Charles Pitfield (1599-1680).

JOHN PITFOLD/PITFIELD of Colaton Raleigh, Devon (-1661)

I think it likely that John Pytfolde The Younger and Anne Zouche were the parents of John Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh (-1661). This parentage has been established based on the belief that John and Anne were left property in Colaton Raleigh by Richard Braye (-1606) and that John Pitfold (c1569-) was listed as a sailor in neighbouring parishes. Unfortunately I have been unable to establish the parentage of John Pitfield (-1661) with absolute certainty and it is possible he was the son of John Pitfold the Elder and Priscilla Sydenham. For more details see Dorset 9.1.

moved his family to Mountfield. A Henry Roper (1576-1660) and Margaret Roper (1580-1629) nee Zouche were living in Mountfield at his time. Margaret Roper/Zouche was the younger sister of Anne Pitfold/Zouche, so John may have sought his sister-in-law's help in raising his children.

Henry Roper was the younger brother of Sir Anthony Roper of Farningham, Kent (-1642). The brothers were part of a prominent Catholic family. Henry Roper "of Mountfield" was listed as a recusant (Catholic) in 1609 and 1610. Sir Anthony Roper and Henry Roper, gent, both "of Farningham" were listed numerous times between 1625 and 1640 at the Kent assizes for not attending Church of England services. Sir Anthony Roper and Henry Roper were to play a prominent role in the life of Charles Pitfield (1599-1680) - see Dorset 9.2 for more details.

In 1619 a John Pittfolde, aged 50, was listed as a sailor in the parish of Woodbury, Devon, and a John Pitfold, aged 50, was listed as a sailor in the parish of Withycombe Raleigh, Devon. It is not known how long John had been living in the Devon parishes and it is possible he spent a number of years at sea. His residence in these two coastal parishes in Devon was during the period that some of his children were settled and marrying in Mountfield in Sussex.

It could be John was a mariner from a younger age as his residence at the time of his marriage in 1592 was given as "of Lyme Regis" - a seaport. Being a sailor seems a unusual occupation for a yeoman farmer who had married into a wealthy family. However, during the Elizabethan period the New World, exploration and privateering at sea offered huge opportunities to those who could take advantage of them. Sebastian Pitfold (1570-1613), the younger brother of John Pitfold the Younger, was also a mariner (whilst also being described as a "gentleman") and had a stake in a ship of reprisal in 1602 - see Dorset 10.

It could have been that John Pitfold had an interest in privateering as a young man (perhaps with his brother Sebastain) and decided to return to sea after he had settled his family in Sussex. However, peace had been made between England and Spain after James I came to the throne in 1603 meaning there would be no opportunities for taking prizes at sea.

John Pitfold is next found in the tax records in the parish of Holy Rood, Southampton in the year 1623. His name is listed along with a John Peale. In 1627 John Peale, described as a barber surgeon, was pressed into military service for a forthcoming expedition to La Rochelle, against the French. Peale took the precaution of making his will and named John Pitfold as one of his overseers. Unfortunately the will does not state an occupation for Pitfold. John Peale's will was proved in 1630, but Pitfold's name is not mentioned.

It is likely John had moved to Southampton around 1621 - possibly to continue his career as a mariner. Southampton references indicate that John had at least one child - Henry - who was not part of the Sussex family group. From the scant information I have about Henry he was probably born c1608, not long after the family settled in Sussex, and that he took up an apprenticeship soon after arriving in Southampton with his father.

Additionally a Richard Pitfield of Smithfield, named as a brother of Charles Pitfield (1599-1680), was born around 1625. As such it seems likely he was born in Southampton - possibly to a third wife of John. Unfortunately there are no early parish registers surviving for Southampton. See the notes opposite for more details concerning Richard Pitfield of Smithfield (1625-1654).

The will of 1627 is the last reference that I have to John Pitfold the Younger and it is not known when he died. It is possible that John Pitfold, as an experienced sailor, took part in the expedition to La Rochelle in July 1627. The action was a military disaster and the English forces sustained huge losses.

ABRAHAM PITFIELD Gentleman (-)

In 1659 there was a legal dispute (National Archives C 7/445/62) between Charles Pitfield of Allington, Dorset (1622-1660) and his brother Henry Pitfield of Whitchurch Canaonicorum, Dorset (-1683) and his wife Mary Pitfield (-1686) - see Dorset 8.

A number of people, listed by the court, were instructed to obtain a reply from Henry (-1683) and Mary (-1686) to the bill of complaint of Charles (1622-1660) - see Dorset 9.1

Amongst those tasked with obtaining the answer was a Abraham Pitfield, Gentleman. Abraham did not take any part in the drawing up of the answer, and this request from the court is the only reference I have to Abraham. John Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh (-1661) and William Pitfield (-1712) his son did write the answer - see Dorset 9.1

Abraham was a very common first name in the county of Sussex, with the name occurring many times in parish records in and around Mountfield and used by many families. The choice of the name Abraham seems to imply that John Pitfold the Younger married into a Sussex family, after the death of Anne. As already shown I have been unable to find any references to John in Sussex and I have been unable to find a second marriage.

B.

1 As stated on Dorset 9 John Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh (-1661) is thought to have been the son of John Pytfolde the Younger of Allington (c1569-) and Anne Zouche. This is based on the fact that John Pytfolde the Younger is listed as a sailor in parishes that neighbour Colaton Raleigh in 1619, and that Anne Zouche may have been left property in Colaton Raleigh by her uncle, Richard Braye (-1606). Unfortunately there is no definitive proof of the parentage of John Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh (-1661).

It could be that John Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh (-1661) was the John Pitfold, born 1605, the son of John Pitfold the Elder (-1629) and Priscilla Sydenham (-1623) (see Dorset 6). I have no evidence for this and I think it is unlikely, but a date of birth of 1605 fits well with a marriage in 1629, therefore I am showing it as a possibility.

2 There are very few references to John and Agnes Pitfold/Pitfield during their lives and there are no early parish records for the parish of Colaton Raleigh. I have no records of the christenings of the children of John and Agnes, although other sources have been used to establish the five children shown here. Similarly I have no record of the burials of John and Agnes, although it is known John died around 1661, as he left a will (which has not survived).

3 John Pitfold came to the attention of the government of the Commonwealth in 1642 when the sequestration committee threatened to confiscate his property for supporting the royalist cause. John declared his assets were less than £200 so he was exempt from sequestration. In 1651 the Committee for the Advance of Money investigated his activities during the war and found he had "...acted as a commissioner for the King and collector of Excise in the late war, and granted warrants in several parishes for payment of money on excise, on which several sums were paid him." I have been unable to find out if John was penalised by the committee.

4 In 1659 there was a legal dispute (National Archives C 7/445/62) between Charles Pitfield of Allington, Dorset (1622-1660) and his brother Henry Pitfield of Whitchurch Canaonicorum, Dorset (-1683) and his wife Mary Pitfield (-1686) - see Dorset 8.

A number of people, listed by the court, were instructed to obtain a reply from Henry (-1683) and Mary (-1686) to the bill of complaint of Charles (1622-1660).

The answer to the Bill of Complaint was drawn up in the parish of Culliton (sic) in the county of Devon by a William Pitfield and a John Pitfield senior. - the William Pitfield (-1712) and John Pitfold (-1661) shown here. John Pitfold/Pitfield (-1661) who signed the document would have been first cousin to Charles Pitfield (1622-1660) and Henry Pitfield (-1683).

Amongst those tasked with obtaining the answer was an Abraham Pitfield, Gentleman. Abraham did not take any part in the drawing up of the answer and the case of 1659 is the only reference I have to Abraham. I think this Abraham is the son of John Pitfold the Younger - shown on Dorset 9

5 George Pitfield assessed for one hearth in tax records of 1671 in St. Sidwell and described as one of the poor of the parish. Only entries in the parish records include christenings of two children and the burial of one of them. No marriage for George, or the burials of George and his wife, have been found.

6 Thomas Pitfield entered Merchant Taylor's School in 1638/9. The school register does not give his age but most pupils joined at around 9 years old.

In 1656, Thomas Pitfield, described as pleb, entered Hart Hall, Oxford and gained a BA there in 1659. It is likely that Thomas could not go directly to university when he left Merchant Taylors School around 1644, because of The English Civil War, and went to Oxford when the war was over.

7 Thomas Pitfield married Bridget Strong in 1664 and the couple had no children.

8 A lease, taken out in 1668, on a property in Broadclyst made to Thomas Pitfeild of St. Sidwells in Exeter, maultmaker, for ninety nine years, if he or Bridget his wife or Thomas, son of William Pitfield of East Budleigh, gentleman, (see Dorset 9.1.2) so long live.

9 Thomas Pitfield was assessed for six hearths in tax records of 1671 in St. Sidwell and was the overseer of the poor, and paid Church Rates, there in 1666.

10 No burial for Thomas Pitfield has been found, but he probably outlived Bridget as her burial record describes her as the wife of Thomas.

12 1668 William Pitfield and Thomas Pitfield paid Church Rates at Colaton Raleigh

13 1708 William Pitfield, gent paid Church Rates at East Budleigh.

1 No christening for John Pitfield of Venn Ottery has been found. I think he was the son of John Pitfield and Agnes Payne, based on the fact he named his daughter Agnes, although I have no definite proof of his parentage.

2 John married Sarah Podbury in 1660 at Bicton and the couple christened their first two children at Bicton before settling in the parish of Venn Ottery, where he was a yeoman, and their subsequent children were christened.

3 John Pitfield of Venn Ottery left a will that was proved in 1706. This will has not survived. It was unusual, but not unknown, for a will to be proved ten years after a person's death.

4 A court case of 1707 John Pitfeild v Thomas Dowdell (National Archives C 6/550/338) Bill of Complaint by John Pitfeild of Heavitree, yeoman refers to an indenture for a lease of 99 years on land and premises in Venn Ottery in 1662 for the lives of John Pitfield, the complainant's father, Sarah Pitfield the complainant's mother and one Agnes Potbury. John stated his father had died some nine years previously and his mother, Sarah, still lived.

Another case in November 1708 John Pitfeild v John Dowdell (National Archives C 6/550/341) John the complainant is referred to as "of Venn Ottery, yeoman" and refers to the same lease as the case of 1707 and states his father John Pitfeild had died nine years since and his mother Sarah Pitfeild had died a quarter of a year previously.

5 A further case in 1707 - Richard Jerman v John Pitfield. Richard Jerman of Bradnich was the father of Joan Jerman, the wife of John Pitfield. The case refers to John Pitfield and his widow Sarah and their children John, Mary, Agnes and Sarah. In the answer given by John Pitfield (possibly given the following year 1708) he states that his mother has died since the Bill of Complaint was written.

6 In a case of 1709 (National Archives C8/629/4) Richard Jerman stated that his daughter "Johan intermarried the Complainant John Pittfeild without the consent approbation and good liking of the said Defendant Richard Jerman"

7 John Pitfield junior was married firstly to Ann Dilling and the couple had two children christened in the parish of Clyst Honiton. After the death of his wife in 1695 and his father in 1696 John settled in Venn Ottery where he married Joan Jerman/German in 1697.

8 When Joan Pitfield neé Jerman died in 1719 she was buried in her home parish of Bradninch.

9 Thomas, the son of John and Joan was apprenticed to Richard Pratt of Bradninch, cordwainer in 1719.

John Pitfield, late of Venn Ottery, Yeoman. – Insolvent Debtor

11 A John Pitfield left a will proved in 1733, in which he is described as John Pitfield of Powderham The will has not survived. There are no Pitfield entries in the Powderham registers and no burial of a John Pitfield c.1733 has been found in any register. It would appear that John Pitfield of Powderham was married to a Hannah, as a Hannah Pitfield "widow of Powderham" married in 1735.

It is possible that John of Powderham was the same John who was married to Ann Dilling and Joan Jerman, having moved from Venn Ottery, and that Hannah was his third wife. However John Pitfield appears to have still been in Venn Ottery in 1731 when "Sarah, daughter of John Pitfield" was buried in the parish.

No marriage of a John Pitfield to a Hannah has been traced.

1 William Pitfield (-1712) was referred to as William Pitfield of Colaton Raleigh in a number of documents. Amongst these is an entry in Alumui Oxonienses (see Note 6)

2 1668 William Pitfield paid Church Rates at Colaton Raleigh

3 1708 William Pitfield, gent paid Church Rates at East Budleigh.

4 There are no early records for the parish of Colaton Raleigh but William's children were christened in the neighbouring parish of East Budleigh. Little else is known concerning William, but it would seem he must have been a person of some standing to send a son to Oxford.

5 In 1659 there was a legal dispute (National Archives C 7/445/62) between Charles Pitfield of Allington, Dorset (1644-1710) and his brother Henry Pitfield of Whitchurch Canaonicorum, Dorset (1622-1660) and his wife Mary Pitfield (1686) - see Dorset 8.1. The answer to the Bill of Complaint was drawn up in the parish of Culliton (sic) in the county of Devon by a William Pitfield and a John Pitfield senior. I believe the William Pitfield is the one shown on this table and that John Pitfield senior was his father, shown on Dorset 9.1.

6 Alumui Oxonienses entry:
Thomas Pitfield, son of William Pitfield of Colaton Raleign, Devon, pleb. Hart Hall, matric 11 March 1683/4 aged 17; B.A. from Exeter College 1687

7 Thomas was ordained a deacon at Exeter Cathedral 23rd September 1688

8 Thomas married his first cousin, Mary Pitfield of Venn Ottery
Exeter Marriage Licence entry: 9/4/1689 Thomas Pittfield of Colaton Raleigh and Mary Pittfield of Fen (sic) Ottery, spr.

9 Thomas became the curate of the parish of Withycombe Raleigh in 1689.

10 Thomas and Mary had one son William, born in 1689. William's father Thomas died in 1691 and his mother died in 1695.

11 Burial entry, East Budleigh:
14/5/1691 Mr Thomas Pitfield, curate of Withyecombe

12 Will of Thomas Pitfield, clerk, of Withyecombe Rawleigh proved 1692 (will has not survived)

13 William Pitfield (1667-1728) lived in the Exeter parish of St. Petrock, where he was apprenticed to Benjamin Rowe, an apothecary. In 1690 he married Agnes Tickell, daughter of John Tickell, a minister in Exeter, and his wife Susanna. After qualifying as an apothecary William was made a Freeman of the City of Exeter in 1691. William and Agnes had ten children christened, eight of whom were girls.

14 In 1709 a case was bought by William Pitfield against Henry Hayman - National Archives C9/469/119. In his Bill of Complaint William describes himself as "William Pitfield of the City of Exon Apothecary, Uncle and Heire of William Pitfield late of Venn Ottery in the County of Devon yeoman deceased" and that William Pitfield his nephew died in 1709, aged 19 years and that he died single and unmarried and without any brother and sisters. The Bill of Complaint also names a "John Pitfield of Venn Ottery, yeoman". No relationship of John Pitfield to either of the two William Pitfields is given or inferred - but he was almost certainly the uncle, on his mother's side, of the William Pitfield the nephew (1689-1709) - See Dorset 9.1.1 No burial of a William Pitfield in 1709 has been found.

15 From Exeter St. Petrock Church

July 1693 Here lieth in peace ye bodies of John, Isaac and Thomas the sons and Dorothy ye daughter of John Tickell minister of this city. The sons died young the daughter aged 19 of singular piety March 28th 168__ Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. Here resteth also ye body of Susanna his wife the mother of those children as of others yet surviving. Her character is too large to be here inserted. She died July 5th 1693 aged 63. Them that sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him. Here lieth the body of William Pitfield of this city apothecary who married Agnes the daughter of the above John and Susannah Tickell qui obit 1728 aetat 61. Virtute nemini secundem.

16 William Pitfield (1707-1794) succeeded his father as an apothecary and was also made a Freeman of the City. William did not marry and this line of descent died out with him.

1 In 1708 a Joan Ranson had an illegitimate child christened, at Harpford, as William Pitfield. This seems to imply that the father's name was Pitfield. I have not been able to establish who the father was, but it is likely he was someone shown on the Dorset 9.2 charts.

2 There are several documents that refer "William Pitfield otherwise Ransom, husbandman" of Honiton, Devon.

3 Willaim Pitfield/Ransome married to Sarah and the couple had two daughters who were christened with the name Pitfield.

1 Winifred Addrley was the daughter and co-heir of John Adderley of South Mimms and of Chancery Lane, Middlesex.

Winifred was the main beneficiary of her father's will, made and proved in 1651.

John Adderley bequeathed property in the Derbyshire villages of Mickleover, Littleover and Findern to his daughter Winifred Adderley and to the heirs of her body. He also named three other daughters, all of whom were married.

The marriage of Winifred Adderley to Charles Pitfield has not been traced but took place soon after the death of John Adderley.

2 Henry Pitfield was the eldest son of Sir Charles Pitfield and Winifred Adderley.

He entered St. John's College, Oxford 1670 aged 16

He was buried in Saint Saviours Chruch, York in 1677.

3 Mary Fortrye was the widow of James Fortrye of Gravesend, Kent, who died in 1672, and the daughter of Edmund Allanson. Mary had three daughters and a son from her first marriage.

Dame Mary Pitfield settled at Northfleet in Kent, following the death of Sir Charles Pitfield.

CHARLES PITFIELD OF HOXTON, MIDDLESEX 1599-1680

Charles was the son of John Pitfold the Younger of Allington Dorset (c1569-) and Anne Zouche and was christened at Symondsbury, Dorset in 1599.

It is thought his father John Pitfold the Younger left Dorset c1606 and settled his family in Sussex with Henry Roper (1576-1660) and Margaret Roper nee Zouche (1580-1629) of Mountfield Sussex. Margaret was the aunt of Charles Pitfield and his siblings, being the younger sister of Anne Zouche/Pitfield. (see Dorset 9)

In 1608 Henry Pitfold of Gomelshay (Dorset 8) obtained a lease for 99 years on a piece of ground called Allington Hill - held from the Manor of Allington. The lease was for three lives - Henry himself, Joan Pitfold the daughter of Henry and Joan Pitfold and Charles Pitfold, son of John Pitfold the Younger. This is the latest reference to John Pitfold the Younger (c1569-) and Charles Pitfield (1599-1680) being in Dorset and shows that Henry Pitfold (-1637) wanted to provide for his nephew.

Although Charles Pitfield spent most of his life living away from Dorset he had a very strong connection to the county throughout his lifetime. I think it is likely that Charles spent a lot of his youth moving between Mountfield in Sussex, Farningham in Kent, where Henry Roper and his brother Sir Anthony Roper lived and Dorset, where his uncle Henry Pitfold lived. At the end of his life Charles named his cousins Henry Pitfield of Whitchurch and Robert Pitfield of Allington (Dorset 8), the sons of Henry Pitfold (-1637), as his heirs if Charles's own son, Alexander, failed to have a male heir. It is also significant that Charles Pitfield named his first son as Henry.

There is only one reference to Charles being in Mountfield, Sussex, when he acts as a witness to the will of a Mountfield resident in 1621, but Charles Pitfield had a close relationship with Henry Roper and his brother Sir Anthony Roper of Farningham.

The next reference for Charles puts him in the City of Gloucester in 1627, where he appears to have been employed by the Dean and Chapter of Gloucester Cathedral. A Doctor Thomas Winniffe was Dean of Gloucester Cathedral from 1624 until 1631. Winniffe had been born in the Dorset town of Sherborne. It is not known when Winniffe and Charles Pitfield became acquainted but they remained close friends until Winniffe's death in 1654.

Both Thomas Winniffe (1576-1654) and Henry Roper (1576-1660) and their close families had a huge impact on the life of Charles Pitfield. Their stories ran concurrently, and were not directly connected - for the sake of clarity I am describing Charles connections with the two families in two separate sections below.

The family of Roper and Charles Pitfeild (1599-1680)

Anthony Roper esq (1539-1597) and his wife Anne Cotton (1547-1618) held an estate at Farningham in Kent, the Manor of Habrough in Lincolnshire and a large estate in Hoxton in Middlesex. The couple had two daughters and two sons. One daughter, Isabelle Roper (c1568-), married Sir Thomas Wiseman of Rivenhall, Essex (-1654) and the other daughter, Jane Roper, married Thomas Lorke.

Following Anthony's death in 1597 his eldest son Anthony Roper (-1642) inherited the bulk of his property. Anthony Roper junior was knighted when James I came to the throne in 1603. As far as is known he never married.

Henry Roper (1576-1660) was the younger brother of Sir Anthony Roper (-1642) and was christened at Sevenoaks, Kent. He attended Westminster School and Cambridge University and entered Lincoln's Inn as a lawyer. Henry was well provided for in the wills of his father and mother and was left lands and money. Henry spent much of his life at Farningham in Kent, with is elder brother, but appears to have lived for a time, around 1610, in the Sussex parish of Mountfield, where he was listed in two documents as a recusant (Catholic).

The Roper family were prominent Catholics and there are many references to Sir Anthony Roper and Henry Roper being convicted for not attending Church of England services.

Henry Roper (1576-1660) was married to Margaret Zouche (1580-1629), daughter of Charles Zouche (-1613) and Ursula Bray. Charles Zouche was part of the family La Zouche - Barons of Harringworth. Margaret's older sister was Anne Zouche who married, in 1592 at Colyton in Devon, John Pitfold the Younger (1569-) yeoman of Allington in Dorset. John Pitfold and Anne Zouche settled in Allington, Dorset, where they had a number of children. Sometime after 1604 the family of John and Anne Pitfold, including their son Charles Pitfield (1599-1680), left Allington and settled in the Sussex parish of Mountfield, where Henry and Margaret Roper were living at the time. The exact circumstances of why they moved and whether Anne Pitfield/Zouche was still alive at the time of the relocation is unclear. Three sisters of Charles Pitfield married and settled in Mountfield, and a brother, Robert Pitfield, settled at Westham, Sussex. (see Dorset 9)

There is only one reference to Charles Pitfield being present at Mountfield, when he acted as a witness to a will of a local resident in 1621. Henry Roper was living back at Farningham by 1625, where he and his wife Margaret were prosecuted for being recusants. Margaret Roper died in 1629. It seems likely that Charles Pitfield also spent some time at Farningham during this period, and he purchased some property in the parish. According to statements given in later court cases Charles Pitfield gave Sir Anthony Roper good advice and helped him run his estates. Sir Anthony referred to Charles as "my nephew Pitfield".

In 1623 Henry Roper (1576-1660) had entered into an agreement with his brother-in-law Sir Thomas Wiseman (husband of Isabelle Roper), which later led to litigation and became part of the disputes concerning a will, or supposed will, of Sir Anthony Roper.

Ralph Wiseman, son of Sir Thomas and Isabelle Wiseman wanted to marry a servant girl named Anne Norgate against the wishes of his father. Henry Roper made an agreement with Sir Thomas Wiseman that he, Henry, would within a month of the death of Sir Anthony Roper convey the Manor of Habor (Habrough) in the County of Lincolnshire, owned by Sir Anthony Roper, to Ralph Wiseman and his wife Anne. This agreement seems to imply that Henry Roper was expecting to outlive his brother Sir Anthony, and that he would inherit from him. The agreement stated that if for any reason the Manor of Habrough was not available at the time of Sir Anthony's death then Henry would convey land of a similar value to Ralph, or failing that to would pay Ralph a sum of £4000. Why Henry Roper would make an such an agreement seems unclear, but at a later date he said it had been made to facilitate a reconciliation between Sit Thomas Wiseman and his son Ralph.

In 1633 Sir Anthony Roper (-1641) appeared at the Kent assizes accused of taking common lands, near his estate in Farningham, into his own possession and pulling down several farmhouses, evicting the occupiers and converting all the common lands, and his own lands - in excess of six hundred acres - into pasture. The case eventually arrived in the Court of Star Chamber in 1636 when Roper was fined £4000, ordered to pay other sums as compensation, and instructed to return the lands to their former state within two years.

Being unable to pay the fines or to restore his lands Sir Anthony Roper was detained in the Fleet Prison. He managed to obtain his release by mortgaging his Farningham lands and borrowing large sums of money from a number of people, including his kinsmen Anthony Roper Esq of Eltham in Kent, Sir Thomas Wiseman of Rivenhall in Essex and from Charles Pitfield.

In January 1641/42 Sir Anthony Roper died at his home at Farningham. At the time of his death much of the his property was mortgaged.

Sir Anthony didn't leave any children and his brother Henry Roper declared himself to be his next of kin and heir, stating that no will had been made. Sir Anthony Roper had debts of about £4000 at the time of his death and Henry was indebted by a similar amount.

Henry Roper stated, in later depositions, that he had been a convicted recusant but soon after the death of Sir Anthony he, Henry, had been persuaded by his nephew Charles Pitfield to be reconciled to the Church of England

Henry Roper improved the lands he had inherited in Habrough and in Hoxton and sold both properties to Charles Pitfield - Habrough in 1644 and Hoxton in 1648. Lands that Charles Pitfield held at Farningham were transferred to Henry Roper as part payment for both od the sales

Henry Roper used the monies raised from the sales to pay off the mortgage on Farningham and clear Sir Anthony's other debts.

Soon after Sir Anthony Roper died Sir Thomas Wiseman asked Henry Roper to fulfil the terms of the agreement of 1623, and make over the Manor of Habor to his son Ralph Wiseman. Henry Roper refused to do so and Sir Thomas took Roper to court in 1645. The court was at first unsure if property could be promised by someone, who at the time of an agreement did not possess it. The court asked for precedents to be searched for. Precedents were produced and the court found in Wiseman's favour. Roper was ordered to convey the lands or money as outlined in the agreement to Ralph Wiseman. Henry Roper made an appeal to the House of Lords, who heard the case in 1648 and again found in Wiseman's favour. Henry Roper was unable to give the Manor of Habrough to Ralph Wiseman as he had sold it to Charles Pitfield in 1644. Roper was unable or unwilling to pay Wiseman the £4000 he owed and was arrested and confined to the Fleet Prison.

Exactly when Henry Roper was confined to the Fleet is unknown but a later statement says he was at Farningham in 1648, when he was visited by Sir John Cotton of Landwade, Cambridgeshire (c1615-1689).

Sir John Cotton was a cousin to Sir Anthony and Henry Roper, being the son of Sir John Cotton (1543-1620) the brother of Anne Cotton, the mother of Anthony and Henry Roper.

In 1642, when the English Civil War first broke out Sir John Cotton was the Sheriff of Cambridgeshire. Declaring his allegiance to the king, Cotton was instrumental in transferring the college plate from the Cambridge universities to the king's stronghold in Oxford, whilst being pursued by troops under the command of Cambridgeshire's Member of Parliament - one Oliver Cromwell. Following this episode Cotton, under threat of arrest, travelled to France.

In a later statement Sir John Cotton says he gained a pardon and returned to England - exactly when is unknown, but as shown above he visited Henry Roper in 1648. According to Cotton's account he visited Henry Roper often and was well received at Farningham, as he had been by Sir Anthony Roper when he, Cotton, was a young man.

According to Sir John Cotton, during his 1648 visit Henry Roper told him that Henry's brother, Sir Anthony Roper, had requested that Henry should make Sir John Cotton his heir if he, Henry, should have no children. Cotton says that Charles Pitfield, who Cotton said he knew well, was asked to get an agreement drawn up giving Henry Roper a lifetime's interest in Farningham and his other Kent lands and upon his death leaving them to Sir John Cotton. Soon after this agreement was made Henry Roper gave up his lifetime interest in the lands and conveyed them outright to Sir John Cotton for a yearly rent of two hundred pounds. Roper also made a gift, to Cotton, of all the goods that had formerly belonged to Sir Anthony. Sir John Cotton says he believed Roper made this conveyance and gift because he feared Ralph Wiseman could make a claim on the Kent lands because of the agreement made in 1623. After making the conveyance and gift Henry Roper went to live with Sir John Cotton on his estate of Landwade, Cambridgeshire where he "remained as good friend and kinsman with the good liking" of Sir John.

In the early 1650's Sir John Cotton says that "by good providence" he found evidence that shortly before Sir Anthony Roper died he made a will leaving his estate to Cotton, and that subsequently the will had been suppressed and destroyed.

Sir John Cotton claimed that in the year 1651, whilst in London, he was asked to meet with a Sir Francis Englefield, whom he had been acquainted with whilst in France. Englefied told him that an acquaintance of Englefield's, called Francis Plum, had recently died and on his deathbed had confessed to Englefield that he, Plum, had done a disservice to Sir John Cotton. Plum told Englefield that he had been present when Sir Anthony Roper had made a will shortly before he died, in which he left all his lands, leases and goods to Sir John Cotton. Plum told Englefield that he had advised Mr Henry Roper to suppress the will and to destroy it. Plum was said to have told somebody called Quidd, who was an employee of Englefield and a relation of Plum's, about the will. Cotton's account further said that Plum had told Englefield that Henry Roper had been paying sixty pounds annually to Quidd to keep quiet about the will. Shortly after Plum told Quidd of the will Quidd left the service of Sir Francis Englefield and returned to England.

Cotton took dispositions from Thomas Morris, Thomas Hawkes, John Hughes and a number of servants who were present at the death of Sir Anthony. Amongst these servants was one Katherine, who had been a servant to Sir Anthony Roper. According to the accounts given Katherine continued as a servant to Henry at Farningham, after Sir Anthony's death, but when news of the alleged will became known it emerged that Katherine had married Henry Roper, soon after the death of his brother (with the marriage licence obtained by Charles Pitfield).

Cotton said that he confronted Henry Roper about the will when Roper was staying at Cotton's home in Cambridgeshire and Roper promptly left and returned to Farningham.

Sir John Cotton having gained, in his view, compelling evidence that Sir Anthony Roper had left a will became determined to make a claim on all the lands that had been left by Sir Anthony. Ralph Wiseman and Henry Roper (who was still in the Fleet) were still in dispute over the agreement of 1623.

Cotton took action against Roper and Wiseman to establish his claim on Sir Anthony's estate. There followed two trials - one in the Court of Common Pleas and one in the Upper Bench Court. The Upper Bench Court was the name given to the King's Bench Court, during the protectorate, and was the highest common law court in the land.

Although the two cases have not been traced much of the evidence given in the original cases was repeated in a case bought by Charles Pitfield in 1658 (see below).

Upon being examined in court Thomas Hawkes said that he had, by Sir Anthony Roper's direction, written his will three or four days before he died, leaving the bulk of his estate to his cousin Sir John Cotton, with a request that Cotton would maintain Henry Roper, his brother, like a gentleman. The will was read to Sir Anthony Roper and approved by him and witnessed by Thomas Hawes. John Hughes, the doctor who was caring for Sir Anthony during his last illness, also witnessed the will. Hawes and Hughes further said that they made two copies of notes onto parchment of the date of the will and its legacies. They then wrapped the parchments in wax to preserve them, and kept one each. Hughes also said that Sir Anthony Roper, whilst ill in bed, expressed a great liking for his cousin Sir John Cotton. Two servants Judith Alder and Margery Corfield gave evidence that they had seen the will and they had burnt it on the instructions of Francis Plum, who was present at the time.

In June 1657 probate of the will of Sir Anthony Roper was garnted by the Judges of Wills and Granting of Administration to Sir Jhn Cotton knight, with the previous administration that had been granted to Henry Roper declared revoked and null and void.

In 1658, six months after probate was granted to Sir John Cotton, Charles Pitfield took action against Cotton, Roper, Wiseman and a number of the witnesses in the previous cases. Sir John Cotton had been making a claim, as the heir of Sir Anthony Roper, on lands and properties that Charles held in Hoxton. He said he bought the properties in good faith from Henry Roper, believing Roper had title to them. He also listed the improvements that Roper had made to the properties before selling them to Charles and the further improvements that Charles had subsequently made. Charles Pitfield also made the point that the sale of Hoxton by Henry Roper helped to clear Sir Anthony's debts.

Pitfield claims that there was a conspiracy between Henry Roper and Sir John Cotton to claim that a "supposed will" had been made and it was highly unlikely that Sir Anthony Roper would leave his estate to Sir John Cotton "whose face he had hardly seen and was then beyond the seas". Pitfield also says that the copies of the will that were referred to were never physically produced in court and that the witnesses to the will were paid by Roper and Cotton to give false evidence. Pitfield claimed that Cotton was maintaining Roper whilst he was in prison. In his answer Cotton admits that he had been paying money to Katherine Roper for the upkeep of her husband, since the will became known. The Fleet Prison could provide comfortable lodgings for inmates and their family if they had the means to pay for them.

Although Ralph Wiseman was a defendant in the case bought by Pitfield in 1658 he took the same view as Pitfield that the will was part of a fraudulent conspiracy and he also doubted Sir Anthony would have left his estate to Sir John Cotton "a person very little (if at all) known to Sir Anthony".

So did Sir Anthony Roper leave a will or was it part of a conspiracy? Ralph Wiseman won his case against Henry Roper on the basis that Roper would transfer property to Wiseman that he, Roper, had inherited. If it could be shown that Henry did not inherit the property, then it would seem Wiseman would no longer have a case. It seems the "will" only became known about at the time of Wiseman winning his case against Roper and Roper being sent to the Fleet. Cotton admits to a close friendship with Henry Roper and to supporting him financially whilst Roper was in prison. Cotton had also said he thought that Roper had conveyed his Kent lands to Cotton c1648 to protect them from a claim by Wiseman.

It seems possible that a "will" could have been invented to further defeat Wiseman's case and to obtain Roper's release. If this was the case then it seems Sir John Cotton went much further, by claiming all the lands and goods held by Sir Anthony at the time of his death. These included the Hoxton lands, which had been sold by Henry Roper to Charles Pitfield.

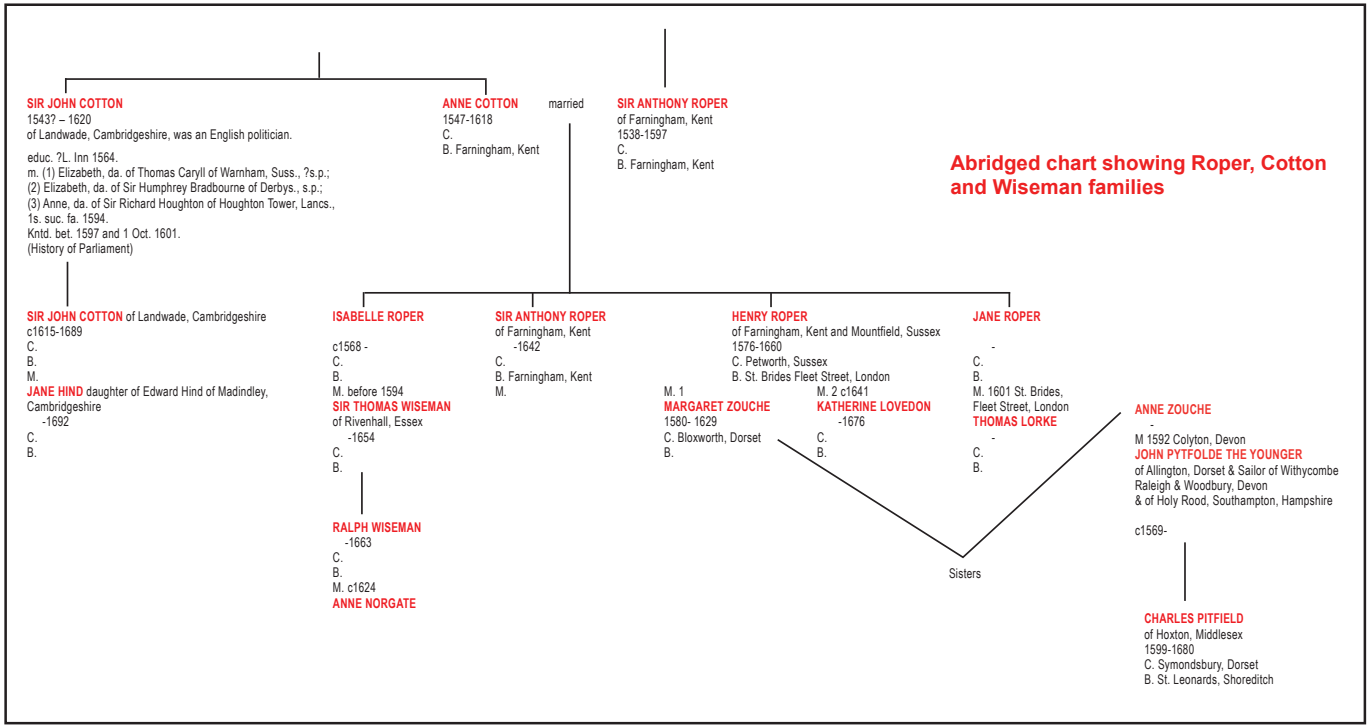
In another case of 1667 Sir John Cotton was still claiming ownership of the Hoxton lands of Charles Pitfield, even though Pitfield had held them for over 20 years.

Charles Pitfield did keep his Hoxton estate and left it to his son in 1680.

Sir John Cotton did keep the Farningham estate and later sold it.

Henry Roper remained in the Fleet Prison, dying there in 1660 aged about 84 - presumably not having paid Wiseman the money due to him.

Katherine Roper, widow of Henry, died in 1676 whilst living in the parish of Farningham.



Some time after the 1651 meeting between Englefield and Cotton, Englefield went to Flanders and shortly afterwards died. Sir John Cotton said he could not take any action over the information he had been given about the will, as the only person alive that had any knowledge of it was Quidd and he did not know where Quidd was living. Cotton said he spent the next three years trying to find Quidd.

Cotton said that one day (c1654) he was walking through Milford Lane in the Strand when he remembered that Sir Francis Englefield had once lodged there. He asked a man in the street whether he knew in which house Englefield had lived. The man pointed out Engelfield's lodgings and Cotton asked the man if he knew of a man named Quidd. The man said he was related to Quidd, that Quidd was a nickname and that his real name was Thomas Morris and that Morris was living near the town of Montgomery in Wales.

Cotton sent a message to Thomas Morris and Morris replied with what he knew of the will, and gave Cotton the names of Thomas Hawes and John Hughes, who were said to have information concerning it.

The family of Winniffe (Wynnyffe, Wynffe etc) and Charles Pitfeild (1599-1680)

A Thomas Winniffe was established in the Dorset town of Sherborne in the mid sixteenth century, and was listed as a governor of Sherborne School in 1555. Thomas was almost certainly the father of John Winniffe (c1538-1620) of Sherborne and Nicholas Winniffe of London (-1616).

John Winniffe (c1538-1620) of Sherborne was a governor of Sherborne School from 1573-1577 and Steward from 1584-1622. John was married to Agatha (surname unknown) (-1614) and he had three sons and two daughters who survived to adulthood: Thomas, George, John, Rebecca and Elizabeth – more about these children follow below. John Winniffe lived to the age of 92 and was buried at Lambourne in Essex, a parish which, as we will see, had connections to his son Thomas (1576-1654).

Nicholas Winniffe (-1616) settled in London where he was accepted into the Company of Master Taylors, - date of entry unknown. He lived in the London parishes of St Clements without Temple Bar (St Clement Danes) and Saint Gregory near Saint Paul's. St Gregory's was a small parish close by the London Cathedral of Saint Paul's. Nicholas was married at least twice and had at least one son – Robert Winniffe (1580-1671).

Nicholas Winniffe obtained leases on several properties in the parish of St. Gregory near Saint Paul's, from the Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church. Before his death in 1616 Nicholas made a gift of the rents and profits from these properties. He gave a quarter share to The Company of Merchant Taylors, a quarter share to "the Master and Brethren of the Almshouse of St John Baptist & Saint John Evangelist in Sherborne to set poor artificers of the said town to a work for their better maintenance", and the remaining 50% to his nieces and nephews, the children of John Winniffe (c1538-1620) of Sherborne.

The records of the Sherborne Almshouse make mention of Winniffe's gift from about 1629. Nicholas Winniffe made his will in 1616, and died shortly afterwards. He made bequests to the poor of some London parishes and to several friends and left £100 to the Merchant Taylors to pay for his funeral. He made no mention of his nephews and nieces, or his son George, and made only a passing reference to his wife Elizabeth. It seems that the gift of the profits from his leases was made during his lifetime, and he may have also made provision for his son George. However, George made a complaint concerning the will and a "sentence" was made in February 1617 making a change in his favour (details are unclear as the document is in Latin). George died in September of the same year.

Thomas Winniffe (1576-1654) was the eldest son of John Winniffe (c1538-1620) of Sherborne

He was educated at Sherborne School and matriculated from Exeter College, Oxford, on 22 Feb. 1594, and elected fellow in 1595; he graduated B.A. on 12 July 1598, M.A. on 17 May 1601, B.D. on 27 March 1610, and Doctor of Divinity on 5 July 1610.

In May 1608 Thomas was admitted to the rectory of Willingale Doe, Essex, and on 15 June following to that of Lambourne in the same county. He became chaplain to Prince Charles, around 1612, when Charles became heir apparent. In November 1624 he became dean of Gloucester, a post he held until 1631, and remained chaplain to King Charles after his accession to the throne in 1625.

In a legal case of 1628 a deposition was made saying that one of the parties in the dispute returned a lease to the Dean and Chapter of Gloucester in November 1627, when Dr Thomas Winniffe was Dean. The deponent stated that one Charles Pittfield(sic) was present when the lease was handed over. 1627 is the earliest connection I have found between Charles Pitfield and Dr Thomas Winniffe, and it seems likely that Pitfield was employed by the Dean and Chapter, possibly as a clerk or assistant.

Charles Pitfield (1599-1680), like Thomas Winniffe, had his origins in the county of Dorset, having been born at Symondsbury in 1599. He was the son of John Pitfold the Younger of Allington, Dorset (c1569-) and Anne Zouche, (c1575-) a gentlewoman related to the Barons Harringworth. It is possible Pitfield and Winniffe knew each other from their Dorset connection.

Dr Winniffe remained chaplain to King Charles after his succession in 1625 and became Dean of the London Cathedral Church of Saint Paul's Cathedral in 1631. It is likely that Charles Pitfield relocated to London around the time Winniffe took up his post. The earliest reference to Charles in London is in 1633 when he made a deposition in a legal action, when he was described as "Charles Pitfield of London gent"

In 1636 Charles Pitfield purchased the first of a number of properties in London and elsewhere. It is possible that around this time Charles had inherited some money from his father. It is not known when John Pitfield (c1569-) died but there is evidence he was still alive c1627.

A surviving lease tells us that in June 1636 "the right Honourable Thomas Winniffe Doctor of Divinity Deane of the Cathedral Church of St Paul in London and the Chapter of the same Church" .... "demised granted and to same let unto.....Charles Pitfeild all.....their manor called Hawkesbury set lying and being in the parish of ffobing in the county of Essex".....

The parish of Fobbing is close to the Thames Estuary and is about 30 miles from London.

At the time of the sale of Hawkesbury Manor Charles Pitfeild was referred to as Gentleman of London.

In 1642 Winniffe was consecrated as Bishop of Lincoln. He retained the deanery of St Paul's, but resigned his livings in Essex. He was deprived of his see by Parliament on 9 October 1646, as episcopacy was abolished for the duration of the Commonwealth and the Protectorate. In November 1646, all bishops' lands were vested in trustees for the benefit of the commonwealth. As a result the leased lands that made up Winniffe's Gift were sold by the government body - The Contractors for Deans and Chapter Lands. To ensure that they still retained the benefits from the leases The Company of Merchant Taylors and the Sherborne Almshouse purchased their share of the property. Those properties that benefited the Winniffe family were purchased by Charles Pitfield and John Stone, citizen and Merchant Taylor of London. The total cost of the properties was around 900 pounds.

In 1650 Dr Thomas Winniffe made his will in which he says that he and Charles Pitfield both had a share in a number of houses in Creed Lane in London, which were left to Thomas by his uncle Nicholas, and appear to have not been part of the Gift. He also asks that Charles Pitfield and John Stone ensure that the benefits of Gift are enjoyed by his remaining sister and Thomas' heir.

Thomas Winniffe left the bulk of his estate, including his remaining interest in Nicholas Winniffe's Gift, to his nephew John Winniffe (-1661). Thomas had retired to Lamborne after his bishopric was abolished and he died there in 1654.

John Winniffe, the only son of George Winniffe was a barrister employed at Lincolns Inn in London. In 1660 his name appears, probably as a barrister, in relation to a long running legal dispute that Charles Pitfeild had concerning his property in Hoxton, Middlesex.

John made his will in 1659 in which he made a gift of twenty pounds to "....my very good friend Mr Charles Pitfield....." He also refers to the gift of his great uncle Nicholas Winniffe and the trustees Mr Charles Pitfield of Hoxton and Mr John Stone (described as deceased). John died in 1661, in his early 30s and unmarried, and he left his estate to his four sisters.

There remains a number of documents in the records of Sherborne Almshouse in relation to Winniffe's Gift. Charles Pitfield continued to act as trustee and the Almshouse and The Merchant Taylors appointed their own trustees to administer their parts of the gift.

All three interested parties in the Gift were in dispute with the Precentor of St Pauls in 1665 who was refusing to renew leases on the properties, from which it is assumed the properties had reverted to the Church following the restoration in 1660.

In 1666 all of the properties were destroyed in the Great Fire of London. Following the fire the Almshouse and the Merchant Taylors took legal action against Dr Crowther, the Precentor of St Pauls. The case was heard in April 1667 "at the Court of Judicature erected by Act of Parliament for determination of Differences touching houses burnt or demolished by reason of the late fire which happened in London" Charles Pitfield and other trustees were named in the case, which determined that the Cathedral should renew any leases held by the interested parties who were encouraged to rebuild on the sites with "all haste"

The benefits from Winniffe's Gift continued to be paid until about 1770.

Amongst a number of properties Charles named in his will of 1680 were ".....several Leases of houses in London which I hold of the King, from the Precentor of St Pauls and from Jesus College in Cambridge....."

More about Charles Pitfield

As already shown references to Charles are scarce during his youth but he seems to have acquired some wealth by the 1630s, and is described as a gentleman in 1633 soon after settling in London. This wealth may have been inherited from his father John Pitfold the Younger (c1569-) or possibly from his mother Anne Zouche/Pitfold. Anne's uncles - members of the Bray family of Cornwall - were at pains to ensure their sister Ursula Bray and her children (independently of Ursula's husband Charles Zouche) were well provided for. As the heir of Ursula Bray/Zouche some wealth may have come through Anne Zouche/Pitfield to her son Charles Pitfield. (see Dorset 9). Charles used his wealth to purchase a number of properties - details of most of these properties and the problems that some of them caused Charles are contained in the two sections above.

Charles lived through the time of the English Civil War and the Commonwealth that followed. The upheaval of these times don't seem to have affected Charles who prospered and bought the estate at Hoxton, Middlesex in 1648, as outlined earlier. Disputes concerning the Hoxton estate resulted in Charles fighting a number of cases in court, often involving his tenants and sub tenants. These were in addition to the cases involved Henry Roper and Ralph Wiseman.

1633 Charles acted as a witness in a court case - referred to as "Charles Pitfeild of London, gent" This is the earliest reference to Charles in London.

c1650 Charles married, at the age of 51, Winifred, daughter and coheir of John Adderley of Coton in Staffordshire. (marriage has not been traced)

In 1652, when the mansion house at Hoxton was occupied by Paul Tracy , a sub tenant, a disastrous fire destroyed a great part of it. As a result it lay waste for two years, while the moat, being unprotected, was a source of danger to the community, one man being drowned in it.

1656 Charles Pitfield of Hoxton, Middlesex, purchased the Manor of Little Taynton in Gloucestershire from the Chapter and Dean of Gloucester Cathedral. It is possible that Charles knew of the Manor when he was working in the offices of the Dean and Chapter in 1631.

10/1660 Charles Pitfield was one of the jurors in the trial of Francis Hacker, Daniel Axtell and William Hewlett. All three were officers in the Parliamentry Army and were accused of Regicide for their part in the trial and execution of Charles I. All three were found guilty. Axell and Hacker were executed but Hacker escaped the death penalty. The inclusion of Charles Pitfield in the jury of such a high profile case, soon after the Restoration, implies that he probably had Royalist sympathies.

1/1661 Charles Pitfield surrendered his position as waiter in the port of London.

1675 Charles Pitfield gave £300, and the bailiffs and burgesses of Bridport, Dorset gave £150, to buy 40 acres of land called Thorncombe in Symondsbury, Dorset. The rent from the land was to be used to provide bread, coats and gowns for "40 aged and impotent persons of honest life and conversation who had spent their time laboriously, not to wanders, thieves and common beggars, but to poor industrious householders to be nominated by the bailiffs and burgesses and their successors, etc" The money was also to be used to pay the Vicar to preach a sermon in Bridport church on the 2nd March, the birthday of Charles Pitfield. "...in such Sermon should be devoutly expressed the thankfulness of the said Charles Pitfield to Almighty God for his great bounty and goodness toward him..."
Indenture dated 5th July 1675

The setting up this charity is another example of Charles' close connection with the county of Dorset.

1 ALEXANDER PITFIELD OF HOXTON 1658-1728

Alexander Pitfield was the only surviving son of Sir Charles Pitfield. He was educated at Merchant Taylors School, Charterhouse School, and Hoxton Private School. He was admitted a Fellow Commoner of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge 25 April 1676, age seventeen, and was admitted to Lincoln's Inn 15 February 1676.

Alexander Pitfield was elected as a fellow of the Royal Society in 1684 and served on its council and as its treasurer from 1700 until his death. From the outset the Royal Society appointed Treasurers who were not men of science, as was the case with Alexander Pitfield. Amongst the archives of the Royal Society is a letter from Alexander asking Sir Christopher Wren to pay his membership fee which was overdue. Alexander translated Memoir's [sic] for a natural history of animals, containing the anatomical descriptions of several creatures dissected by the Royal Academy of Sciences at Paris by Claude Perrault, from the French. The book was published by the Royal Society in 1688.

As his father had been, Alexander was a conscientious magistrate, and appears to have been involved in the early stages of the movement for the 'reformation of manners', for he was a signatory in 1692 to proposals from the Middlesex commission of the peace for 'methods . . . for the encouragement of informers'

He was elected as the Member of Parliament for Bridport in 1698 and was returned several times, serving in the House of Commons until 1708, when he did not stand for re-election. In the 1701 Parliament he reported and carried to the Lords a private naturalization bill. His Whig sympathies were evident in 1710 when he signed the London lieutenancy's address condemning the Sacheverell riots. In his latter years he was taken up with schemes for poor relief in his father's parish of Shoreditch, in particular the building of a workhouse in Hoxton.

Alexander married firstly in 1680, to Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Waller, merchant of St Martin's, Ironmonger Lane, London and the couple had four children who survived infancy and went on to marry. Three of these four children, including his only son Charles Pitfield, predeceased Alexander, and only his daughter Winifred Ashley (nee Pitfield) survived him.

Alexander's first wife, Elizabeth, died in 1700 and Alexander remarried in 1702 to Dorothy, daughter of Thomas Boone of Mount Boone, near Dartmouth in Devon, widow of Robert Boddington, haberdasher of St Magnus parish in London.

Alexander Pitfield died on 19 Oct. 1728 and, after his body had lain 'in state' in Upholders' Hall, was buried at Shoreditch. His will, drawn up in the preceding July when he was 'somewhat indisposed in body', included bequests to the Hoxton workhouse, to a charity school and to 'the poor charity children' of the parish of St. Benet Fink, amounting in all to £350; with over £12,000 in other legacies, to his grandchildren, his 'book-keeper', 'clerk' and so on. His estate comprised of property in London and Essex, and various stocks in the Bank (where already in 1710 he had held enough to qualify for a vote in directorial elections), and in the East India and South Sea Companies.

Alexander was succeeded by his grandson Charles Pitfield (1712-1740), the son of Charles (1691-1715).

Alexander Pitfield's will of 1728

...Alexander Pitfield of Hoxton in the parish of St. Leonards Shoreditch, Middlesex, gent...
...to be buried in the parish church of St. Leonards to lie by my late wife Dorothy Pitfield, deceased... ...my son in law Solomon Ashley esquire... ...my son in law Sir Thomas Clarke, knight... ...my son in law Mr Thomas Bodicoate...

2 CHARLES PITFIELD OF ST. JAMES, WESTMINSTER 1691-1715

Charles was the only son of Alexander Pitfield. Charles married Elizabeth Walden, daughter of Lionel Walden of Huntingdon, in 1712. The marriage appears to have been opposed by his father, as evidenced from a legal case after Charles' death.
1715 Pitfield v Pitfield, (C11 /2238/42) contested the Pitfield and Waller estates:

> "About 1710 Charles Pitfield thought fit to marry Elizabeth Walden, not only without the approbation, but contrary to the advice and desire and in disobedience to the paternal authority of Alexander Pitfield"

It is not know why Alexander was opposed to the marriage, but it could be because the Walden family were sympathetic to the Jacobean cause.

Charles Pitfield made his will in February 1714 at the young age of 23. It seems he felt he might not survive his father Alexander as he made bequests to Alexander and requested Alexander to make certain investments on his behalf, to provide for his widow. Charles named his daughter Elizabeth and his son Charles in his will. A further daughter, Marianne, was born later in 1714.

Charles died in 1715 - reportedly from a fall from his horse (it is possible he had already had the fall when he made his will and finally succumbed to his injuries some 16 months later - conjecture!). He was buried at East Barnet as requested in his will.

In the case of 1715 Charles Pitfield (son and heir of Charles Pitfield, gent deceased) aged 3½ years (by Alexander Pitfield, esq, his grandfather), Ann Pitfield and Winifred Pitfield, spinsters (daughters of said Charles Pitfield, deceased) and said Alexander Pitfield, took action against Elizabeth Pitfield, widow and others over the marriage settlement of Charles Pitfield and Elizabeth Walden.

From 1716-1719 another case was pursued by Charles Pitfield, aged 5 years and his mother Elizabeth Pitfield, widow against Alexander Pitfield, Winifred Pitfield and others.

These cases were only two amongst an avalanche of litigation undertaken in the 1700s over the estate of Sir Charles Pitfield (1599-1680). Charles Pitfield (1691-1715) had already taken his father Alexander to court in 1713, over the provisions of the will of Sir Charles Pitfield.

Elizabeth Pitfield, the widow of Charles Pitfield (1691-1715) remarried, around,1718 to the Hon. Talbot Touchet, a member of a prominent Catholic family.

4 Charles Pitfield made a will in 1715

...Charles Pitfield of the parish of St. James, Westminster, Middlesex, gent...
...to be buried at East Barnet, Herefordshire...
...my honoured father Alexander Pitfield...
...my honoured grandfather Sir Charles Pitfield...
...my daughter Elizabeth Pitfield...
...my father in law Henry Smith of Westminster...
...my son Charles Pitfield...
...my Grandmother Moore...
...my aunt Waller...
...my late Great Grandfather Anthony Tither...
...my sisters Ann Pitfield and Winifred Pitfield...

The "Grandmother Moore" would be Mary Moore the wife of Francis Moore - he was her second husband. Her first husband was Richard Waller. Richard and Mary Waller were the parents of Elizabeth Waller, mother of Charles Pitfield (1691-1715).

Anthony Tither was the grandfather of Elizabeth Waller, the first wife of Alexander Pitfield.

Henry Smith described as his father-in-law was the stepfather of Charles's wife Elizabeth Walden, who had married Elizabeth Walden senior, widow, in 1705.

3 CHARLES PITFIELD 1712-1740

Charles Pitfield (1712-1740) was the only son of Charles Pitfield (1691-1715) and the grandson of Alexander Pitfield. As described in the previous sections, there was a great deal of litigation concerning his inheritance from his grandfather and great-grandfather as well as suits bought concerning his mother Elizabeth Walden.

Alexander Pitfield, having no male heir, after the death of his son Charles, was intent in ensuring his grandson Charles inherited from him. At one point Alexander's daughter, Winifred, tried to make the case that the terms of the will of Sir Charles Pitfield called for his estate to pass to a "male child of his son Alexander" and because at the time of Alexander's death he only had one surviving child the estate should go to that child - i.e. Winifred Ashley/Pitfield.

In 1736 Charles Pitfield placed an advert in the Stamford Gazette offering a reward of six guineas for the return of a gold watch and chain, lost whilst hunting at South Ormsby, Lincolnshire. The watch and case were engraved with "two swans and a bending Grale" - the Pitfield coat of arms.

Charles had engaged a housekeeper, in 1735, to "look after his house and servants in Ormsby in Lincolnshire". In 1740 he took the housekeeper to court accusing her of defrauding him. There was a large estate in South Ormsby at this date but it was not owned by the Pitfield family. Charles could have been renting the estate or he might have had another house in the vicinity - I have been unable to find out.

The dispute between Ashley and Pitfield was, to some extent, resolved when, in 1737, Charles, aged 25 married his first cousin, Dorothy Ashley, aged 15. The marriage was short lived and produced two daughters, Winfred and Mary, with Charles dying in 1740.

Charles left a short will in which he left all his estate to his two daughters. He made his wife Dorothy Pitfield and his mother-in-law (and Aunt) Winifred Ashley the guardians of his daughters.

Charles's daughter Winifred died in 1741 and Mary Pitfield (1740-1807) became the sole heir to the Pitfield fortune.

Charles's widow Dorothy remarried in 1740 to the Honorable Felton Harvey.

Mary Pitfield (1740-1807) married in 1756 to Humphrey Sturt Esq, who was M.P. for Dorset from 1754-1784, by whom she had thirteen children.

The north part of the Hoxton estate was sold to pay the debts of Charles Pitfield the younger and was bought by his son-in-law Humphrey Sturt, while the remainder stayed in the ownership of Mary Sturt (nee Pitfield). Lord Allington, who was a descendant of Humphrey and Mary, was in possession of the estate when it was submitted for public action in 1917.

ROBERT PETFIELD of Mountfield and Westham, Sussex (-1657)

Many of the reference to Robert Pitfield (-1657) give his name as Petfield. Robert described as "of Mountfield, husbandman" married in 1624 to Mary Pinson, the daughter of Mathew Pinson, miller of Herstmonceux. The couple had two children christened at Herstmonceaux and they then settled at Westham. Robert was referred to in various records as Bailiff or Jurat of Pevensey. The Liberty (or Lowey) of Pevensey was an ancient hundred, containing the parishes of Westham and Pevensey. They were entirely within the Levels and together were regarded as constituting part of the port of Hastings, and consequently would be entitled to all the privileges and immunities enjoyed by the Cinque Ports and were not part of the county of Sussex jurisdiction.

The Corporation consisted of a bailiff (similar to Mayor), jurats (corresponding to aldermen) and the commonalty. Administration was mainly carried on through four courts, the Court of Record, the Hundred Court, the Sessions and the Assembly.

The Court of Record was a court of pleas held fortnightly, but not necessarily regularly, by the bailiff to deal with civil cases (important in a trading community) concerning mainly debts, detained goods and trespass.

The burial entry for George Eastmond describes him as "Captain of the band and jurat of the Corporation"

In 1676 probate of the will of George Eastmond was granted to "William Hammond, widower and administrator of Mary Hammond, formerly widow, residuary legatee and executrix of George Estmond"

6 Thomas Pitfold left a will made in Barbados 1659 and proved in 1660, in which he is referred to as Captain Thomas Pitfold, Gent - names wife Margaret and son Sebastian (younger than 18 years). It would seem that Thomas Pittfold was an early settler in Brabados which was occupied by the British from 1627. No references to the family name have been found in any parish records in Barbados, or in a database of plantations and plantation owners. By 1660 sugar plantations had become established and were worked using black slave labour.

7 Sebastian Pitfold/Pitfield left a will made and proved in Barbados in 1681 in which he is referred to as Sebastian Pittfield - names his wife Sarah and his mother Mrs Elliott (possible his mother remarried or could be referring to his mother-in-law). Refers to "plantation which was my father's Capt. Thomas Pitfield."

12 Benjamin's eldest son was christened as Henry at Southampton in 1672. However he was known as Benjamin - in 1678 Ester Pitfield paid 1 shilling for her poll tax plus 1 shilling for "1 child Benjamin for his poll"

13 In 1691 Benjamin Pitfield, described as "of Harwich" married in the Essex parish of Great Oakley to Elizabeth Hurrett. Harwich at this time was an important naval port, so it seems likely Benjamin was connected to the navy in some way - like his father and two younger brothers.

14 No children of the marriage of Benjamin Pitfield and Elizabeth Hurrett have been traced but I think it is likely they were the parents of the Benjamin Pitfield, named as the grandson of Benjamin Pitfield of Southampton (-1704) - see 19 below.

15 It would seem that Benjamin Pitfield junior died just a few years after his marriage as his widow, Elizabeth, remarried in 1694 to William Allison of Woodbridge in Suffolk.

16 No burial records exist at Harwich in the early 1690s so no burial record for Benjamin have been found.

His last entry in the Northumberland Ship's Paybook 1st July 1702 states he was a Third Lieutenant and he was due £103 which was paid to his father Benjamin, administrator

19 Benjamin made a will in 1704.

...Son Henry Pitfield...
...my loving wife Ester Pitfeild...
...my daughter Elizabeth Blankett....
...my Sonn Daniel Pitfeild deceased...
...my Grandson Bengamine Pitfeild...

20 1704 Henry Pitfield listed as 2nd Mate aboard the galley "Rook", aged 22 from England. The ship was bound for Guinea and was a slaving ship of the Royal African Company. The master of the "Rook" was William Blankett - Henry's brother-in-law.

21 William Blankett was from Canterbury in Kent. He married in 1692, in Southampton, to Anne Newman. Anne died in 1696 and William married again to Elizabeth Pitfield in 1697.

22 There are no further references to Henry Pitfield or William Blankett, so it is possible their ship was lost at sea.

The baptism of only one child of Robert Pitfold (1609-1680) and Mary Knapton (-1695) has been found - other references have been used to establish the children shown here.

5 Renaldo Pitfield was referred to as "Gent" and owned land in the parish of Beccles in Suffolk. He appears to have been established in Suffolk by 1661 when he married at Barnsham.
In 1679 payments were made from the Treasury to Renaldo Pitfield of Beccles, for the quartering of soldiers. This seems to suggest that Renaldo was an Inn Keeper.

10 Sebastian Pitfield married Christian Meadon at Chaldon Herring and they had seven children christened in Chaldon Herring and Broadmayne before the family settled in Fordington in about 1685. Only two children survived Sebastian - Charles and Samuel. Sebastian's son Renaldo died and was buried at Beccles, Suffolk whilst visiting his uncle. Sebastian Pitfold (1570-1613) of Allington and Bridport and Portland, all in the county of Dorset, his wife Mary Mountier (-c1620) and their son Robert Pitfold of Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire (1609-1680).

See chart opposite and a further chart (after this narative) showing the relationships of Pitfold/Knapton/Meggs/ Mountier families - all of the parish of Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire and the Senior family of Dorset and London.

12 The founding father of the Fordington Pitfields was Sebastian Pitfield (1632-1702), the son of Robert of Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire. Sebastian married Christian Meadon (1641-1715) and they lived in the two parishes of Chaldon Herring and Broadmayne, before moving to Fordington sometime between 1685 and 1695. Sebastian may well have decided to settle in the parish because his uncle, Renaldo Knapton, was already living and prospering there. Sebastian only had two children who outlived him and only his son Charles Pitfield (1666-1743) married and had children. The Knaptons continued to be prominent in Dorchester, Renaldo's son Thomas and his grandson, another Thomas Knapton, were Governors of the town gaol and had homes in Fordington.

13 Little is known of Samuel Pitfield (1681-1750), but he appears to have been a bachelor. The Churchwarden's Accounts for St George's, Fordington show that in 1732 2s/7d was paid to Samuel Pitfield for mending the Belfry Door. Samuel died intestate and his estate was administered by his nephew Charles Pitfield (see Dorset 10.1).

Sebastian Pitfold was the youngest son of Robert Pitfold of Allington (1516-1586) He is the only child of Robert's whose baptism has been traced.

In 1580, aged 10 years, Sebastian Pitfold, was the second life named on a lease for a cottage in Allington. The first life was Andrew Pitfold and the third life was John Pitfold, both brothers of Sebastian. Sebastian would have had the benefit of this lease when his brother Andrew died in 1586.

From the will of Robert Pitfolde (1516-1586), made in 1583, it can be seen that Sebastian had served an apprenticeship. Where or when the apprenticeship took place, and in what trade, is not known, but Sebastian must have undertaken it at an early age as Robert Pitfold made his will when Sebastian was aged about thirteen. Sebastian Pitfold was left some property in his father's will.

> Item I give and bequeath unto Bastian Pitfolde my sonne all righte title interest and terme of years that I have yet to come in ffee farme of the moitye or halfandeale of four tenements and two cottages with theire appurtenants in Poorestock aforesaid in the said county of Dorset now or late in the several tenures of John Gill, Joane Gill widow and Alice ffrench(?) widowe whiche I bought of the said Nicholas Hare Esquire to have and to hold the moitye or halfendeale of the said four tenements and two cottages with theire appurtenants unto the said Bastain Pitfolde and to his assignes during all the siade years yet to comein ffee farme as aforesaid
> Item I give and bequeath unto Bastain Pitfolde my sonne all my Righte title interest and terme of years That I have yet to come of and in all those burgages with their appurtenures nowe or of late in the several tenures of John Charde, Walter fforde, John Style, Robert Tiptree, Joan Denewill(?) widowe. Christopher Bottoscombe, ????? Collens, Richard Collens, John Peryame, John Follett, Robert Pavey and Nicholas Eggerton whiche I bought of the said Christopher Symes To have and to holde the same Burgages with theire appurtementes unto the saide Bastian Pitfolde and his assignes during all the saide yeares yet to come as aforesaid Item I give and bequeathe unto Bastian Pitfolde my sonne forty shillings of Lawfull money of England whiche his master hathe with him as a????? During his apprentishood

In 1593 Bastion Pitfold of Allington contributed six pence towards the building of a market place and school house in Bridport.

In 1595 Sebastian Pitfold, along with his brother Henry Pitfold (-1637) were plaintiffs in a case bought against Walter Tucker of Axminster concerning an alleged breach of a marriage contract for the marriage of their sister Eleanor Pitfold to Richard Tucker, the son of Walter. The case shows that Sebastian Pitfold and Henry Pitfold were the executors of the will of their mother Joan Pitfold, who probably died in 1594.

There are no more references to Sebastian Pitfold until 1602 when, aged 32, he was living in the parish of Portland, Dorset. During much of Sebastian's adult life England was engaged in the Anglo-Spanish War (1585–1604) - an intermittent conflict between the kingdoms of Spain and England that was never formally declared - during which the Spanish Armada was repelled in 1588. There were opportunities for adventurers to make a fortune with an explosion in trade and exploration and through attacking Spanish shipping. It could well be that Sebastian Pitfold was drawn to Portland and the nearby port of Weymouth to become "a gentleman adventurer". It is not known when Sebastian settled in Portland, but while there he married Mary Mountier, one of two daughters and co-heirs of Lawrence Mountier, who owned land in Wiltshire within the chapelry of Charlton and villages of Ludwell, Donhead St. Mary and Donhead St. Andrew. These villages are close to the Dorset town of Shaftesbury.

Mary's father Lawrence Mountier of Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire, died c1589 leaving two young daughters - Mary and Jane. Lawrence's widow Edith remarried to John Senyor. John Senyor was described as "gentleman of Portland", although it is thought he was part of the Senyor family that had been prominent in the Dorset town of Shaftesbury from at least 1450.

It is likely Mary Mountier would have been living at Portland with her mother and stepfather when she married Sebastian Pitfold.

There are only sparse parish records of Portland in this period so there is no record of the marriage of Edith Mountier, widow, to John Senyor or of the marriage of Sebastian Pitfold to Mary Mountier.

By 1602 Sebastian Pitfold was part owner of "a caravel (carvell) named the Recompense of Weymouth Melcombe Regis, of the burden of 35 tons or thereabouts". The coastal towns of Weymouth and Melcombe Regis had been joined together to form the Borough of Weymouth Melcombe Regis in 1571. The borough, and its port, were close to the Isle of Portland. Portland Castle was an important part of England's coastal defences during this period. Sir Carew Raleigh, the elder brother of Sir Walter Raleigh, was Lieutenant of the Isle of Portland from 1584 until his death in 1625.

Details of the Recompense, and the two voyages she made in 1602, come from a legal dispute between Sebastian Pitfold and a Nicholas Senyor of London, as well as Treasury Papers relating to compensation paid to the owners and crew of the Recompense and a first hand account of the Battle of Sesimbra Bay made by Vice Admiral Sir William Monson, in command of an English naval ship.

Sebastian Pitfold and Nicholas Senyor made an agreement on the 5 April 1602 in relation to the voyage of the Recompense. Details of the agreement, and the legal dispute that resulted from it, appear later in this narrative.

Nicholas Senyor had been admitted to Lincoln's Inn, in 1597, when he was described as "of Dorset". Lincoln's Inn is one of the principal Inns of Court where barristers are called to the Bar.

It seems likely that Nicholas Senyor was related to John Senyor, the second husband of Edith, the mother of Mary Mountier, who was the wife of Sebastian Pitfold. The Senyor family were prominent in the Dorset town of Shaftesbury from at lease 1450 and it seems likely that Nicholas Senyor and John Senyor were from the Shaftesbury family, although I have been unable to establish what their relationship was. The agreement between Sebastian Pitfold and Nicholas Senior seems to imply that Sebastian was already married to Mary Mountier (the step daughter of John Senyor) by 1602. It is thought that Mary Mountier was born circa 1585 so a marriage circa 1602 is possible.

The Recompense was sailing under a letter of marque and reprisal - which was a government license that authorised a private person, known as a privateer or corsair, to attack and capture vessels of a nation at war with the issuer.

At 35 tons the Recompense was very small and probably had a crew of around 20. During this period the port of Weymouth had largely been given over to the business of fitting out ships of reprisal and disposing of prize-goods. The ships of Weymouth, though small, often took substantial prizes and would cruise as far as the Azores and the Caribbean in search of them. Another 35 ton reprisal ship, sailing from Weymouth in the 1590s, called the Catherine, was armed with 4 light cannons - two falcons (3-pounders) and two Falconets (2-pounders) and it is likely that the Recompense was similarly equipped.

It would seem the Recompense put to sea soon after Sebastian's agreement with Nicholas Senyor and at the end of May 1602 she was off the coast of Portugal. The Recompense had met with another ship, the Pearce of Plymouth, a few days previously. The two ships, having spotted Portuguese shipping in Sesimbra Bay on the Portuguese coast, rendezvoused with an English fleet, consisting of five ships and two captured Spanish prizes who were stationed off Lisbon. Monson's account as follows:

> ....Upon Tuesday 1st June....descried a Carvel from Cape Espichel bearing with them; which, by Signs she made, they perceived had a desire to speak to them....The Carvel being fetched up gave Account, That a Carrack and 11 Gallies were in Cerimba (sic) Road....

The Portuguese ships were in Sesimbra Bay, some 40 miles south of Lisbon. On the morning of June 3rd 1602 the English ships entered Sesimbra Bay where they found the Spanish ships strongly posted under the guns of Fort Santiago de Sesimbra. There is not room here to give a full account of the battle - see https://worddisk.com/wiki/Battle_of_Sesimbra_Bay/

At the end of the battle the Spanish had suffered 800 killed or wounded, the fort had been immobilised, two galleys had sunk, and the Carrack had been captured. A parley was offered by the English, which the Spanish accepted. The carrack was a huge 1,700-ton vessel, São Valentinho, recently returned from the Portuguese Indies laden with goods. Under the terms of the parley the English were allowed to take the carrack, with its cargo, as a prize and it was sailed back to Plymouth.

The contingent of ships that escorted the São Valentinho back to Plymouth included the Pearce and the Recompense as can be seen from a letter from Thomas Sackville, first Earl of Dorset, (Lord Treasurer of England in the reign of King James I), to Sir Thomas Lake, Secretary of State, dated 29 April 1605.

> .....Whereas our beloved subjects Captain Gyles Thorneton, Captain Sebastian Pitfolde, Captain Henry Browne, John Randoll, Philabeth Cogan and John Veyney, in the last year of the reign of our late dear sister of famous memory, Elizabeth, late Queen of England, did together at their proper costs and charges set forth to sea two several ships, the one called the Pearse of Plymouth, the other called the Recompense of Weymouth, who being upon their voyage at sea did discover a Spanish Carrack being in the road of Cezimbra, and presently upon their discovery did by their earnest diligence and carefulness seek and find out our said sister's ships then being also at sea, to whom they did give speedy intelligence of the said Carrack, and thereupon they the said Captain Thorneton, Captain Browne, and their company, were by special command from Sir Richard Leveson, knight, and others the then commanders and captains of the said Queen's ships charged to attend, and afterwards were employed in the taking and winning of the said Carrack, in which (as we are informed by the said Sir Richard Leveson and others, the then commanders of the said ships) they the said Thorneton, Browne, and the rest of their said company did special service, not only in yielding their help and strength in the taking of the said Carrack, but also in conducting and bringing in of the said Carrack into our haven and river of Plymouth, in which said service they were employed by the space of nine or ten weeks, during all which time they lived at their own charges and spent and consumed their powder, shot and victuals, which they had laid into their said ships for their voyage, and so by that means did utterly lose and overthrow their said intended voyage, to their great loss and hindrance. The benefit of which said Carrack (wherein there was pepper, calicoes and other things of great value) hath wholly redounded and come to our use. In regard whereof, as also for that humble suit hath been made unto us by the said Thorneton and Pitfolde in the behalf of themselves and their company, and by the said John Randoll for himself, and the said Browne, Cogan, and Veyney, for some allowance to be made unto them for their said expenses and service so done as aforesaid : We let you to wit that in consideration of the said service and expenses and in full recompense of the same, we are well pleased and of our especial grace, certain knowledge and mere motion do give and grant unto the said Captain Thorneton, Captain Pitfolde, and Captain Browne, John Randoll, Philabeth Cogan, and John Veyney the sum of £200 of lawful English money.....
> ....command you that you deliver and pay or cause to be delivered and paid unto the said Captain Gyles Thometon and the said Captain Sebastian Pitfolde one hundred pounds of lawfull English money whereof you our Treasurer are to make division between them as you shall see just cause and as you shall find their several merits.... and the other £100 is to be delivered and paid to the said John Randoll for himself and the said Captain Browne, Philabeth Cogan, and John Veyney.....

The letter seems to say that Pitfold, Thornton, Randoll, Browne, Cogan and Veyney had appealed, either jointly or separately, to the treasury for compensation for their losses, after they had abandoned their voyages.

Thomas Sackville wrote to a Mr Garaway, a treasury civil servant on 27 November 1605. He says of the £100 compensation he has decided to award £90 to Gyles Thornton of the Pearce as he had largely financed his own voyage. He awarded £10 to Sebastian Pitfold as:

> ....said Sebastian Pitfolde had diverse partners with him in the other ship called the Recompense of Weymouth, who did bear their several shares in the same. And that John Randoll, one of the partners of the same ship has already received in recompense of the ???? of the same ship the sum of £100 out of which said sum the said Sebastian Pitfold is to have & receive his part proportionally.....

It would seem that John Randall had a major stake in the voyage of the Recompense. John Randall was a gentleman-merchant of Weymouth, sometimes referred to as "of London." He was the owner of the highly successful ship of reprisal Bark Randall, in which Sir Walter Raleigh had a share. Raleigh and Randall were co-owners of the Heart's Desire of Weymouth in 1596. Randall also owned the Grace of Weymouth and a Portsmouth bark.

Although the voyage of the Recompense was abandoned, and the ship had to return to Plymouth at the beginning of June 1602, for which the adventurers eventually received compensation, this was not the end of her adventures. A legal dispute between Nicholas Senyor and Sebastian Pitfold gives details of how the voyage of the Recompense recommenced.

The legal dispute between Sebastian Pitfold and Nicholas Senyor had reached the Court of King's Bench, Coram Rege in October 1608, but seems to have been in the court system for a number of years. The title Coram Rege derives from the fiction that the proceedings in court were held before the king in person, although that was rarely true. There had previously been a judgement in the dispute made in the Court of King's Bench, which was the highest court in the land. The hearing in 1608 was held because it was thought there were errors in the record and process in the return of the earlier judgement and in the proclamation of an outlawry against Sebastian Pitfold, also made in the previous hearings. A proclamation of outlawry could be made against a person who failed to appear in court - in both criminal and civil actions. The dispute concerned events that unfolded in 1602 and 1603.

The record of the case in the Coram Rege Chief Justice's Roll is very long and written in Latin. It contains a lot of legal rhetoric and a large part of it is a written record of the previous hearings, much of which consists of the complaint of Nicholas Senyor.

> Sebastian Pitffold, late of Portland in the county of Dorset, gentleman, otherwise called Sebastian Pytffold of Bridport in the county of Dorset, was summoned to answer to Nicholas Senyor, gentleman, one of the attorneys of the court of the lord king of Bench, concerning a plea that he should hold to him a covenant, made between them, according to the force, form and effect of a certain deed thereupon completed between them, etc. And whereupon the same Nicholas in his own proper person says that, whereas by a certain deed made at London in the parish of St Mary de Arcubus in the ward of Chepe, on the fifth day of April in the 44th year of the reign of lady Elizabeth [5 April 1602], late queen of England, by the aforesaid Sebastian by the name of Sebastian Pitffold of Bridport in the county of Dorset, which the same Nicholas produces here in court, sealed by the seal of the aforesaid Sebastian, whose date is on the same day and year, it is witnessed that the aforesaid Sebastian, being owner of part of a good boat in English a caravel (carvel) named the Recompense of Weymouth Mellcome Regis, of the burden of 35 tons or thereabouts, then bound forth to the seas in warlike manner, by virtue of letters of reprisal, in which Henry Browne of Bridporte, aforesaid, goes (in English 'goeth') captain and John Barton master, had received from the same Nicholas the sum of £6 of lawful money of England only in the adventure towards the provision of victuals (in English 'the victualling forth') of the said boat in its present intense voyage, the whole victuals attaining to the sum and burden of £100, and no more.....*
> ....And the same Nicholas says that the said small ship after the completion of the said deed, namely on the last day of June 44 Eliz. I [30 June 1602], departed and sailed on the said voyage from the port of Weymouth Melcombe Regis, Dors, upon the high sea...

From the above it can be seen the deed of 5 April 1602 was completed before the Recompense set sail on its initial voyage and that the ship put to sea for a second time on the 30 June 1602, after the abandonment of her first voyage at the beginning of June 1602.

> .....Afterwards namely on 21 Aug 44 Eliz. I [21 August 1602], the said Henry Browne, captain of the said small ship, and the said John Batton, master of that small ship, and their company and fellows came upon a certain Spanish ship called 'a Spanish carrick', then laden with goods, merchandise and silver money to the value of £6,000, belonging to certain Spanish men and subjects of the king of Spain, and made a hostile attack in a warlike manner and captured the said Spanish ship and its goods.....

It appears the Recompense had been at sea for seven or eight weeks, before they captured the Spanish Carrick - no details are given as to where the engagement took place or of the name of the Spanish ship.

> .....On 1 Sep 44 Eliz. I [1 Sept 1602] they led it away to the port of Plymouth....
> .... The said Nicholas says that, on 1 Dec 45 Eliz. I [1 December 1602], goods and chattels to the value of £600 from the goods and merchandise laden and captured on the said Spanish ship, at London in the parish and ward, aforesaid, were unloaded out of the said Spanish ship as goods and chattels for the shares of the said goods and merchandise on the same ship belonging to the said small ship, and as shares and portions belonging to the same small ship. Nicholas says that the custom within this realm was that the owner of this ship, in which any warlike voyage was made, had and was accustomed to have the third part of these goods and chattels acquired in this voyage as his share. The victualler of the same ship has and was accustomed to have another third part as his share, and the captain, master and fellows of the same ship had and were accustomed to have the other third part. And so out of the total of £600 each share was £200...

....By pretext of the said custom there pertained to the same Nicholas as one of the providers of the victuals, being in the said ship specified for the said voyage in the said deed, to have for his share goods and chattels to the value of £12 10s from the same goods and chattels so totalling £200, according to the rate of £6 in £100 for victuals in the said small ship for the said voyage, adventured by the same Nicholas, and received by the said Sebastian, as is mentioned in the said deed above.....

.....The said Nicholas further says that the said Sebastian*, on 10 Apr 1 Jas. I* [10 April 1603], at London, in the parish and ward, aforesaid, took and carried away goods and chattels, which pertained to the same Nicholas*, to have for the said £6 received by the said* Sebastian in the said form and adventured by the same Nicholas on the said voyage, and he has detained them in his hands and detains them. By which the same Nicholas could not have and receive them according to the form of the said deed. And so the said Sebastian broke the said agreement.....

Pleas heard at Westminster Hilary Term 4 Jas. I. [11-31 January 1607] Sebastain Pitfold attended court

The said Sebastian comes and defends the force and injury. And he says nothing in bar of the said action of the said Nicholas by which the same Nicholas might remain undefended against the said Sebastian*. He does not know what damages the said* Nicholas has sustained. Therefore, the sheriff is ordered to make an inquiry as to these damages.

An inquisition took place a the Guildhall City of London on 19th April 1607 to ascertain what damages Nicholas was owed.

...said Nicholas sustained damages beyond his costs and expenses laid out by him around his suit at 20 marks. And for those costs and expenses at 26s 8d. Therefore, it is considered that the said Nicholas should recover against the said Sebastian his damages at £14 13s 4d, found by the said inquisition, and also 33s 4d to the same Nicholas at his request for his said costs, awarded here by the court as increment. Which same damaged total at £16 6s 8d. And the said Sebastian is in mercy.

In April 1608 and again in October 1608 Sebastian Pitfold was ordered to appear at court to pay Nicholas the damages that had been awarded. The sheriff reported that at the hustings of common pleas held at the Guildhall of London, October 1608, Sebastian was exacted and did not appear. He had also not appeared on four previous occasions and "therefore he is outlawed"

On Tuesday next after the morrow of St Martin [November 1608] in that same term there came the said Sebastian in his own proper person by virtue of a writ of the said king, etc, and he handed himself over to the prison of the Marshalsea.

Sebastian Pitfold appeared in court and said that in the rendering of the said judgement and in the proclamation of the outlawry a clear error was made.

Sebastian Pitfold makes a case that there were a number of errors in the way the case had been pursued - these seem to be mainly technicalities - and he also disputes the amount of money he should pay Nicholas. Sebastian asks for a writ to be issued for Nicholas to appear at court and a writ is issued for both Sebastian and Nicholas to appear on 26 November 1608. At the same time four gentlemen stood surety that Sebastian would appear on the appointed day. One of the four was Edward Elliott, gentleman of Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire. Edward was the brother in law of Sebastian. There is more concerning Edward Elliott below.

Sebastian Pitfold appeared in court on the 26 November 1608 but Nicholas did not appear. The two were summoned to court on future occasions and eventually both appeared in January 1609 to hear judgement.

Upon which both the record and process were examined, etc, because it seems to the court of the king here that there are defects in the said record and process or in the return of the said judgement, it is considered that the judgement is to be and stand in all its force. And because the court is not yet advised about the outlawry, a day is given to the parties in 15 days after Easter Day, etc, to hear judgement.

The above is the final paragraph of the document - I have not been able to find the final judgement concerning the outlawry, which probably exists in the records of a later hearing.

It seems the only references to Sebastian Pitfold being a captain are in the two letters of 1605, looking into the compensation being awarded for the curtailment of the first voyage of the Recompense. It is clear from the references to both of the voyages that Henry Browne was the captain of the Recompense and it is not clear whether or not Sebastian Pitfold was actually on board, or if he just had a financial stake in the enterprise. It was not unknown for those financing ships of reprisal to take part in the voyage themselves. It could be that the title captain was included in the letters by mistake or it could be that Sebastian had been involved in other voyages before 1602, where he might have acted as ship's captain. It is not known if Sebastian had any further involvement in the reprisal trade after the voyages of the Recompense, but in 1604 the Anglo-Spanish War, and the age of reprisal ended.

15 March 1603 Thomas Pitfold of Allington, Dorset, elder brother to Sebastian Pitfold, made his will and died on the same day. Although the will of Thomas Pitfold has not survived there was an Inquisition Post Mortem held in 1607 which showed that Thomas held 2 properties, both of which he left to his brother Sebastian Pitfold: A 2 messuages and 31 acres in Allington (unnamed) and B 1 messuage and 22 acres called Curtops in Allington. (Much more about these 2 properties below).

20 November 1606 Sebastian Pitfold took out a deed on one cottage or tenement called Perriams, containing nine acres, in Allington. (referred to as C below). This deed seems to imply that Sebastian Pitfold had returned to Allington by 1606 - this is borne out by the court case of 1608 above, which referred to him as

"Sebastian Pitffold*, late of Portland in the county of Dorset, gentleman, otherwise called* Sebastian Pytffold of Bridport in the county of Dorset"

However other later documents still refer to him as Sebastian Pitfold of Portland.

Two deeds from 1606, dealing with the lands in Wiltshire that were left by Lawrence Mountier, upon his death in 1589, show that Mary Pitfold "one of the co-heirs of Lawrence Mountier*"* was the wife of *"*Sebastian Pitfold of Portland Castle, co. Dorset, gentleman" whilst Jane Elliott "one of the co-heirs of Lawrence Mountier"* was the wife of *"*Edward Elliott of Charlton, Co. Wilts, yeoman". The deeds also show that *"*John Senyor of Portland Castle, co. Dorset, gentleman," and Edith his wife, also had an interest in the half of the estate that belonged to Sebastian and Mary Pitfold. As outlined earlier, Edith was the widow of Lawrence Mountier, who had remarried John Senior of Portland.

It is thought that Jane Mountier was the younger of the two daughters of Lawrence and was born between 1586 and 1589, so it is likely that she had not long been married to Edward Elliott at the time the deeds of 1606 were drawn up. No entry for the marriage of Edward Elliott to Jane Mountier has been found. Although it is believed Mary and Jane spent much of their childhood with their mother and stepfather in Portland it is not surprising, as the co-heir of Lawrence Mountier of Donhead St. Mary, that Jane made a marriage to Edward Elliott, a yeoman, also of Donhead St. Mary.

In 1609 Sebastian Pitfold and Mary Pitfold and Edward Elliott and Jane Elliott sold their lands in Wiltshire to Thomas Belliott of the parish of St. Clement Danes in the county of Middlesex gentleman.

Thomas Belliott, had been steward to William Cecil, 1st Baron Burghley, Queen Elizabeth's chief advisor. Around 1608 Belliott used funds, left by Cecil in 1598, to establish an alms house in Bath, called Belliott's Hospital. The lands purchased from Sebastian and Mary Pitfold and Edward and Jane Elliott were given to the Corporation of Bath to help fund the Hospital. Belliott then gave the hospital to the Corporation of Bath in 1611.

17 January 1609/10 Robert Pitfold, son of Sebastian Pitfold and Mary his wife was born. No christening has been found for Robert but his date of birth has been established from the Inquistion Post Mortem of Sebastian (see below)- it is probable he was christened at Portland, where parish records have not survived for this date.

13 August 1612 An indenture "Between Maximilian Mohun of Fleet in the County of Dorset Esquire and Sebastian Pitfold of Portland in the County aforesaid gent on the one parte And Robert Nociter of Bridport in the County aforesaid Miller on the other parte" on a property in Bridport.

19 January 1613 Sebastian Pitfold "of Allington" was buried at Bridport.

17 October 1615 Inquisition Post Mortem of Sebastian Pitfold "of Allington" held. The Inquisition found that at the time of his death Sebastian Pitfold held three properties:

A 2 messuages and 31 acres in Allington (unnamed) - this is the same property that Sebastian had inherited from his brother Thomas Pitfold.

B 1 messuage and 22 acres called Gurtops in Allington. - this was the same property that Sebastian inherited from his brother Thomas Pitfold.

C 1 cottage and 9 acres called Perriams, in Allington - This held by a deed dated 20 November 1606 - see above

The Inquisition stated that Sebastian Pitfold, and Mary Pitfold his wife, leased properties A and C to John Boden [or Budden] John Daccombe, Robert Polden gent. and Giles Stagge yeoman for the use of the said Mary and her legitimate heirs by Sebastian. The inquisition shows that Sebastian Pitfold had given the benefit of property B (Gurtops) to Anne Pitfold, the widow of Thomas Pitfold, during her lifetime, with the property reverting to Sebastian Pitfold and his legitimate heirs, upon the death of Anne Pitfold.

The Inquisition also stated that Robert Pitfold was the son and heir of Sebastian Pitfold and Mary Pitfold - age given, which equates to a birth date of 17 January 1609/10. The Inquisition also stated that Mary Pitfold, widow of Sebastian Pitfold, was alive and was living at Portland and that Anne Pitfold, the widow of Thomas Pitfold, was alive and living in Culliton (Colyton), Devon.

It seems likely that Mary Pitfold, the widow of Sebastian Pitfold returned to Portland, after Sebastian's death, along with her son Robert Pitfold to live with her mother Edith Mountier/Senyor and her step-father John Senyor.

A number of references occur in the records of the Court of Wards and Liveries, concerning the property of Sebastian Pitfold. The Court of Wards and Liveries dealt with matters of inheritance where the deceased person was a Tenant in chief of the Crown and the heir to the estate was under age (21 for a boy, 14 for a girl).

1621 "Marriage of Robert Pittfold, son and heir of Sebastian Pittfold, gentleman, deceased, is granted to Morgan Senyor, gentleman, not to the use of the ward and without exhibition." This would allow Morgan Senyor to arrange any marriage of Robert Pitfold and gain any financial benefit from it.

1621 & 1622 Document of 26 May 1622 notes that Anne Pitfold, widow of Thomas Pitfold had died on 10 February 1621/22 and that premises B (Gurtopps) would pass to Robert Pitfold, son and heir of Sebastian Pitfold deceased.

> " Mem[oran]d[um]. also that the sayd p[re]misses are to be demised to John Senyor the grandfather to th'use of the ward"

1621 "Morgan Senior of Cuttle Street in Hoxton in the County of Middlesex gent John Senyor of Portland in the County of Dorset gent and Thomas Markham of the parish of St Andrews in Holborn in the County of Middlesex gent stand bound in one obligation of xxth ??? sixth day of May Ao ??? for payment of xO the 23rd of August Ano 1621 for the fine of the ward and marriage of Robte Pitfolde his majesties ward son and heir of Sebastian Pitfold gent deceased"

1621-1625 Various other references in the records of the Court of Wards show that Morgan Senyor had the benefit of premises A (2 messuages and 31 acres) and that John Senyor had the benefit of premises B (Gurtopps). Both John and Morgan Senyor appear in these records as they had failed, several times, to pay their "fines" to the crown. Thomas Markham is not mentioned again but it seems likely he had the benefit of premises C (Perrimans).

It is not know what became of Mary Pitfold, the widow of Sebastian but it seems likely she died around the same time as Anne Pitfold, the widow of Thomas Pitfold (i.e. 1601) as the wardship covered all of the lands of Sebastian, including those that were for "the benefit of Mary widow of Sebastian."

Robert Pitfold, the under age heir of Sebastian Pitfold, would have become a ward of the Crown when Anne Pitfold and Mary Pitfold died. The Crown usually sold ward-ships to the next of kin of the ward.

As stated in the document above John Senyor was the grandfather (or step-grandfather) of Robert Pitfold, as he had married Edith the widow of Lawrence Mountier. Lawrence and Edith Mountier were the parents of Mary Mountier, the wife of Sebastian Pitfold. It is not certain who Morgan Senyor was but it likely he was the son of John Senyor of Portland, either by Edith or from an earlier marriage. We also do not know who Nicholas Senyor, the complainant against Sebastian Pitfold, was but it is likely he too was closely related to John Senyor of Portland.

In 1625 Morgan Senyor made his will in which he described himself as

> ".....I give and bequeath unto my beloved wife Hannah Senyor the wardship of the body and lands of Robert Picfold (sic) son and heir of Sebastian Pickfold (sic) deceased which I by grant of his majesty and the whole benefit of the marriage of the said ward and the profits of his lands and all my of estate right title and interest therein together with all my goods chattels and personal estate whatsover"

It seems unlikely that a ward-ship, granted by the crown, could be left to a widow in a will.

In 1626 the will of Morgan Senyor was proved - no burial of Morgan Senyor has been found in Allington, Bridport or elsewhere.

1626 John Senyor paid taxes on the lands of Robert Pitfold at Allington. This is the last connection between the Pitfold and Senyor families that I have found.

When an heir came of age (at 21 for a boy and 14 for a girl), they were released from the ward-ship. Like all heirs – whether or not they had been wards – they could not receive their inheritance until they had 'sued out their livery'.

Prominent men of the local area were asked to certify that an heir had reached the appropriate age. The heir then had to pay a sum of money to the crown in exchange for the powers attached to his title and freedom from dependence as a ward.

Eventually a warrant was issued for the livery to pass under the Great Seal.

I have not been able to find any record of Robert Pitfold being released from the ward-ship but in 1627, aged around 18 years, he married. In the same year he paid his own tax on his lands - as shown below. It could be that he was "released" from the wardship upon the death of Morgan Senyor.

1627 Robert Pitfold married at Charlton Marshall, Dorset to Mary Knapton, The Knapton family were from the hamlet of Ludwell in the parish of Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire. This is the same hamlet where Lawrence and Edith Mountier, Robert's grandparents had lived. Although John Senyor and Morgan Senyor had the wardship of Robert Pitfold it may well be that Edith Mountier/Senyor, Robert's grandmother, had some influence over the marriage he made. It is possible Edith was related to the Knapton family (speculation!) and is also possible that John Senyor died c1626 which left Edith free to arrange the marriage of her grandson Robert (speculation! - no PRs at Portland!)

1628 Robert Pitfold pays taxes on his lands at Allington.

1637 Renaldo Knapton "of Fordington", gentleman is listed in the Dorset Quarter Sessions records as licenced to sell ale. The next entry in the records refers to Robert Pittfold "of Allington" Renaldo Knapton was the brother in law of Robert Pitfold. As can be seen in the article overleaf, Sebastain Pitfold (1632-1702), the son of Robert Pitfold settled in the Dorset parish of Fordington, where some of the Knapton family were established.

References to Robert Pitfold/Pitfield (1609-1680) are scarce, and the parish records for Donhead St. Mary are patchy, but one son of Robert and Mary was christened at Donhead St. Mary - Sebastian Pitfold/Pitfield (1632-1702). Robert himself was buried in the parish in 1680.

In 1641 Renaldo Knapton the Elder of Donhead St. Mary died and made a bequest 'to my son-in-law Pytfold, my oxen, kyne, horse, beasts and young beasts, sheep and corn that lies in the common fields at Charlton but my will is that my wife (Bridget nee Mussell) shall have the use and benefit of the kyne and one half of the corn during her life'

In 1653 a survey was made of a messuage and lands called "Magdalen's Chantry" within the parish of Allington, Dorset. In establishing the whereabouts of the chantry the survey listed various lands that bordered it, including "the lands of Robert Pittfold of Sharston" . Sharston was the old name for the town of Shaftesbury in Dorset. Shaftesbury is the nearest large town to the Wiltshire parish of Donhead St. Mary, so it would seem that the survey was referring to land owned by Robert Pitfold (1609-1680), which he had inherited from his father Sebastian Pitfold (1570-1613). The parish records for Shaftesbury are sparse but Mary Pitfold, daughter of Robert Pitfold (1609-1680) and Mary Knapton (-1695) married in the parish, in 1654, to Ferdinando Meggs. Banns for the marriage were published at Shaftesbury which described "Mary Pitfold of Sharston St. Peter the daughter of Robert Pitfield of Carleton in the parish of Donhead." Meggs was another family from Donhead St. Mary who are shown in the chart showing the Pitfold/Knapton/ Meggs/Mountier families later in this volume.

1659 Robert Pitfield of Donhead St Mary, Gent and Renaldo Knapton of Donhead St Mary, Gent were summoned to appear at the King's Bench, Westminster - the highest common-law court in England. Both men were held in the debtors prison of the Marshalsea, each having borrowed a sum of £40 in 1648 from an Edward Burd or Hurle and had failed to repay him. Neither Robert or Renaldo appeared at court to answer the charges. They were each ordered to repay the debts plus 21 shillings in costs.

1663 an Edward Hope took action, at the King's Bench, against Robert Pitield, then being held in the debtor's prison of the Marshalsea. Robert was accused of ordering goods from Hope, who was a merchant, to be delivered to Mary Meggs, wife of Ferdinando Meggs of Ludwell in the county of Wiltshire, grocer. Mary Meggs was the daughter of Robert Pitfield. Hope says that Pitfield had said he would pay for the ordered goods and had also promised to repay a debt of £41 to Hope that had been incurred by Ferdinando Meggs, but that Robert Pitfield had failed to do so. Hope was seeking payment of £100 from Robert Pitfield. The case was to be tried in front of a jury at the King's Court, Westminster. I have been unable to find a record of the verdict.

1664 Robert Pitfield of Donhead, Wiltshire "being in the custody of the marshal, etc, concerning a plea of debt" appeared in court at Westminster again, over the same debt of £40 that had been examined in 1659. The court ordered Robert to repay the amount plus 21 shillings damages.

It seems likely that Robert Pitfold of Donhead St. Mary spent a number of years in the Marshalsea. The Marshalsea was a notorious prison in Southwark, just south of the River Thames that housed a large number of debtors.

For those who still had access to funds despite being inside for debt, life at the Marshalsea was relatively congenial: prisoners set up restaurants, bars, and shops, and they were able to leave the prison during the day to work and earn money. The Marshalsea was open to visitors and prostitutes who would come and go as they pleased, and men would often move their families into the Marshalsea with them.

Although the christening of only one child of Robert Pitfold and Mary Knapton has been traced, other records and references have been used to establish a further four children. Details of Robert's son Sebastian Pitfield of Fordington(1632-1702) are given on the next page, whilst details of the lives of Robert and Mary's other children are shown on Dorset 10.

THE PARISH OF FORDINGTON AND THE PITFIELDS by Hugh Pitfield of Aldershot, Hampshire and Michael Pitfield of Windsor, Berkshire, 2016

The founding father of the Fordington Pitfields was Sebastian Pitfield (1632-1702), the son of Robert of Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire. Sebastian is shown on Dorset 10 and his very large number of descendants are shown on the tables that follow on.

The first few generations of the Pitfield family in Fordington were reasonably prosperous and were described as yeoman. However, by the mid 1700s much of the family were less prosperous with menfolk working as agricultural labourers and the woman often working as laundresses. Family sizes were often very large leading to poverty. Some of the Pitfields, having fallen on hard times, turned to crime to survive. Others developed skills or professions such as masonry, tailoring and hairdressing, whilst one branch of the family became prosperous publicans.

Details of the lives of some of these families are shown on the tables that follow.

In 1835 Fordington was incorporated into the enlarged Borough of Dorchester and it had the dubious distinction of being the poorest and most overcrowded of the four Dorchester parishes, containing nearly half the Borough population, with 2,986 souls listed in the 1851 census, 35 of whom were Pitfields (with another 6 Pitfields listed elsewhere in Dorchester). A Board of Health report of 1848 described conditions there:

> " in High Fordington, for want of means of cleansing, typhus fever has not been absent for the last three years, and in Lower Fordington there is a crowded and pauper population dwelling in the midst of filth."

A more graphic account was given by the Reverend Henry Moule, vicar of Fordington, in a letter published by the Dorset County Chronicle, at the time of the cholera epidemic of 1854:

> At the East end of Dorchester, then, and within a space that can scarcely exceed five acres, about 1,100 persons are congregated in a set of dwellings, many of which are of the most wretched description, and utterly destitute of the ordinary conveniences of life. This space consists of two great divisions, Mill Street, on the one side of a Mill Pond, and Holloway Row, together with Cuckold Row and Standfast, on the other side. - In Mill Street, the floors of the houses lie considerably below the highest elevation of the pond, and some of them even below its bed. The other division consists of two, and in one part of it, of three rows of cottages, rising one above the other, from the bank of the Mill Pond, on the other side of a chalk hill. In Holloway Row, about twenty of the cottages have a small patch of ground, about 18 feet square, and a pathway and lane in front of them. They have also a little space hollowed out of the hill behind them. But, with these exceptions, scarcely a cottage in this division (and the same may be said of many in Mill Street) has a single inch of ground beyond that on which it stands. Their filth is consequently cast either into the open and wretched drain in the street, or into the Mill Pond, from which, moreover, the people draw most of their water for washing, and sometimes, even for culinary purposes, "the conveniences" of more than half these 1,100 people empty themselves together with the filth from the County Goal, and of some portion of the other three Parishes of Dorchester. The population, with few exceptions, consists of mechanics, labourers, and paupers from this and many other parishes. Vice, in its worst forms, abounds amongst them.

This chronic overcrowding was caused by the building of tenements in the early 1800's, as an outlet for the poorer inhabitants of the increasing population of Dorchester, on the only piece of freehold land available in the area. The land was owned by the Duchy of Cornwall, which since the death of Prince Albert had become poorly managed. In these circumstances several Pitfield families lived in Mill Street, Holloway Row, Cuckolds Row and elsewhere in Fordington, throughout the nineteenth century. Their fortunes had changed from the time of their yeoman ancestors and those who still had farming connections were employed as agricultural labourers. Others worked in the iron foundry or were general labourers or mason's labourers, whilst their womenfolk were engaged in domestic service or took in laundry to supplement the family income. Illegitimacy rates were high in such areas, including amongst the Pitfields

The conditions in Fordington were ripe for the spread of cholera, which was introduced by the intake of unwelcome strangers to Dorchester in 1854. After the departure of the garrison to the Crimean war, the Dorchester Barracks were left empty, and it was proposed that they should be used to house convicts from the overcrowded Millbank penitentiary in London. Despite the concern and protests of the Mayor and Aldermen of Dorchester regarding the risk of the spread of cholera, which was rife in the London prison, 700 prisoners were transferred to Dorchester on August 15th. On August 24th Rev. Moule found that two women in Holloway Row had been employed to wash for the convicts. Moule pleaded in vain with the Mayor to have the laundry removed, and within a few days a child living 60 yards from one of the women's cottages was taken ill and died. In the weeks that followed there were at least 30 more deaths from cholera, with many more taken ill. Although no members of the Pitfield family were amongst those who died it is probable that they were affected to some extent by the outbreak.

A local Board of Health had been set up in Dorchester in 1853, and after the cholera epidemic it implemented street cleaning and drew up plans for deep sewerage and a new water supply. Due to the efforts of the Board, and the campaigning of the Rev. and Mrs. Moule, conditions in Fordington gradually improved during the second half of the nineteenth century.

An anecdote relates to the huge stone on the corner of Fordington Square opposite the church. This stone is still there but in former times it was highly polished. This was because all the lads of the area, including very many Pitfield boys used to gather there in summer evenings and sit on the stone. This had the effect of smoothing and polishing it. It became known as 'The Pitfield Stone'.

The coming of the railways brought opportunities for work including for several Pitfields. Resulting mobility meant that families could look further afield for homes and work, thus the Fordington Pitfields began to spread out to other parts of the country with many being drawn to London and the South East.

Others made their future even further afield and emigrated to the New World and the antipodes. Many of those who left have been traced and have been connected to the family tree.

The Fordington parish records contain more Pitfield entries than in any of the other Dorset parishes, due to several couples having ten or more children. Sebastian Pitfield (1757-1815) had ten children and 28 Pitfield grandchildren christened at Fordington, although a fairly high child mortality rate meant that a number did not survive. In 1871 there were 43 Pitfields listed in the census for Fordington. During the next ten years there was a marked reduction in this number, with many female Pitfields marrying and other members of the family moving out of the parish. The last christening of a Pitfield at Fordington was in 1916, although some members of the family were buried there as late as the 1940's and there are still Pitfields living in nearby Dorchester today.

Michael Pitfield is an active contributor to the Dorset Online Parish Clerks website and has an particular interest in the Fordington family. He has posted details of the Fordington Pitfield family along with a number of photographs - http://www.opcdorset.org/ He has also written a number of articles for the Somerset and Dorset Family History Society.

1 Charles Pitfield was the eldest son of Sebastian Pitfield of Fordington and married c1716 to Amy Squibb nee Collins.

2 Amy Collins married Robert Squibb at Fordington in 1711. Robert Squibb died in 1715 and Amy remarried to Charles Pitfield - no record of this marriage has been found as there is a gap in the Fordington marriage register from February 1714 until April 1716, but other sources point to the marriage having taken place.

3 Charles was aged around 50 when he married Amy. It is possible that he was married previously and was the father of William Pitfield of Dorchester (-1747) - however there is no documentary evidence of this.

4 Charles Pitfield (1666-1743) was a churchwarden at Fordington in 1726, 1730 and 1731 and remained a member of The Church Vestry until 1740.

5 Charles Pitfield (1666-1743) died intestate and Letters of Administration were issued for his widow Amy.

10 1741 Sebastian Pitfield apprenticed to Samuel Furrard of Litton Cheney, wheeler

11 Fordington Land Tax Records exist from 1780 and show that from that date Sebastian Pitfield (1726-1794) owned a number of properties, that he either occupied or rented out. Additionally he rented further property in the parish. The records do not say where the properties were or how extensive they were but show the amount of land tax that was paid on them.

Following the death of Sebastian in 1794 the records list:

1795/96/97/1800 - Mary Pitfield owned a piece of land - tenanted, and a house - tenanted.

1804 - Mary Pitfield owned two properties occupied by tenants

1814 - Widow Pitfield owned two properties occupied by tenants

12 Sebastian Pitfield (1726-1794) was a member of The Church Vestry at St George's Church, Fordington from 1755 until 1783, often attending meetings with his brother Charles Pitfield (1723-1801) who was also a member of The Church Vestry from 1750 until 1775.

In 1775 both Charles and Sebastian were listed as being in arrears with their church rates.

In 1792 the church records show: "Paid Charles Pitfield's Bill"

13 Amos Stile acted as one of the Overseers of the Poor for the parish.

2 1758 Charles Pitfield, yeoman fit to serve in the Militia in the parish of Fordington.

3 Bastardy Order made against Charles Pitfield, yeoman, for the support and maintenance of his child by Martha Lyde, singlewoman. 4 Apr 1772

4 Fordington Land Tax Records exist from 1780 and show that from 1787 until 1804 a Charles Pitfield occupied land in Fordington, owned by a number of landlords.

5 Charles Pitfield (1750-1804) married Ann Thorn in 1776 and Sebastian Pitfield (1757-1815) married Ann's sister Mary Thorn in 1781. No occupation for Charles and Sebastian has been established.

6 Joseph Pitfield left a will made 1839 proved 1849
...Joseph Pitfield of West Knighton, Dorset, yeoman...
...my wife Betty Pitfield all my property in Bere Regis...
...my nephew Samuel Pitfield of Fordington, labourer...
...my nephew Joseph Pitfield of Fordingon, labourer...
...my nephew Sebastian Pitfield of Fordington, labourer...
...my niece Amey Pitfield of Fordington, spinster...
...my niece Ann Miller, wife of Issac Miller of.....Whitfield, Dorset, labourer...
...my niece Jane Pitfield, daughter of my brother Sebastian Pitfield, spinster...
...Mary Pitfield of Fordington, widow of my late brother Sebastian Pitfield...

7 When Joseph Pitfield made his will in 1839 he describes Amy Pitfield as a spinster. I believe this is a mistake and that she had married John Kerley in 1834, after having an illegitimate son John Pitfield in 1814 (see Dorset 10.1.1.2)

8 Joseph Pitfield is the last member of the Fordington family to have been described as a yeoman. He left his property to his wife Betty in his will made in 1839, although Betty pre-deceased Joseph. All the other bequests show that his nephews and nieces were labourers.

9 Land tax records 1804 - Sebastian Pitfield occupied a cottage owned by William Iwerne.

1 1817 Mary the wife of Samuel Pitfield aged 24 tried for stealing turnips - 1 months imprisonment

2 1831 Mary Pitfield aged 38 tried for stealing wood - 1 months hard labour

3 1835 Mary Pitfield aged 42 tried for stealing turnips - 3 weeks hard labour

4 Mary Pitfield, widow, was listed in the 1841 Census at Mill Street, Fordington, Dorset, England.

5 Mary was tried 18th October 1842 at Dorchester Quarter Sessions for receiving stolen goods. She was found guilty and was sentenced to be transported for 7 years.

Her sons Samuel, Stephen and James Pitfield were tried alongside her and were found not guilty.

Mary Pitfield departed London aboard the ship Margaret (4th Voyage) on 5 February 1843, arrived 164 days later, on 19th July, at Hobart, Van Deimen's Land. She was accompanied by her 11 year old daughter Hannah Pitfield.

Mary remarried 20 September 1849 in Tasmania, to John Constable, freeman.

On the 25th October 1849 Mary gained her freedom.

6 1855 Samuel Pitfield appeared in court accused of stealing three pieces of wood - imprisoned for one month

7 Samuel John Pitfield was a farm labourer and lived in Mill Street, Fordington with his wife Mary Ann. The couple had eight children. Samuel died in 1870. His widow Mary Ann then worked as a housekeeper in Mill Street, Fordington to the invalid mason George Wellspring and his brother Philip. She was still living with George in Mill Street in 1891 and moved with him to live at 15 Shorts Lane Fordington by 1901. She died there aged 83 in 1903.

8 1867 William Pitfield, aged 22, served 7 days in Dorchester Goal for drunkenness

9 1876 Stephen Pitfield aged 58, carter and Elizabeth Pitfield, aged 48, dressmaker were found guilty of stealing a watch, value of six pounds, from George Frampton at Fordington on the 16th December 1876. Stephen was sentenced to 3 months hard labour. Elizabeth was sentenced to 4 months hard labour, having had a previous conviction for larceny in 1857 when she was known as Elizabeth Damon.

1 Joseph Pitfield (1786-1852) was an agricultural labourer who married three times in four years. It is possible his second and third wives Maria Sargent and Elizabeth Sargent were sisters. Joseph's address in the 1851 census was given as "near the cross" in Fordington

2 Memorial Fordington
Sacred to the memory of JOSEPH PITFIELD who died Aug: 22, 1852, aged 66 years. Also Elizabeth, wife of the above, who died January the 22, 1855, aged 61 years. Also Joseph .....(rest of inscription is missing)

3 George Pitfield (1815-1874) became a tailor journeyman and after initially living in Fordington moved to Gallows Hill, in All Saints Parish, circa 1845. The 1861 Census and Harrods Directory for 1865 show him to have moved again to live in Bell Street where he had a shop. By 1871 however he had become the Innkeeper of the Union Arms in Cuckold's Row Fordington.
After his death in 1874 his widow Caroline ran the Inn and she is shown in the 1874 Post Office Directory along with her son George, who is retailing beer from Durngate Street.

4 Large Cross in Frodington Cemetery East Side:
In affectionate remembrance of George PITFIELD who died February 15th. 1874 aged 59 years Also Caroline Margaret wife of the above who died November 4th 1885 aged 65 years Also Rose Anna, eldest daughter of the above who died September 30th. 1876, aged 30 years Also Emily Elizabeth, third daughter who died February 24th. 1885, aged 34 years.

5 Edwin Pitfield (1855-1922) was a successful master hairdresser with premises in High West Street (they still exist). He was barber to Thomas Hardy and described seeing the first Mrs Hardy freewheeling her bicycle down the street with her skirts flapping behind her.

6 Edwin's daughter Hetty was murdered by her husband after she discover him having an affair, He, Lewis Owen, then committed suicide.

7 In 1911 Charles Augusus Pitfield was an inmate in the Mile End Workhouse in London

8 In 1911 Joseph John Pitfield was in the Union Workhouse in Dorchester. He is registered as being deaf.

Dorset 10.1.1.3.1

1 George PITFIELD (1844-1917) was born at Gallows Hill, Fordington. As a young man he worked as a tailor with his father in Bell Street, All Saints parish in Dorchester.

Following his marriage to Elizabeth Brushett in 1870 George & Elizabeth lived in Durngate Street, Dorchester, where for a time he continued to trade as a tailor, but he also obtained a licence to sell ale.

1881 Census George was the publican of "The Bulls Head Inn" on Fordington Hill, living there with his wife Elizabeth, four young children and a servant

Fordington memorial: In loving memory of Elizabeth the beloved wife of George Pitfield who fell asleep January 17th 1891 aged 41 years.

1891 Census George is listed as a widower and is still the publican of "The Bulls Head Inn" the street now known as High Street.

Later in 1891 George married Eliza Jane Legg at Epsom in Surrey.

1901 census George and Eliza were the proprietors of the Half Way Hotel, Parkstone, Poole, Dorset and were living there with their 4 children.

1911 census George was aged 66 years and gave his profession as retired publican. He and Eliza were still living in Parkstone with their daughter Rita.

1 Sebastian Pitfield (1791-1859) was an agricultural labourer who lived in Holloway Road, Fordington. He married Mary Bridle in 1813 and the couple had ten children, four of whom died young. Following the death of Mary in 1831 Sebastain remarried in 1832 and the couple had three children - their daughter died as an infant.

2 In the 1851 census Edward Pitied, aged 13 and John Pitfield, aged 9 are listed as sons of Sebastain and Ann. Edward was, in fact, the illigitimate son of Mary-Ann Pitfield, whilst John Pitfield was the illigitimate son of Jane Pitfield. Mary-Ann and Jane Pitfield were both daughters of Sebastain and his first wife Mary Bridle. It seems likely that both children were bought up as children of Sebastian and Ann Pitfield.

LIVING DESCENDANTS

LIVING DESCENDANTS

1 A Sebastian Pitfield, son of Sebastian and Mary Pitfield was christened at Fordington in 1817. This Sebastian was known throughout his life as James.

In 1840 a James Pitfield, aged 24, appeared in court in Dorchester, accused of receiving stolen goods - he was acquitted.

James has not been found on the 1841 census

The first reference to a James Pitfield living in Southampton is the birth of George Pitfield, in 1842, the son of James Pitfield, waggoner and Mary Anne Pitfield, formerly Joyner. No marriage of James to Mary Joiner has been found but it is likely the couple married in Dorset, as Mary was born in Spettisbury, Dorset. Their marriage does not appear in Civil Registration records which begin in 1837, but many marriages were missed in the early years of Civil Registration.

James and Mary Anne had three children.

5 George Pitfield
12 Mar 1860 indentured into the Merchant Navy in Newcastle - vessel Julia
1861 ordinary seaman, unmarried, aged 18, aboard "Jason of Whitby"
1881 master of ship "Adsey" at Milton in Gravesend, Kent, status Married
1901 master of ship Young George - aged given as 50, status Married
1911 Sack Manager, Cement Factory, Strood, Kent
1921 Retired Master Mariner

THE HAMPSHIRE INDEPENDENT, WEDNESDAY,
SEPTEMBER 13, I865

Fatal accident in the docks-An inquest was held at the Saddler's Arms, Marsh-lane, yesterday after-noon, before Mr. E. C. Coxwell the borough coroner, on view of the body of James Pitfield - Dr. Palk deposed that about ten o'clock on Saturday night he was called to see the deceased, at No. 12, Threefield-lane. He found him in a state of great exhaustion, but quite sensible. He was evidently suffering from a great shock, and told witness he got between the buffers of two railway wagons, and before he could get out of the way was jammed. He complained of pain in the lower part of the back. Witness examined him carefully, but could not defect the injuries he had received, but imagined death was occasioned by the rupture of some internal organ, probably the bladder. The only external injury appeared to be an abrasion of the skin at the upper part of the hip. Witness prescribed suitable medicine, and upon visiting him about seven o'clock on the following morning he found him quite insensible and dying, and he died while witness was present. The injuries received in the way deceased had described were without doubt the cause of death. Deceased imputed blame to no one.-Charles Freeborn, a carter in the employ of the Dock Company, said that the deceased was a driver in the same employ. On Saturday evening, just after nine o'clock, witness was coupling some railway wagons in the docks, and deceased was bringing them towards him with his horses. When taking away the hook attached to the traces of one of the wagons he could not get it off, and tried to escape, but in so doing was caught by the buffers. Witness was between the same wagons, and so long as he remained so there was no danger, and he could not account for deceased attempting to get out as he did. When the wagons parted deceased fell down, and witness took the hook off and lifted him up. In reply to his Question as to whether he was hurt, he said, "I shall be better directly" Assistance was procured from the dock gates, and he was carried as far as the gate, where he was placed in a fly, and then driven home, one of the dock policemen accompanying him-A verdict of "Accidental death" was immediately returned.

4 Elizabeth Blake, born 1811, had married a George Light in 1831. George Light died in 1844 leaving Elizabeth a widow with five children. Elizabeth had a further child in 1848 whose name at birth was registered as Robert James Light - the father being named as James Light.

Robert James Light was actually the son of Elizabeth Light and James Pitfield, who were not married as James was still married to Mary.

Elizabeth Light and James Pitfield married in 1850 following the death of James' first wife Mary. In the 1851 census Robert James was named Pitfield, described as the son of James Pitfield (the head of the household), whilst four other children in the household kept the surname Light (children of Elizabeth's previous marriage) and are described as son-in-law or daughter-in-law to James Pitfield. Two others - George Pitfield and James Pitfield - were children of James' first marriage. Anne Pitfield aged 6 months, daughter of James and Elizabeth, is also listed.

x James Sebastain Pitfield (1872-1922) was employed as a steamship steward on the Southampton to New York liners. In 1921 he was a steward at the Liberal Club, Southampton

1 George James Sebastian Pitfield received the First World War Mercantile Marine Medals and the British War Medal.

Dorset 10.1.1.4.1.2

1 Robert James Pitfield was christened as Robert James Light, being the illegitimate son of James (Sebastian) Pitfield and Elizabeth Light. Robert James's surname changed to Pitfield after James (Sebastian) married Elizabeth Light, following the death of his first wife (see table Dorset 10.1.1.4.1). Robert James often went by the name of James Pitfield which has caused some confusion as his half brother was named James Pitfield (see tables Dorset 10.1.1.4.1 and Dorset 10.1.1.4.1.1)

1 George Reuben Pitfield gave his occupation as Marine Fireman employed by the London and South West Railway at Southampton Docks.

2 William James Pitfield (1886-1912) was a marine fireman who signed aboard the "S.S. Titanic" on the 6th April 1912 as a greaser, on a monthly wage of £6 10shillings. He had previously sailed on the Oceanic, another transatlantic liner. William James was one of 1,600 passengers and crew who perished on the night of 15th April 1912 when the ship struck an iceberg and sunk. His body was never recovered. At the time of William's death his wife Haidee was expecting their first child, who was born later that year. In 1913 there was a payment made from the Titanic Relief Fund to Haidee Pitfield to pay the expenses of the illness and funeral of her daughter.

1 George Sebastian Pitfield was a Bombardier in the 94th (The Dorset and Hampshire Yeomanry) Field Regiment, Royal Artillery. He died of wounds on 13th November 1944, whilst taking part in Operation Market Garden - an attempt to capture several strategically important bridges in the Netherlands in the hope of breaking the German lines.

George is thought to have been the first of the 328 allied servicemen to buried there.

In 2019 the town of Brunssum awarded honorary citizenship to all those interned in the town's Commonwealth War Graves Cemetery.

LIVING DESCENDANTS

2 Alfred Pitfield was born in 1884 although he was not christened until 1888. In January 1900 he enlisted in the Artillery Division of the Royal Marines when he gave his date of birth as the 6th September 1882. He served for 373 days although it was noted on his record that for 233 days he was underage.

At the time of the 1901 census Alfred was living back with his parents where his age was given as 16 and he was employed on the railways.

In February 1904 Alfred enlisted in the Royal Engineers at Fordington. He gave his aged as 19 years and 5 months and gave his occupation as Engine Driver. He signed for a Short Service, involving 3 years with the colours and a further 9 years as a reserve. For 2 of his three years service Alfred was stationed in Mauritius. He spent two months in hospital in Mauritius suffering from Gonorrhoea. He was discharged to the reserves in March 1907.

At the time of the 1911 census Alfred Pitfield was an engine driver in the pottery manufacture industry and was a lodger at Poole in Dorset, in the house of William Lake, widower and his 6 children. One of these children was Florence Lake aged 27.

In 1912 Florence had an illegitimate child named as Alfred George Pitfield Lake.

As a reservist Alfred was mobilized at Bulford Camp, Salisbury Plain, at the outbreak of war on 4th August 1914. His service record lists his illegitimate son - Alfred George Pitfield Lake - which implies that he acknowledged him and presumably contributed to his upbringing.

Alfred appears to have been sent to France almost immediately and was wounded on 26th August 1914. He spent a lot of the war in England and had several spells in hospital with various ailments (including venereal disease in 1916). He was charged on several occasions of being absent without leave or not returning at the end of leave.

In 1917 Alfred married Florence Ellen Lake. Alfred George Pitfield Lake became Alfred George Pitfield. Alfred returned to France in October 1917, returning home for 14 days leave on 30th August 1918. His leave was extended to 17th September but he did not return from leave until 8th October. He was arrested and served 28 days and forfeited 21 days pay. He did not return to France.

Alfred was discharged back to the reserves in 1919.

2 John William Pitfield (1892-1917) was killed whilst serving as a Fifth Engineer Officer aboard the hospital ship "AUSTURIAS" which was torpedoed by the Germans in the English Channel – March 20th 1917. He was buried in Dorchester Cemetery in a grave maintained by the Commonwealth War Graves Commission.

The ASTURIAS was built in 1907 for the Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. and went into service on the Southampton - Buenos Aires run. When war with Germany was declared in 1914 she was requisitioned by the Admiralty and converted into a Hospital Ship. Within a few months she was handed over to the Army and was soon employed making regular crossings to France carrying back the wounded from the Western Front. She had accommodation for 896 patients, but on one occasion due to very heavy casualties at the Front, she transported 2,400 sick and wounded. She served in the Eastern Mediterranean during the Dardanelles Campaign, returning wounded from Gallipoli, Egypt and Salonika to the UK. In March 1917 after landing her wounded at Avonmouth, she was attacked by a German submarine and struck by a torpedo which blew off her stern, killing 35 of her crew.

3 Henry Pitfield (1899-1918) was an Air Mechanic 1st Class in the Royal Naval Air Service. He joined on the 4th January 1918 and served at HMS President, which was a shore based training facility. He died on the 1st March 1918 from natural causes.

He is buried at Wimborne, Dorset in a grave maintained by the Commonwealth War Graves Commission.

Notes for George 1 - the family of George Pitfield of Canada (1749-1827)

The earliest reference to George Pitfield in North America is in New York City where he is listed as a member of the Freemason Lodge No 210 in 1780.

Where George had been previously to this date is unknown, although it is known he was born around 1749.

His parentage is the subject to two differing theories.

George Pitfield's origins - theory one

The first theory concerning the origins of George Pitfield is that he originally had the name PETTFIELD and was the son of George Pettfield and Isabel Jefferson, who married in Hessle, Yorkshire in 1731.

The theory is based in part in the belief that George Pitfield of New Brunswick had the second name of Jefferson. This is based on a newspaper report in the Sussex Kings County Record in 1894 which refers to George Jefferson Pitfield, the grandfather of William T and Ward C Pitfield. This article was written 67 years after the death of George Pitfield. However there are no references to George having a middle name during his lifetime. George's son William Henry Pitfield (1806-1872) did christen a son as George Jefferson Pitfield in 1843 (see George 1.3)

It is possible that William Henry Pitfield named his son after his father, but as there is no proof the "original" George Pitfield (c1749-1827) used the middle name Jefferson it is equally possible that William Henry chose Jefferson after a local family that he, or his wife, was connected to. William Henry Pitfield (1806-1872) used surnames, that had connections to his wife's family, as middle names for a number of his children - (see George 3.1). Although Jefferson was a fairly common family name in New Brunswick at this time I have been unable to establish a connection between a local Jefferson and Henry William Pitfield or his wife Anna Barbara Cougle, so it is possible the connection could be back to George (c1749-1827).

Another son of George Pitfield (c1749-1827), Oliver Arnold Pitfield (1809-1880), christened a son as George J. Pitfield c1845 (see George 1.4). It is not known what the initial J stood for but if it was Jefferson it would add great weight to this first theory.

This first theory is boosted by the fact that Gorge Pitfield (1749-1827) christened a daughter Isabel, possibly after his mother.

No christenings of any children of George Pettfield and Isabel Jefferson have been traced.

George Pitfield's origins - theory two

Family tradition in North America has it that George Pitfield (c1749-1827) was the brother of Benjamin Pitfield (1741-1793) of New Jersey and therefore the son of John Pitfield and Hannah Hallett of Colyton, Devon - see Dorset 2.1.1.1

George Pitfield's age at the time of his death in 1827 was given as 78, giving a date of birth of circa 1749. Hannah Pitfield had been a widow since 1746 so it seems unlikely that she was the mother of George, although she could have been if George's date at death was incorrect and he was born a few years earlier.

In 1885 George William Brown, of Philadelphia, America, wrote a book entitled "Historical Genealogy relating to a Branch of the Brown Family". In the volume Brown states that his wife's grandfather, Benjamin Pitfield (1741-1793) came to America from England, but that nothing was known of Benjamin's origins in England. My research has now established Benjamin's origins. Brown says in his book that Benjamin came to America at the invitation of an uncle who was in possession of a tract of land lying upon Timber Creek, in the state of New Jersey. I think this part of Brown's narrative has been distorted and that in fact it was George Pitfield who was invited to America by his uncle Benjamin Pitfield - who was indeed settled at Timber Creek, New Jersey. If George Pitfield (c1749-1827) was the nephew of Benjamin then he must have been the son of John Pitfield of Child Okeford (1727-1771). A birth of George Pitfield around 1749 would fit with the marriage of John Pitfield to Mary Crago in 1747. There would have been only eight years difference in the ages of the uncle and nephew.

The above three paragraphs are copied from Notes 20-22 from Dorset 2.1.1.1 - see that table for more details.

GEORGE PITFIELD Esq of Fulham

In 1770 a newspaper entitled:
The TOWN and COUNTRY Magazine or UNIVERSAL Repository of KNOWLEDGE, INSTRUCTION and ENTERTAINMENT
includes an entry that reads:

BIRTHS April 11 The lady of George Pitfield esq; of Fulham, of three children, two sons and a daughter

I have been unable to find any other references to this George Pitfield, in or around the parish of Fulham. He appears to have been somebody of some standing and wealth to be described as "esquire". The survival chances of triplets, and of their mother, would have been small at this period, so it is possible that the George Pitfield who was at Fulham in 1770 could be the same one who appears in New York in 1780.

Being a parent in 1770 is consistent with a birth date of circa 1749 - the likely year of birth of George Pitfield of New Brunswick.

George 1

New York City was the stronghold of the British Forces fighting against the American Colonists in their struggle for independence from the British Crown. A warrant was issued on February 20, 1779, under the authority of the Atholl Grand Lodge of England to form a lodge numbered 210, with no name. According to the American Lodge of Research, this lodge, though mainly composed of civilians, initiated or affiliated a number of men who were under arms on the British side. It seems that George Pitfiel was a civilian and had made his way to New York along with many others who were loyal to the British Crown.

During and at the end of the American War of Independence, 1776-1783, some 40,000 Loyalists moved north into Canada. Of these, 32,000 went to Nova Scotia, most of them in the fleets of ships organized at New York by General Sir Guy Carleton, commander-in-chief of the British forces. New York was the last stronghold of the Loyalists and was evacuated by the British in November 1783, two months after independence had been granted to the thirteen American colonies.

George Pitfield arrived at Saint John, Nova Scotia in May 1783, aboard one of the ships that made up "The Spring Fleet" from New York. The bulk of the Loyalists went to the St. John River valley and the shores of the Bay of Fundy. Aided by government rations, tools and land grants, they carved homes out of the forests and began the long, tough job of pioneer settlement. George is listed as arriving at the Bay of Fundy, along with one servant and received food rations.

This Loyalist influx trebled the existing population of Nova Scotia and thus they heavily outnumbered the 'Neutral Yankees' who had moved north prior to the Revolution. In the Fundy-St. John region the Loyalists at once demanded their own government, complete with elective assembly. The British government fell in quickly with the request and broke up the old province of Nova Scotia in 1784, creating a new Province of New Brunswick which incorporated most of the mainland of the old Nova Scotia and with an elective assembly. Thus New Brunswick became the Loyalist province par excellence.

George settled on land by the St. John's River belonging to Colonel William Spry and in 1786 he was listed as having cleared and improved over ten acres, with 2 dwelling houses, 2 outhouses and owning 2 cattle and a horse. Two others holding land under Colonel Spry had also been members of 210 Lodge in New York.

In 1786, George Pitfield stated in a petition that he had come with The Spring Fleet from New York and had settled on a lot of land belonging to Colonel Spry. This lot was on the Saint John River, below Jemseg Creek, Queens County. In the Petition George asked that he be permitted to hold this lot of land as he had seven or eight acres under improvement.

A new Freemason Lodge - Sion Lodge, No 21, was established at Kingston, New Brunswick, in 1792 and was removed to Sussex Vale, Kings County, New Brunswick in 1799. George Pitfield is listed as one of the founding members of the Lodge in 1792 and became Master in 1802.

It would appear that George did not keep up his original lot of land in Queens County and in 1794 he was living at Sussex Vale, Kings County where he made a petition for 200 acres of land. This petition was made in conjunction with nine others - several of these were members of the New Jersey Volunteer Regiment, giving circumstantial evidence that George could have come from New Jersey.

After settling at Sussex Vale George married Eliza Kenny (1768-1827). Eliza was born at Portsmouth, New Hampshire, the daughter of Samuel Kenny, a loyalist who fought with the British troops. Samuel Kenny died soon after arriving in Canada. George and Eliza had eleven children and the family prospered in Sussex Parish.

In 1796 George was a Warden of Trinity Church, Sussex Vale and later became a Justice of the Peace. In 1809 he stood in the General Election for the House of Assembly, for one of the two seats in Kings County. He was declared elected but the return was declared void and a new election held in 1810, when George was defeated. He stood again in 1819 but was once again defeated.

Eliza Pitfield died in April 1827 aged 59 and George died in June of the same year aged 78 - both were buried at Sussex Vale.

1 A Daniel Pitfield married in 1737, at the Fleet, London, to Jane Owen. The couple had three children christened at St. George, Hanover Square. I have been unable to establish the origins of Daniel Pitfield - it is possible he was connected to a Pitfield family group who were established at Southampton, where the name Daniel was used - see Dorset 2.2. The Southampton group had strong connections to the navy, and Owen Pitfield, son of Daniel also joined the Royal Navy (see 3 below) Daniel died only four years after his marriage and I have found no further references to Jane Pitfield, although it is possible she is the Jane Pitfield buried at St. John, Hackney in 1783.

2 William Pitfield, a contemporary of Daniel Pitfield, was married to Sarah ..... and they had a son William christened St. James, Piccadilly, who was subsequently buried at St. George, Hanover Square and then another William christened at St. George, Hanover Square. It is possible that William and Daniel were siblings, although I have no proof of this. The christenings in 1736 and 1749 and the burial in 1739 are the only references I have to William and Sarah Pitfield - no marriage, further children, or burials of the couple have been found.

3 Owen Pitfield is listed in two musters of HMS Royal Sovereign in 1759 and 1760 taken at Spithead (Portsmouth, Hampshire). He is listed as dying in the Royal Navy Hospital - Haslar - in Gosport, Hampshire on 5th June 1761, when he is listed as being a member of the crew of HMS Royal Sovereign.

4 John Pitfield (-1780) was described as a tin miner in the parish records of Sancreed, in the far west of Cornwall. His origins are unknown but it is possible he was the John Pitfield, christened in 1737, son of Daniel Pitfield and Jane Owen. This supposition is based on the date of his marriage in 1762 fitting well with a birth date of 1737 and with the fact he named one of his children Jane,

5 John Pitfield (1762-) the eldest son of John Pitfield and Anne Rosevear was a sailor and settled at Port Glasgow, Scotland where he married a Christian Mackinzie, although no record of the marriage has been found.

In the county of Kent there are numerous references to the surnames PEATFIELD, PATEFIELD, PETFIELD, PITFIELD etc. It is often difficult to differentiate one family from an other. This table relates to a Thomas Petfield/Pitfield of the parish of Ospringe, Kent. It is likely that he was originally a member of the PETFIELD family but most references to him, and his descendants, use the name of PITFIELD. There are other family groups in Kent where the name PITFIELD is used on occasion, but I have chosen not to research these family groups where one of the other spellings are more common.

Thomas Petfield/Pitfield was employed by Rebecca Milborne, from 1732, as a labourer to work in and about the Mansion House, Gardens, Lands and Premises at Ospringe.

The Lancashire Pitfield families

As well as the Pitfields who can be traced back to the county of Dorset I became aware, during my researches, that there were a number of family groups who appear in the UK census returns in 1841, 1851, 1861, 1871, 1881, 1891, 1901 and 1911 who either lived in the County of Lancashire or whose origins were in Lancashire.

I decided to look further into these Lancashire families. I quickly discovered that the names Patfield, Peatfield, Patefield, Paitfield were commonplace throughout the north of England and in particular in the County of Lancashire. References to various spellings of the name appear in the earliest parish records in the mid 16th century. Some of these spellings have survived and the names Patefield, Patfield and Peatfield are in use today.

Within parish and other records in Lancashire the spelling used by some family members changed to Pitfield from around 1760. It is notable that this spelling was only adopted by some family lines and it was commonplace to have Peatfield, Patefield and Pitfield spellings appearing alongside each other in the records, with in some cases different names being used by siblings. By the time of the first census taken in 1841 the Pitfield spelling had become firmly established in several family groups.

The tables that follow show the vast majority of people who appear in the census returns from 1841 and 1911 within the County of Lancashire, or have Lancashire connections, and who used the Pitfield spelling. Some of the lines go back further than 1841 and further forward than 1911 where I have been able to find information. All the Lancashire Pitfields who appear in the eight census returns, can be traced back to one of three family groupings, which I have shown in the charts as Lancashire 1, 2 and 3. Each group is headed by someone who was originally a Peatfield, Patefield or Patfield. I have not undertaken research into all of the many family groups who used these other name variants. Research into the Peatfields, Patfields and Patefields has been done by others.

Some of the Lancashire Pitfield families that are shown within these tables settled in America and Australia, and I have shown their history within these countries where I have the information (some of which has been supplied by Australian and American Pitfield descendants).

James Patefield/Pitfield

Also included in this booklet are tables and notes showing James Patefield from Bradford, Yorkshire whose name changed to Pitfield when he was arrested and subsequently transported to Australia.

Lancashire 1

The parish register at Tunstall, Lancashire:

Charles Pitfield of this parish Dancing Master and Ann Robinson of this parish were married in this church by Licence with consent of Parents this 26th February 1767 by me John Wilson Curate.

The Allegation and Bond relating to this marriage survives.

The Allegation states that Charles Pitfield was aged 21 years and upward and Ann Robinson was aged 16 years and Elizabeth Robinson her mother gives her consent to the marriage. The Allegation is signed Charles PITFIELD.

The Bond refers to Charles Pitfield and Ann Robinson of Cantsfield within the Parish of Tunstall and Archdeaconry of Richmond spinster. The bond is signed Charles PATFIELD.

Tunstall is in the north of the Count of Lancashire and there are no Paitfield/Patfield/Peatfield/Pitfield entries in the parish records before this marriage.

It seems likely that Charles came from the parish of Whalley, in the centre of Lancashire and some way from Tunstall, as he and Ann baptised their first child there:

Baptisms: 18 Feb 1768 St Mary and All Saints, Whalley, Lancashire, England
Ritania Peatfield - Daughter of Charles Peatfield of Whalley, Dancing Master

If he was from Whalley then he could have been baptised in 1742:

Baptism: 12 Dec 1742 St Mary and All Saints, Whalley, Lancashire, England
Charles Patefield - Son of James Patefield of Whalley, shoemaker.

There are a very large number of Paitfield/Patefield entries in the Whalley registers going back to their start around 1566 and the name appears in the registers through to modern times. There are no PITFIELD entries at Whalley.

Baptism entries for the children of Charles and Ann use the PATEFIELD spelling. However, all of the children who survived to adulthood adopted the spelling PITFIELD in their lifetimes - all the marriages of the children from 1793 through to 1819 use the PITFIELD spelling.
The burial entry for Ann (nee Robinson) in 1817 also uses the PITFIELD spelling.

James PATEFIELD and Mary BRINON had at least eight children christened at Whalley and all were named PATEFIELD. Six children survived infancy. The only one of the children to adopt, in part, the PITFIELD was Charles. As can be seen opposite, Charles used the names PATEFIELD, PEATFIELD, PATFIELD and PITFIELD during his lifetime.

In 1786 an Ann PITFIELD married at Whalley to Thomas WILKINSON (not shown on this chart). It is likely this Ann was a daughter of James PATEFIELD and Mary BRINDON, although no christening has been found.

In 1827 Hugh Pitfield and Bryan Pitfield appeared in court charged with larceny - namely stealing horse gear.

Bryan Pitfield was found guilty and sentenced to 7 years transportation. He died 6th June 1827 aboard the Prison Hulk Justitia, moored at Woolwich in Kent, whilst awaiting transportation.

Hugh Pitfield does not appear in the 1841 census. He used the name William in the 1851 census and the name Henry in the 1861 census, but uses his correct name for both of his marriages and the correct name is used to register his death.

Lancashire 1.1.1

Withnell is a village and civil parish in the Borough of Chorley, Lancashire, England.

It is about 5 miles north-east of Chorley itself and about 5 miles (8 km) from Blackburn.

It borders the villages of Brinscall and Abbey Village which are part of the parish.

William and Alice Pitfield appear in the 1851 census in the township of Royton, parish of of Oldham, Lancashire, England with eight children.

William Pitfield junior had arrived in Melbourne in January 1857 aboard the vessel Tiptree
William Pitfield senior had arrived in Melbourne in August 1858 aboard the vessel Salem.

Alice arrived in New South Wales, Australia, in 1860 aboard the vessel Tudor, aged 56 and was described as a Housekeeper, with her children Charles aged 30, Alice aged 26, James aged 22, Robert aged 17. The family were listed as “wife and family of residents”

New South Wales Deposit Journal 1859 lists a James Woolstenholme as paying a deposit for:
Alice Pitfield aged 50,
Charles Pitfield, engineer, aged 29,
Alice Pitfield aged 25,
James Pitfield, Iron Moulder aged 21,
Robert Pitfield, Iron Moulder aged 17
Eliza J Pitfield aged 15
The family are listed as of Ramsbotton, Bury, Lancashire, England

It would appear that James Pitfield (1837-) returned to England as he married at Bury, Lancashire in 1863.

Alfred Pitfield (1839-1904) did not go to Australia until 1879, arriving in Melbourne aboard the vessel Garonne.

Lancashire 1.1.3.2

A Sarah Lucy Ixer was christened at St. Luke, Berwick Street, Westminster - parents were given as William Ixer, gardener and Mary Ann Ixer. No marriage of a William Ixer to a Mary has been found pre 1858 and no burial of a William Ixer has been found between 1858 and 1869, when Mary Ann Ixer married to Frederick Pitfield. Sarah Ixer, aged 13 and a John Ixer, aged 11 were listed as the step children of Frederick Pitfield in the census of 1871. It seems that Sarah Lucy and John were both illegitimate children of Mary Ann Ixer - although no christening or civil registration of the birth of John Ixer has been found. Mary Ann Ixer and her two children cannot be found in the 1861 census.

In the 1881 census John is listed as the son of Frederick and Mary Ann with the surname Pitfield. By the time John married in 1885 he had adopted the name of Ixer Pitfield. Subsequent generations also used the name Ixer - sometimes it appears as a double-barrelled name - Ixer-Pitfield - whilst at other times it is used as another forename.

Also in the 1881 census a Sarah Pitfield, aged 23, is listed as a lodger in a house close to the home of Frederick and Mary Ann.

At the time of the 1891 census John gives his name as John I Pitfield. At the time of the 1901 census he gives his name as John Pitfield.

1 Bryan Robinson Pitfield and Ann Kennyon had a number of children born in England, although no christenings of their offspring have been traced. On the 10th September 1827 the ship "Roman" arrived in New York from Liverpool with Ann Pitfield, aged 46; Ann Pitfield, weaver, aged 25; Richard Pitfield, aged 22; Amelia Pitfield, aged 8; Isabella Pitfield, aged 6; Mary Pitfield, aged 4 and Margaret Pitfield, no age given. I have listed the younger children as daughters of Bryan Robinson Pitfield and Ann Kennyon, although it is possible they were the children of Charles Robinson and Ann Pitfield. They are all listed as coming from Great Britain and intending to live in the United States.

2 It seems likely that Bryan Robinson Pitfield and his sons Charles Robinson Pitfield and John Bryan Pitfield had sailed to New York previously - probably in 1825 (Charles states he has been in New York for 30 years in the 1855 census), although I have not found them listed on any ship manifest. It seems the family were living together at the time of the 1830 census in New York.

1830 Census

State: NY, County: New York Co. Location: NYC 12th Ward, Page#: 262

Head of family given as Brian Pitfield - household (including head) contained 3 males aged 20-30, 1 male aged 60-70, 1 female aged 5-10, 2 females aged 10-15, 1 female aged 15-20, 1 female aged 20-30, 1 female aged 50-60. No slaves or free coloured persons. Total white persons in household - 10

This entry seems to include Bryan Robinson Pitfield, Ann Pitfield, 3 male children and 4 female children. The female aged 20-30 is probably Ann, the wife of Charles Robinson Pitfield.

3 1832 John Bryan Pitfield applied at New York City to become an American citizen - declared he was born in England.

Bryan A. (sic) Pitfield being sworn, doth depose and say, that he is well acquainted with John Bryan Pitfield and that the said John has resided five years within the United States, and three years next preceding his arriving at the age of twenty-one years

4 1837 Charles R Pitfield applied at New York City to become an American citizen - declared he was born in England

John Pitfield
Listed in 1841 at Botany Bay, Chorley as a plumber, with wife Elizabeth.

Listed in 1851 census at 124 Chorley Moor as being born at Canstfield, aged 65 and the Proprietor of Houses and Land. In his will he describes himself as a yeoman and lists property he owned in Chorley.

Will made 1848
...John Pitfield of Chorley in the County of Lancaster, yeoman...
...my wife Elizabeth Pitfield...
...my son James Pitfield...
...my daughter Ann Richmond wife of James Richmond...
The will was proved in 1855 when it was sworn by the executors that Ann Richmond was deceased.

Elizabeth Pitfield

1849 marriage - David's name given as David PATEFIELD son of Reuben PATEFIELD. His birthplace was Pilkington circa 1828. No christening has been found but he was the son of Reuben Patefield and Lydia Grindrod.

The first two children from the marriage were christened PATEFIELD - the rest were christened PITFIELD.

David and Sarah and their children were all named PITFIELD in the census returns.

David and Sarah were named PITFIELD when they were buried.

James Pitfield/Patefield/Peatfield/Pitsfield c.1796-1851

James Pitfield was born in Bradford, Yorkshire around 1796.
(Source Newgate Prison records PCOM 2/191 - see below)

He was originally know as Patefield or Peatfield.

It is possible that he was the James Patefield christened 25th December 1795 at Birstall, Yorkshire, the son of Joseph Patefield of Gomersal (a small village to the south of Bradford).

James Peatfield/Patefield is listed in the musters of the 3rd Foot Guards from the end of 1812 and in 1815 James Peatfield is listed in a Company commanded by Captain Masters. The company were all listed as being "On Foreign Service" and 5 men were killed on 18 June 1815, indicating they were present at the Battle of Waterloo. (WO 12/1817).

In the musters of the 3rd Foot Guards for 1817 a James Patefield was listed in the company commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Aitchison. For the period 25 December 1816-24 June 1817 he was marked "On Duty". For the period 25 June 1817-24 December 1817 James Patefield was only listed up to 21st July. No reason for his discharge was given. (WO 12/1819)

The spelling of James' surname changes from PATEFIELD or PEATFIELD to PITFIELD when he comes to the attention of the legal system.

In May 1817 a James Pitfield, was arrested in London for Burglary.

He was detained at Bridewell Prison and transferred to Newgate Prison on 26th June 1817.

Newgate Prison records (PCOM 2/191) state that James Pitsfield was aged 21, born at Bradford, Yorkshire and was a soldier in the 3rd Glos. (The Duke of Gloucester was the Colonel in Chief of the 3rd Foot Guards.)

On 4th July 1817 James Pitfield was tried at the Old Bailey before Mr Justice Parker.

> JAMES PITFIELD and CHARLES JACKSON , were indicted for feloniously breaking and entering the dwelling-house of John Keily , about three in the afternoon of the 21st of May (he and others in the said dwelling-house then being). and stealing therein, one watch, value 30s.; one chain, value 6d.; one seal, value 10s., and one watch-key, value 4s., the property of George Doubikin ; six tea-spoons, value 30s.; one pair of sugar-tongs, value 10s.; one desert-spoon, value 6s.; one broach, value 6s.; one seal stone, value 5s.; two rings, value. 10s.; one snuff-box, value 3s., and one 10l. bank note , the goods and property of William Mott . (The Proceedings of the Old Bailey)

Jackson was found not-guilty and James Pitfield was found guilty and sentenced to death.

On 22 July 1817 Viscount Sidmouth, who was the head of the Home Office, wrote to the Duke of Gloucester thanking him for a letter he had received from him in which Gloucester had inserted a letter from Lieutenant Colonel Aitchison. Sidmouth assured the Duke of Gloucester that the substance of both letters would be laid before the Prince Regent in Council when the case of James Pitfield was next brought under consideration.

On 13th August 1817 the sentence of James Pitfield was commuted to be transported for life. (PCOM 2/191)

On 8th September 1817 James Pitfield was discharged from Newgate Prison and transferred to the Prison Hulk Retribution at Sheerness. (PCOM 2/191)

On 5th November 1817 James Pitfield was discharged from the Retribution for the Lady Castlereagh. (HO9/7)

James Pitfield was listed aboard the Lady Castlereagh November 1817 for transportation to Australia. (HO 11/2)

James Pitfield is listed in N.S.W. convict indents as arriving in New South Wales aboard the Lady Castlereagh on 1st June 1818. The Lady Castlereagh left after a few days and James Pitfield landed at Hobart, Van Demeins Land, later in June 1818.

James Pitfield appears in most of the Convict Musters taken from 1818 until 1836. He was given the Police Number 36. He was employed on "Public Works" and in 1820 he was sentenced to 150 lashes and labour in the Gaol Gang for six months for stealing wheat from a mill.

James Pitfield, convict aged 22 per ship "Lady Castlereagh" married 7th August 1820 at Hobart, Tasmania to Maria Pollard, convict per ship "Janus" aged 19 years.

James and Maria had a son John Pitfield, christened at Hobart, 1820.

Maria died at Hobart 1828

James Pitfield was listed in: Nominal Return of Individuals to whom Free or Conditional Pardons have been issued during the year 1836

James Pitfield died 24th December 1851 at Hobart aged 58 years. Occupation given as stonemason. Cause of death given as asthma.

Fl/Lt. Alan Leonard Pitfield DFC. 1917-1939

Born High Street West, Hobart, Tasmania, Australia 2nd July 1917

Attended the Friends' School, Hobart; (one of 20 Quaker schools in the world).

An Air Cadet at Point Cook, Victoria (near Geelong, 25 km south west of Melbourne) from 15/07/1935 to 14/07/1936.

He embarked Melbourne on the RMS Strathnever on 14/07/1936 for London England, as one of a group of seven, to take up a Short Service RAF Commission.

21/08/1936, granted a five year Short Service Commission as a Pilot Officer, in the General Duties Branch of the Royal Air Force, 21/03/1938 - promoted Flying Officer.

21/03/1940 - promoted Flight Lieutenant

Pitfield was a member of 88 Squadron, flying Fairly Battle aircraft, a single engine light bomber. The squadron was posted to France, after the outbreak of war in September 1939.

Alan Leonard Pitfield's postings

21st. August 1936. Supernumerary at Point Cook.
11th September 1936. Number 3 Flying Training School, flying refresher course.
30th September 1936. Number 57 (Bomber) Squadron, flying duties.
15th March 1937. Number 226 (Bomber) Squadron, flying duties, in a Fairey 'Battle' medium-bomber monoplane, low-winged, 2-man, with a single Rolls Royce engine.
30th January – 4 February 1939. Number 3 School of Technical Training, parachutes.
4th July 1939, Number 12 Squadron, flying duties.
9th January 1940. Number 88 Squadron, Advanced Striking Force, Navigation Course.
12th January 1941. Previously reported missing, now reported killed in action.

In June 1940 Flight Lieutenant Alan Leonard Pitfield was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC)

12th June 1940 Fl/Lt. Alan Leonard Pitfield. DFC 39007 RAF and W/Op/Air/Gnr: Sgt. John Ballantyne 580936 RAF Age 23, took-off at 08.30 hrs from Molsy, a few days before the fall of France, to attack pontoon bridges at Pont Pointe at St.Valery.

Others in the attack witnessed the attack by the Battle L5334 on the northern end of the bridges with the aircraft disappearing below the level of nearby trees, after a tremendous amount of ground fire and crashed near Beaurepaire (Oise) 38 km south east of Beauvais, France. The attacks on the bridges were classed as successful and during the bombing they also strafed troop concentrations on the banks of the river.

Both crew members are buried at Beaurepaire Cemetery, France.

Alan Leonard Pitfield's DFC was awarded posthumously

The following is from The Mercury Newspaper, Tasmania. 25th October 1941

AIRMAN'S POSTHUMOUS HONOUR - Fl/Lt. A. Pitfield's Father Receives DFC.

An impressive ceremony took place in Franklin Square, Hobart, last night when the Distinguished Flying Cross won by the late Flight-Lieut. Alan Leonard Pitfield, RAF., was presented to his father, Mr. L. C. Pitfield, by the Governor (Sir Ernest Clark). A guard of honour was formed by a detachment of the RAAF and a detachment of the Women's Air Training Corps, and a large gathering of citizens witnessed the ceremony.

Standing with Mr. Pitfield, the Premier (Mr. Cosgrove), the District Naval Officer (Commander Stevens), and the District Commandant (Brigadier Manchester), on the flag-draped dais, Sir Ernest Clark said: "I have the honour to be deputed by the Governor-General, on behalf of the King, to hand to the next-of kin of the late Flight-Lieut. Alan Pitfield the Distinguished Flying Cross awarded to him. His Excellency then read the official record of the heroic service rendered by Flight-Lieut. Pitfield, which stated:

"During May 1940, this officer took part in six night and one day operational flights in Battle aircraft, carried out in face of strong enemy opposition, and under difficult weather conditions. He displayed magnificent courage and devotion to duty and his skill and keenness were a splendid example to the pilots of his flight."

"Do you remember those words of the Prime Minister that "never in the history of the world have so many owed so much to so few", said Sir Ernest Clark, "Alan Pitfield was one of that body of superb young men to whom the world, and especially we of the British Empire, owe so much. I have read a letter from Alan Pitfield's wing-commander which tells how heroically and joyously Pitfield undertook his dangerous duties. He says: "He acted as a splendid example to his pilots, even during our most trying times. We always found Alan smiling and eager to get on with the job. He died doing his duty, and I know he would not have wished it to be in any other way. He was a grand type, and we still miss him in the squadron."

HEROIC DEATH IN ACTION:

Relating how Flight-Lieut. Pitfield met his death, Sir Ernest Clark said: "On June 12th the enemy were holding an important bridge on the River Oise, and Alan and another pilot were ordered to attack and destroy the bridge. The pilot following Alan saw him dive on the bridge and release his bombs on the northern half, after the explosion half the bridge was completely destroyed, and Alan was seen flying close to the ground. When he did not return, he was posted as missing. About a month later, word was received through the Red Cross that he was buried near the Oise between Beaurepaire and Pont St. Maxence, France.
